Vote to Compel Joint Tax Returns

LEVY ON STATE BONDS REJECTED BY COMMITTEE

Turns Down Plea by Morgenthau.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Striking at an example of favoritism in the tax law which long has benefited married couples with large incomes, the house ways and means committee today voted to force joint income tax returns by husband and wife.

The committee offset this increase of 300 million dollars in the estimated yield of the 8 billion dollar new tax bill by refusing to approve the removal of tax exemption on interest from future or outstanding state and local securities. The treasury had proposed removing this exemption which would have yielded an extra 200 million dollars a year.

Morgenthau Favors Change.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. had criticized the option in the present law which permits married couples to file separate income tax returns. This permission, he noted, had little or no significance for most taxpayers since married couples with incomes up to $3,500 [the amount is higher in the case of married couples with dependents] pay the same total tax whether they file joint or separate tax returns.

A great difference in tax, however, was observed in the case of married couples with large incomes, especially if the income is more or less evenly divided between husband and wife.

"This difference in tax is unwarranted," Morgenthau told the committee, "since in actual operation the family is the economic unit. The adoption of mandatory joint returns would remove this tax differential and would also eliminate two specific kinds of tax avoidance which are present under existing law."

Refers to Certain States.

Morgenthau referred to the so-called community property states where the husband who earns the income may for tax purposes attribute half his earnings to his wife altho he retains the management and control of all the earnings. The result is that married couples with high incomes in these states receive a very substantial tax advantage over those living in other states. This advantage would be removed if joint returns were made mandatory.

The second source of tax avoidance referred to by the secretary was the possibility of manipulating incomes between husband and wife. For example, if the husband receives a large income from securities, he may reduce the family income tax substantially by giving a portion of his fortune to his wife.

Refuses to Tax State Issues.

The committee turned down Morgenthau's request that tax exemption of state bond issues be removed. It refused to heed his plea that "a tax system cannot be defended which in a time of grave national emergency calls upon the great mass of our taxpayers to shoulder the heavy burden of additional taxes and yet permits persons with large taxpaying ability to pay virtually nothing in taxes."

The committee thus far is about one billion dollars below the treasury's goal of 8 billions 700 millions in added revenue. It has yet to decide on the surtax rates which will be applied to individual incomes.

Warehouses Full of Sugar; Halt Delivery

DEADLINE TODAY.

Michael F. Mulcahy, local OPA rationing administrator, warned Chicagoans yesterday to use their first stamp for buying sugar by midnight tonight. After that time it will be void. Stamp No. 2 is to be used from tomorrow to May 30.

New York, May 15 [Special].—Sugar, which was placed on a half pound a week basis early this month, is piling up so fast in eastern warehouses that the OPA has ordered western beet sugar processors not to ship any more to Atlantic seaboard states, it was learned today. Sugar wholesalers thruout the country, it was reliably reported, have more on hand than they can conveniently handle.

"Our stocks are much heavier than they were at this time last year," said an official of one of the largest sugar companies.

Two reasons were advanced for the unexpected abundance. One is that housewives—ration cards or no—just aren't buying much sugar. The other is that the government, which was expected to use large quantities in the manufacture of smokeless powder, is getting much of the necessary alcohol from whisky distillers.

Believe Sugar Is Hoarded.

The sugar men, recalling that last year's 7 million ton consumption was a million tons above 1940, believe that a great many housewives have sugar hoards, regardless of what they may have told their ration boards.

"The most the public can consume under the present ration system is 4½ million tons a year," said a sugar broker. "The rate of production is much higher than that. My opinion is that the ration should be increased."

OPA officials, who are watching the situation carefully, already have said that the ration allowance may be changed after June 27, when the first four stamps have been used.

Powder Quota Cut.

Shortly after we entered the war, 3,800,000 tons of sugar were ordered from Cuba, of which 1,300,000 tons were to be used for smokeless powder. The government has since decided to use only 400,000 tons for that purpose.

An official of the OPA said today that, altho sugar was piling up in the east, he doubted that the same situation prevailed all over the country.

"We deliberately allowed large stocks of sugar to go to the east coast," he said, "because we weren't sure what the shipping situation would be and we wanted to be on the safe side."

BIGGER RATION SEEN.

Sugar distributors in Chicago, who handle the biggest volume of the commodity in the world, freely predicted last night that larger weekly allowances will be made after this rationing period ends. They say the supplies on hand will warrant such a move by the federal authorities.

The volume of sugar moving out of Chicago has dropped tremendously since rationing began, authorities said, while the influx from the south, the east, and the west is not comparably below normal. But because such huge stocks normally are carried here there has been no overtaxing of storage capacity yet.

BOMBER DIVES INTO BAY; SEVEN BELIEVED DEAD

Eureka, Cal., May 15 (AP).—A twin engine army bomber, on patrol duty off the northern California coast, crashed into Humboldt bay today and sank without leaving trace of its seven occupants. Navy headquarters at San Francisco said the crew members were:

Army Lieut. W. D. Frohlingsdorf, Virginia, Minn., the pilot.

Ensign A. C. Maher, naval reserve, New Orleans, La., co-pilot.

J. E. Jones, seaman second class, radioman, Whitney, Nev.

Sergt. W. J. Caissie, Chelsea, Mass.

Sergt. W. E. Andrews, Putnam, Tex.

Sergt. L. M. Christian, Shawnee, Okla.

Corp. S. E. Shaw, gunner, Richmond, Va.

The bomber, flying under navy supervision, was seen to fall into the water by the captain of a tanker. He reported to the coast guard, which immediately sent boats to the scene. They found wreckage identified as pieces of the bomber.

Pumps Go Dry First Day of Gas Rationing

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The old gray mare may be what she used to be, after all.

That's how it looked yesterday as thousands of automobiles along the eastern seaboard either were tucked away for the duration or were placed on gasoline diets as rationing got under way.

[Reveal 19,000 autos used by non-military federal bureaus will get unlimited gasoline supply. Story on page 6.]

New Yorkers already were shopping for new ways to get around and it appeared likely that more and more bicycles and even roller skates would be put to use.

From all parts of the area affected by rationing, which went into effect at 12:01 a. m. yesterday, came reports that gasoline pumps were running dry, partly as a result of a last minute rush by motorists to stock up before the restrictions went into effect.

Stations Run Dry.

In New York, Sol A. Herzog, counsel for the eastern states gasoline dealers' conference, estimated there wasn't a drop of the fuel in more than 15 per cent of the 700 filling stations in Manhattan and the Bronx.

"Sorry—no gas" placards appeared on many stations in the city.

Herzog said reports indicated many stations outside New York were running low, but he expressed belief that there would be enough gasoline around to fill quotas after Wednesday, with some companies planning to start deliveries Tuesday.

Drivers Losing Jobs.

Many dealers, to eke out dwindling supplies, rationed sales to trucks as well as to private cars. Many service stations reported shutting down and numerous chauffeurs said they had lost their jobs.

In New Jersey the program produced charges of political patronage and fraud and concern in the state tax department over revenue losses.

The Jersey City rationing board charged that many registrants had applied fraudulently for X cards [unlimited ration] and said it would review all applications.

Atlantic county Rationing Director Floyd A. Potter said one politician had submitted a list of persons, recommending X cards for them, but many on the list had spurned the cards.

12 U. S. ARMY MEN, 2 OF THEM OFFICERS, ARE DROWNED IN CANADA

VICTORIA, British Columbia, May 15 (AP).—Provincial police headquarters announced today that word had been received that 12 United States army men, including two officers, drowned yesterday near Fort St. John, British Columbia.

Fort St. John is on the Peace river, about 500 miles northeast of here, and on the route of the Alaska highway which the United States army is building thru western Canada.

Police reports said the men lost their lives when a pontoon capsized. Five others reached safety. No further details were available. It was believed the victims were United States engineer troops working on the Alaska highway.

BIGGEST BOMBER PLANT GOES INTO FULL OPERATION

Detroit, Mich., May 15 [Special].—The Ford Motor company's bomber plant at Willow Run, biggest airplane plant in the world, is now in full operation, army officials announced today. Details were closely guarded war department secrets.

When at capacity operation, this plant alone will produce as many heavy bombers as all the factories of the axis combined are believed to be turning out.

Construction of the plant was begun March 28, 1941, on a huge tract which Henry Ford owned. On April 8, 1941, the first concrete was poured. Less than two weeks later railroad tracks reached the plant site and the first flat cars carrying structural steel began to move in. On Aug. 15, with the roof and floor practically completed, the masons began putting up the walls.

No Customers, U.S. Quits New Water System

La Porte, Ind., May 15 [Special].—Residents of nearby Kingsbury—total population 200—wakened this morning to the twittering of birds. Nowhere could they hear the accustomed sounds of busy hammers, saws, and excavating machines.

Up and around, they looked for the accustomed sight of overalled men measuring, digging, and building. Nowhere could they find them. For two weeks those sounds and those scenes had been part of their daily lives.

Then they heard the news. The $129,000 sewage and water pumping system ordered by the Federal Works agency had been abandoned. The workmen, tools, and machines had been ordered moved two miles up the road to start anew on another sewage and water pumping system.

Building Is Uncompleted.

But the workers left behind them a relic of their work, a three quarters completed building which was to have housed the water pumping machinery of the $129,000 water system.

Kingsbury stands 12 miles southeast of La Porte, on the edge of a 45 million dollar ordnance plant. Many thousands of men and women are employed there.

In preparation for an increased population in Kingsbury from the influx of munitions workers, the Federal Works agency ordered the construction of a sewage and water plant. It was based on the assumption that housing in the little community would increase sixfold. However, the workers went to live in La Porte and elsewhere. The increase did not develop so far as Kingsbury was concerned.

Project Called Off.

That doomed the water and sewage project, according to J. H. Collins, FWA construction engineer.

"When the Federal Works agency found that no housing had been built, it decided to call off the project," he said.

However, not to be stopped the FWA now will concentrate on a boom city two miles away to be called Kingsford Heights and to accommodate 10,000 residents. At present the boom city is on paper.

On paper also will be a notation that the wasted two weeks' work on the abandoned water project in Kingsbury cost about $6,450, based on Engineer Collins' estimate that the abandoned work had been 5 per cent completed.

BRITISH GET OUT OF BURMA; JAPS IMPERIL CHINA

Call Threat Gravest in 5 Years of War.

NEW DELHI, India, May 15 (AP).—Remnants of the British army from Burma straggled across the border into India today while the Japanese pushed westward behind them and simultaneously probed deeper into China.

[Why Burma fell; lack of men and planes cited. Details on page 4.]

A military spokesman said the British, now estimated to number hardly more than 5,000, had extricated themselves from a dangerous salient in the Chindwin valley of northwest Burma, escaping a Japanese attempt to get between them and the Indian frontier.

They had to destroy their heavy equipment, since they could not move it thru the roadless wilderness where the streams were newly flooded by sudden rainstorms.

Evacuate Demolition Force.

Another small British force which had been left far behind in the port town of Akyab to do demolition work has been evacuated to India by sea.

British bombers again attacked Japanese barges on the Chindwin river, and United States army flyers from India bombed the Myitkyina airdrome in north Burma yesterday for the second day in a row. Maj. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton's headquarters said all American planes returned safely after destroying 15 Japanese aircraft.

Altho the Japanese were busily consolidating their hold on Burma, there was scant indication that the end of the four month battle would mark the beginning of a long expected assault on India.

Despite roundabout axis reports relayed by the Vichy radio that the Japanese already were 68 miles inside India on the way to Chittagong, dispatches from China and information here indicated the belief that the Japanese would concentrate in an effort to smash the ill-equipped armies of China.

[The German radio reported Friday night that Japanese planes destroyed 14 allied craft on an airdrome in Manipur state, on the Indian side of the Indo-Burman frontier.]

Gravest Threat in Five Years.

As the Chinese admitted loss of Tengyueh, important caravan town in western Yunnan province, the threat to China appeared the most serious in nearly five years of stubborn warfare against the Japanese invaders.

The Chinese said they still had some forces in Burma, within 25 miles of Japanese-held Myitkyina, and that another column was within striking distance of the border town of Wanting, but the Japanese appeared to be paying little heed to these units. Instead, they concentrated on reënforcing their spearhead in China itself.

The Chinese expressed confidence that situation would soon be stabilized, but the Japanese already have isolated China from her allies, have pushed 125 miles up the Burma road, and are sending other forces northward into China from the Thailand and French Indo-China border zones.

The main Japanese column was reported in combat with the Chinese at Hungmushu, on the west bank of the swift Salween river. The east bank is held in strength by the Chinese, who have destroyed the river bridges to prevent a Japanese advance on toward Paoshan, 55 miles farther up the road.

Report 4,000 Jap Casualties.

CHUNGKING, China, May 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—Chinese troops battling the Japanese in the Tengyueh-Lungling areas of Yunnan province in the past week have inflicted more than 4,000 casualties on the invaders, the Central News agency reported today.

The Japanese were reported shelling Chinese positions on the east bank of the Salween river in a night and day pounding, but the agency dispatch from Paoshan, 55 miles from Lungling, said little damage was done.

Meanwhile Chinese dispatches from the coastal province of Chekiang reported that the Japanese had massed 20,000 troops in the north for a drive southward to smash Chinese air bases which Japanese airmen have been trying to destroy. The Japanese are apprehensive lest these bases serve for additional raids on Tokio and other Japanese home cities.

DIGEST OF WAR NEWS FROM MAIN WORLD FRONTS

Latest war developments:

A surprise bombing attack on the Japanese air base at Lae, New Guinea, was disclosed in a communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters in Australia. Large fires were reported set by the allied planes.

The Russians claimed the destruction of more than 400 German tanks in the battle of Kharkov, industrial city in the Ukraine, and said stubborn fighting was in progress on the Kerch peninsula in the Crimea. Germany claimed heavy losses were being inflicted on Red forces attempting to flee across the Kerch peninsula into the city of Kerch and that the Nazis were near the gates of the city. They said there was fighting near Kharkov.

Five thousand British troops from Burma, destroying heavy equipment as they retreated, were admitted to have crossed the border into India. Japanese forces were said to be pushing westward behind them and to be driving deeper into China by way of the Burma road. British and American bombers attacked Japanese shipping and an air field in Burma. Loss of Tengyueh, caravan town in Yunnan province, was acknowledged by the Chinese.

How Sub Took Riches Off U.S. Island Fortress

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—The navy department today made public one of the most dramatic stories of the war in disclosing how an American submarine crept into Manila bay before the fall of Bataan with supplies for the besieged forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and stole away with the larger part of the wealth of the Philippines in gold, silver, and negotiable securities.

The daring mission was carried out under the very noses of Jap lookouts on land and sea and in the air. During the two days required to unload ammunition and load the vast store of wealth the submarine and its crew escaped notice.

Receive Army Decorations.

Lieut. Comm. Frank W. Fenno of Westminster, Mass., was in command of the submarine. He was awarded the distinguished service cross for the feat and each of the men in his command received the silver star. The awards were made by the war department for the valuable service rendered to the defending Philippine forces. In addition Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. commended Fenno and his crew in a letter to the navy department.

News of the exploit was withheld by the navy department because the Japanese did not know submarines were being used to send supplies of ammunition and drugs to the defenders of the islands. Francis B. Sayre, high commissioner to the Philippines, reported on his arrival in this country a few weeks ago that the riches had been removed from the Philippines, but the story was killed at the order of the navy department.

Woodbury Willoughby, former financial adviser to the Philippines, now in Washington, had charge of the collection of the money and securities in a dozen Manila banks. He was permitted to tell the story yesterday.

Gather Wealth Amid Bombs.

"Air raid warning after air raid warning sounded during the days and weeks we were busy collecting the funds in Manila and other points on the island," Willoughby said. "Frequently bombs fell close about us, taking their toll of lives and property. An office in the Philippine treasury which was used by our men was demolished by a bomb hit.

"As shipments were collected, we took them at night to the docks in Manila and transported them to Corregidor. The docks we were using were blasted. Bombs fell in the water near the boats as we transferred the riches to the island fortress.

"It was the same story on Cor-

U. S. SHIP SUNK BY 3 TORPEDOES; 27 SAILORS DIE

Sub Lies in Wait at River's Mouth.

Dim Out Southeast

Atlanta, Ga., May 15 (AP).—An order prohibiting many types of lighting and restricting others along the southeastern coast was issued today by Maj. Gen. William Bryden, 4th corps area commander. The order is applicable to all lighting for 10 miles inland and for lighting in cities of more than 5,000 population, within 30 miles of the coast. States affected are North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and all of Florida except the extreme northwestern portion. Similar regulations already are in force along the rest of the eastern seaboard to prevent silhouetting of ships to the advantage of axis submarines. Illuminated signs, floodlights and sports parks lighting all are on the prohibited list. Street lights are to be dimmed and structures along shorelines are to blackout all windows except those facing inland.

New Orleans, La., May 15 [Special].—A submarine which lay in wait at the mouth of the Mississippi river sank a large American cargo ship Tuesday afternoon, killing 27 members of her crew. The raid was announced today by the 8th naval district.

The attack was made in the brightness of a midafternoon sun when the big ship had stopped a mile and a half from the river's mouth, waiting for a pilot to take her into the river. Three torpedoes were fired into her port side, the first striking at 3:05 p. m. and the other two hitting the ship a few minutes afterward. The submarine also shelled the freighter, and she sank in 100 feet of water. Sixteen crew members were rescued.

Fifth Ship Attacked in Gulf.

The attack brought to 171 the number of vessels sunk in American waters since Pearl Harbor, with 1,063 known dead, 1,253 missing and believed lost, and 5,304 rescued. The ship was the fifth attacked in the Gulf of Mexico in less than a week and the fourth one sunk. One ship, damaged by a submarine, was towed to port.

Flames enveloped the ship after it had been struck by the second torpedo, and survivors said most of the 27 who lost their lives were trapped without a chance of escape. The navy said the bodies of only seven were recovered.

The 16 survivors, who were picked up by coast guard crews, suffered burns and it was feared six of them would die. The 16 escaped by jumping from the windward side of the ship and letting the current carry them away.

Flame and Smoke Divide.

"I was in my bunk when the first torpedo hit," said Herbert Dann of the Dalles, Ore., one of the survivors. "I ran on deck, then dashed back to get my life preserver, pants, and papers. When I got back on deck I saw the conning tower of the submarine 1,000 yards away. The submarine then began to shell us.

"After the ship started to burn there was nothing but flames around me. I thought I was a goner, but I called on the Lord for help. The flames and smoke divided and I saw the ship's rail and jumped overboard."

The hero of the attack was Mike Kuzma of St. Paul, Minn., who jumped into the water without a life belt and helped Bert MacDowell of Lima, O., and Turner O. Hanley of Morales, Tex., keep afloat until rescuers arrived.

Ship Burns 6½ Hours.

Only a few minutes before this MacDowell had carried Albert H. Simmons of Houston, Tex., the ship's second assistant engineer, to safety from the engine room.

The ship, the name and cargo of which were not made public, was inbound from the Gulf of Mexico at the time of the attack. She burned six and a half hours before sinking. One of those who lost his life was identified as Gale Burk of Dieterich, Ill., and one of the survivors was identified as Ruben Guerra of Chicago.

The navy also announced that an

MAGAZINE TELLS PLANS TO PURGE 29 CONGRESSMEN

All Are Classed as Foes of Communism.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—A special supplement of the left wing magazine New Republic, just published, announces the undertaking of the so-called Union for Democratic Action to "purge" three senators and 26 representatives in the congressional elections this year.

Inquiry disclosed today that the state department has a dossier on the Union for Democratic Action which it keeps in its officially denominated "communist activities file."

The Dies committee on un-American activities also has extensive records concerning the organizers and members of the UDA, as well as their memberships in hundreds of other communist front organizations.

On List for Purge.

Senators on the UDA purge list are Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], and W. Lee O'Daniel [D., Tex.]. The representatives are Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.], Stephen A. Day [R., Ill.], Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.], Paul Shafer [R., Mich.], Howard W. Smith [D., Va.], Martin Dies [D., Tex.], William P. Lambertson [R., Kas.], Harold Knutson [R., Minn.], Eugene E. Cox [D., Ga.], William B. Barry [D., N. Y.], Frank Keefe [R., Wis.], Leland Ford [R., Cal.], Charles Faddis [D., Pa.], Everett Dirksen [R., Ill.], Dewey Short [R., Mo.], Joshua L. Johns [R., Wis.], Martin Sweeney [D., O.], John Rankin [D., Miss.], Karl Mundt [R., S. D.], James Van Zandt [R., Pa.], Joseph Starnes [D., Ala.], Thomas Winter [R., Mass.], Harry Coffee [D., Neb.], J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.], James F. O'Connor [D., Mont.], and Frederick Smith [R., O.].

Most of these members were leading noninterventionists before Pearl Harbor, but not all of them. Representatives Dies, Starnes, Smith of Virginia and Cox, for example, consistently supported the administration's war policies before Pearl Harbor. But they are outstanding foes of communism.

Marcantonio Not Listed.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio [A. L., N. Y.], who has been characterized by former Postmaster General James A. Farley as the only Communist member of congress, is not on the UDA purge list. During the period of the Hitler-Stalin alliance from August, 1939, to June, 1941, Marcantonio consistently opposed the administration's war policy measures and even voted against some of the most important authorizations and appropriations for our own army and navy. But he is a patriot to the UDA.

Attacked as Obstructionists.

The New Republic "purge" issue violently attacks THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, accusing it of "treachery." The senators and representatives on the purge list are termed "obstructionists." The magazine disclaims any intention of implying that they alone were obstructionists or that others should be forgiven. "In the house, perhaps the most dangerous man of all, since he is one of the most powerful, is Joseph Martin [Republican leader]," the article states.

The magazine makes the flat charge that Sen. Brooks "has found real buddies among the Ku Klux Klanners. On Aug. 27, 1940, at Rockford, Ill., Sen. Brooks spoke to 60,000 Klansmen and stamped this hate-renascence party with the prestige of his high office."

"Of course this is a contemptible smear," said Sen. Brooks. "I spoke on that day to approximately 100,000 persons attending the annual Trask Bridge picnic, which is the oldest and largest farmers' picnic in the middle west. The speech was broadcast nationally and recorded for the news reels."

Linked to PM.

Kenneth G. Crawford, Washington correspondent of Marshall Field's PM in New York, is a member of the executive committee of the UDA. PM has been described on the floor of the house as the uptown edition of the Daily Worker.

Former Rep. Thomas R. Amlie of Wisconsin is the director of UDA's Washington bureau. After Amlie had been repudiated by the Progressive party in 1938 President Roosevelt nominated him for the Interstate Commerce commission but was forced to withdraw the nomination to prevent certain rejection by the senate. Members of the Interstate Commerce committee said they could not stomach his program of revolution.

Officers of Organization.

Officers of the UDA, all well known fellow travelers of the Communists, are Frank Kingdon, president; Reinhold Niebuhr, chairman; Robert Bendiner, John L. Childs, and Franz Daniel, vice chairmen; Freda Kirchwey, treasurer; Murray Gross, secretary, and James Loeb Jr., executive secretary.

Miss Kirchwey, or Mrs. Evans Clark, is editor of the Nation, another proletarian organ which closely follows the Communist party line. As long ago as 1927, she was listed as a member of the executive board and one of the owners of the New Masses, an official organ of the Communist party, in its own statement.

The following account of the UDA is contained in the files of the state department:

"The Union for Democratic Action, despite its name, is an aggregation of persons whose chief claim to public attention is their long record of affiliation with the front organizations of the Communist party.

"Even more sinister than the past records of the union's members is the objective of the group. That objective may be summarized briefly as the utilization of America's war crisis for the purpose of effecting what the union believes to be a program of social gains. Translated into stark realism, the union's idea of social gains is the entrenchment of the proponents of class struggle even more deeply into American life.

"The case against the Union for Democratic Action may be stated in brief by calling attention to the fact that its outstanding leaders have long records of affiliation with the numerous front organizations of the communist party.

Affiliated with Communists.

"To cite only a few of these individuals, the following may be named: Reinhold Niebuhr, Freda Kirchwey, John L. Childs, Frank Kingdon, A. Philip Randolph, Herman F. Reissig, Margaret Forsyth, and Morris Schnapper. These eight individuals, who are typical of the entire membership of the Union for Democratic Action, have had at least 192 affiliations with communist front organizations. The affiliations with communist fronts of all the members of the union would represent a grand total of several thousand.

"Glancing at the list of communist fronts in which the foregoing eight individuals have been active as leaders, we find the following: American League Against War and Fascism, American League for Peace and Democracy, American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom, American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born, Medical Bureau and North American Committee to Aid Spanish Democracy, American Student union, American Youth congress, National Negro congress, The New Masses, the Communist party, and the League of American Writers."

McNARY PILES UP LEAD FOR SENATE IN OREGON VOTE

Gov. Sprague Trailing for Renomination.

Portland, Ore., May 15 (AP).—Sen. Charles L. McNary, senate Republican leader and Vice Presidential candidate two years ago, appeared to have won renomination in today's Oregon primary on the basis of incomplete but well distributed returns.

Running against Arthur M. Geary, Portland attorney, McNary, who did not conduct a campaign because the war kept him on the job in the national capital, had 42,486 votes to Geary's 10,350 in 650 of the 1,770 precincts. His lead was mounting steadily. Geary charged McNary had lagged in his war effort. His slogan was "MacArthurism Versus McNaryism."

Scanty Lead Over Milne.

Fragmentary and inconclusive returns gave Walter W. Whitbeck, Portland, a scanty lead over Dr. Macbeth A. Milne, Portland dentist, for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Gov. Charles A. Sprague trailed for Republican renomination, returns from 129 precincts giving Secretary of State Earl Snell 7,738 votes to Sprague's 5,898.

For the Democratic nomination for the office of governor Howard Latourette, Democratic national committeeman, had 758 votes to 735 for State Sen. Lew Wallace in 40 precincts.

Congressmen in Lead.

Representatives Homer Angell, Republican, and Walter M. Pierce, Democrat, built up leads. Angell, in returns from 93 of the 443 precincts in the 3d district, had 4,178 votes to 1,358 for John M. Schofield. In returns from 13 of the 433 precincts in the 2d district Pierce held a 299 to 182 margin over Charles H. Hack, Klamath Falls.

Rep. James W. Mott, Republican, had no opposition for the 1st district Republican nomination.

For the first time the voters balloted in four instead of three congressional districts. The 4th district showed indications of close races.

JAPAN LAUNCHES 6 BATTLESHIPS, GERMANS CLAIM

BERLIN, May 15 [From German broadcasts]—(AP).—A report that the Japanese navy launched two 45,000 ton battleships and four of 35,000 tons last year and will launch three more battleships this year was published today by DNB.

In a dispatch from Milan, Italy, the German news agency quoted a Tokio correspondent as saying, on the basis of these figures that "the United States navy no longer has a five to three advantage over the Japanese navy." [The figures quoted for Japanese construction are far in excess of those credited by united nation authorities.]

Hawaii to Hold Elections in November as Usual

HONOLULU, T. H., May 15 (AP).—November elections will be held thruout the Hawaiian Islands as usual unless the military situation requires otherwise, Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, military governor, said today.

933 Businesses Close, 452 Open in Hawaii Since War

HONOLULU, T. H., May 15 (AP).—The territorial commission on labor and industrial relations reported today that 933 employers in the Hawaiian Islands had gone out of business since the attack on Pearl Harbor last Dec. 7 while 452 new employers had started business.

LABELING PICNIC KLAN GATHERING AROUSES GRANGE

Quickly Refutes Story of Leftist Magazine.

Rockford, Ill., May 15 [Special].—The attempt of the left wing magazine New Republic to brand the annual Trask bridge picnic, largest annual one day agricultural festival in the nation, as a gathering of Klansmen drew bitter protests today from officers of Burritt Grange, sponsor of the affair.

The magazine, in a special supplement in its current issue calling for the purging of 3 senators and 26 representatives in the fall congressional elections, described the speech of Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] at this picnic in 1940 as a talk to 60,000 Klansmen. The magazine said that Brooks' appearance at the picnic "stamped this hate renascence party with the prestige of his high office."

Denies Any Affiliations.

"Burritt Grange is a farm organization and nothing else," asserted Horace M. Brown, master of the grange. "It is entirely without any political, religious or any other kind of ties, and the farmers of this whole community, who attend the picnic every year, know it.

"When we have political speakers, we invite representatives of all parties. At the picnic at which Brooks spoke, Harry B. Hershey, then Democratic nominee for governor, also delivered a speech."

Brown said he doubts if very many farmers of Burritt township know what the Ku Klux Klan is. About 50 farm families are members of the grange, he said, representing all varieties of political and religious beliefs.

Manager Describes Picnic.

Walter Potter, who for several years has been in charge of picnic arrangements for the grange, said the Klan never has been remotely connected with it. The affair is held in a 100 acre natural park near the Trask bridge over the Pecatonica river. The farmers who attend come from northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and even from Iowa, 80 miles away, he said.

Potter recalled that altho the crowd attending the 1940 picnic appeared to be dominantly Republican, there were many Roosevelt buttons in evidence, including one on the lapel of Kenneth Watts, master of the grange that year.

SEIZED IN FLAT AFTER PALS SAY HE'S A ROBBER

Albert Firek, 22 years old, was arrested last night in his apartment at 220 North Pine avenue as the companion of a man and woman arrested Thursday for robbery.

Firek was named by Mrs. Helen Fritts, 4419 Magnolia avenue, and Nick Liberatore, 1529 Noble street, as their companion in the robbery of John Cahr in his tavern at 2025 North Cicero avenue Wednesday. Cahr lost $82 to the two men, while a woman stayed at the wheel of the getaway car.

Cahr identified Firek and Liberatore, who confessed, Town Hall police said.

F. D. R. Calls Fall Election Statement Perfectly Silly

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—A magazine article's statement that next November's elections might be the most important since the Civil war was described by President Roosevelt today as categorical and perfectly silly. Informed at a press conference that the magazine was the New Republic, he remarked he had not read that magazine for a long time.

NEW RECORD SET IN PRODUCTION OF LIBERTY VESSEL

Wilmington, N. C., May 15 [Special].—The North Carolina Shipbuilding company, established here a little more than 15 months ago, this week laid claim to a national record for the production of 10,000 ton Liberty freighters with the delivery of the S. S. John Penn to the maritime commission 29 days after its launching.

Officials of the shipbuilding company said that previous records of 38 days and of 33 days respectively had been held by the Richmond Shipbuilding company of Richmond, Va., and the Oregon Shipyards.

Construction of the shipyards here started Feb. 4, 1941. The company has launched 10 ships from the yard's nine ways since Dec. 6, with another launching scheduled for May 17. Eight of the ships are now in service.

A POET ESSAYS TO CRACK DOWN ON NEWSPAPERS

MacLeish Lectures Press on Its Conduct.

Various individuals and organizations have attacked The Chicago Tribune because of its insistence on an all-out American war effort. In the belief the public should know the background of these attacks, The Tribune is printing factual stories about its detractors from time to time. Another in this series is presented below.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—A curly locked Harvard poet and darling of the Communist intellectuals today is riding herd on the American press.

Archibald MacLeish was appointed librarian of congress three years ago but spends little time among his five million books. The library post is a $10,000 a year meal ticket. His principal job is that of director of the Office of Facts and Figures. As such he is busy cracking down on newspapers which have been critical of blundering in the conduct of the war.

Not unmindful of the fact that there is an election in November, MacLeish journeyed to New York in the latter part of April and laid down the law for the American newspapers in two speeches. One was delivered before the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the other before the annual meeting of the Associated Press.

Attacks Three Newspapers.

The chief of the OFF vigorously attacked the patriotism of three newspapers, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the New York News, and the Washington Times-Herald, which have been for all-out efforts to win the war without regard to the careers of public officials.

He demanded the American press purge its own ranks of "those of its own membership who follow, consciously or unconsciously, the axis lead."

"The press, in its own interest as well as in the national interest, must expose and counteract those of its members who, at this moment of national peril, are attempting to influence American opinion, not in the direction of American victory, but in the direction of American defeat," solemnly declared MacLeish in his address before the Associated Press gathering.

Concentrate on Three Papers.

Other papers had been critical in varying degrees of severity. But it was decided at a meeting of various government "information" specialists in MacLeish's office in February to concentrate the fire on THE TRIBUNE, the News, and the Times-Herald, it is learned from reliable sources.

An elaborate campaign was charted at this meeting. The propaganda barrage was set off in a few newspapers, via radio, on the lecture platform, and by such eager allies among the magazines as the Time-Life-Fortune axis and the radical publications.

No more eager allies were found than MacLeish's old friends in the Communist party. The Reds in this country are carrying out their program to sovietize the United States with more respectability than ever before because they can now do so under cover of the Russian war effort. THE TRIBUNE has always fought this movement and is a principal target for the Communists.

Identified with Radicals.

There is one school of thought here in Washington which holds that OFF is developing and applying the techniques of Dr. Goebbels, the Nazi propaganda chief. MacLeish, of course, is no Goebbels. He is much handsomer than Goebbels.

MacLeish has been identified with the radical intellectuals for years. A leading light of his office, Malcolm Cowley, was forced to resign his high paying OFF job in March after Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.], of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities revealed Cowley had a history of 72 connections with the Communist party and its front organizations.

The Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, had an account in the editions of June 8, 1937, of the election of MacLeish as vice president of the League of American Writers, which had evolved from the League of Revolutionary Writers. The league was sponsored as a front organization by the Reds.

Browder Guest Speaker.

Earl Browder, national secretary of the Communist party who is now in federal prison serving time for passport fraud, was the guest speaker at the league's meeting in 1937. MacLeish introduced Browder to the members.

The Daily Worker's reporter wrote: "It was a genuinly people's front meeting, and at such a meeting it was significant and proper that Browder spoke as a Communist. By doing so he gave a tone and necessary sense of direction the meeting might not otherwise have had."

MacLeish also espoused the cause of the "loyalists" in the Spanish civil war and was active in the affairs of several Spanish aid groups which were promoted by the Communists in this country. He wrote an article for the New Masses, Communist magazine, in 1937 wherein he argued at considerable length a justification of his association with Communists in the Spanish "loyalist" cause.

Called Fellow Traveler.

When his appointment as librarian of congress was pending before the senate in June of 1939, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas [Rep., N. J.], a member of the Dies committee on un-American activities, described MacLeish as a "ranking fellow traveler."

"MacLeish has not only been frequently in the company of the communist leaders in this country, he has accepted official positions in the 'united front' organizations which they have set up for the purpose of propagandizing their particular brand of totalitarian revolution in this country," said Thomas.

The American Library association and leaders in the profession formally protested MacLeish's appointment because of his lack of experience.

Born in Illinois on May 7, 1892, the OFF director was the son of Andrew MacLeish, Chicago merchant and philanthropist. His mother was formerly president of Rockford college.

Writes Own Biography.

In the book, "Living Authors," by Stanley Jasspon Kunitz, MacLeish has written his own biography. He related he went to Yale and then to Harvard Law school to "avoid going to work." MacLeish recounts his World war record as follows:

"Went abroad in a hospital unit so as to do the right thing but not be hurt. In France got shifted to the field artillery out of shame; few weeks at the front north of Meaux in July 1918; sent home to take battery in new regiment of 155 G. P. S., ended up a captain of field artillery at Camp Meade with no distinction but fact that my brother Kenneth had been a grand flyer and had been killed."

After the war he tried his hand at poetry, practiced some law in Boston, lived on his farm in Connecticut and became an associate editor of Fortune magazine. He was a student adviser at Harvard when Washington beckoned. In "Who's Who" he lists himself as a "poet."

Wins Divorce

LYNNE CARVER.

Los Angeles, May 15 (AP).—Actress Lynne Carver of Birmingham, Ala., won a divorce today after she testified her husband, Nicholas Nayfack, studio executive, was abusive and moody.

"I became ill, lost weight, couldn't eat and was unable to carry on my work as an actress," she said.

Nayfack, she said, is in Washington, D. C., awaiting a naval commission.

CIO FUR UNION HEARS 2 REDS ASSAIL TRIBUNE

Both Have Police Records for Communist Activity.

Abe Feinglass.

Communist elements in the International Fur and Leather Workers' union [CIO], which is holding its 14th biennial convention in the Stevens hotel, applauded yesterday when a Chicago union official declared that "appeasers such as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE must be smoked out."

The speaker was Abe Feinglass, manager of local 45 of the Fur Workers' union. Records kept by Lieut. Make Mills, retired head of the detective bureau squad investigating alien and subversive activities, show that Feinglass, a stout, squat individual, 33 years old, was born in Bessarabia, near the Rumanian-Russian border, and has been arrested several times for communist activities.

"This man Feinglass is a thorogoing Communist," Lieut. Mills asserted.

President Attacks Tribune.

Feinglass, the records of the police show, came to Chicago in 1923. In 1938 he was an instructor in the Chicago Workers school [communist]. He has also been on the advisory board of the International Labor Defense.

At an earlier session of the convention Ben Gold, the international union president, had spoken along the same lines against THE TRIBUNE.

Mills' records show that Gold was a member of the advisory council of the Communist party in New York 15 years ago, that he was the party candidate for president of the New York board of aldermen in 1933.

Early in 1940 Gold was convicted of violating the Sherman anti-trust law in connection with strike warfare in which a now defunct needle trades union attempted to take over the New York fur trade by force. He was fined $2,500 and sentenced to a year in jail, but the conviction later was reversed.

Indorsed by Peace Mobilization.

Gold, according to Mills, was indorsed, before Germany attacked the soviets, by the American Peace Mobilization, which was attacked officially for striving to lower morale in the navy. This was while the communists were claiming that Finland had been persuaded by capitalists to "attack" Russia.

The international union now has approved the war effort of the United States. Members pledged themselves to purchase bonds, to give 10 hours of labor free to make aviation leather jerkins for soldiers, and to waive overtime pay rates while working on aviation suits.

MRS. F. D. R. FLIES TO FLORIDA FOR BEACH WEEK-END

Miami Beach, Fla., May 15 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, arrived by air today for a week-end on the beach. She said Washington authorities were glad of her chance to see the army air corps' training activities, which are carried on all about the beach.

"They thought I was a good reporter and could tell the President what I saw," she said. "There is a feeling of great concern in Washington every time a tanker is sunk."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would spend most of her time on the beach and would leave Monday. She was a guest of Brig. Gen. Ralph H. Wooten, air corps commandant, and Mrs. Wooten, but the army said no formal entertainment was planned.

FINED ON GAMBLING CHARGES.

Judge Oscar Caplan in South State Street court yesterday imposed fines ranging from $5 to $10 on seven men charged with handbook violations and on seven colored men and women charged with working policy games.

Reported Missing

Lieut. F. V. Berley.

Several Chicagoans in the navy and marine corps were reported missing by the navy department yesterday. They are:

Lieut. Ferdinand Victory Berley, a physician with the navy medical corps, last heard from while serving with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces on Bataan. He is 29 years old and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Berley, live at 4153 Congress street.

Pvt. Clarence P. Gustafson, a marine, 27 years old, whose mother, Mrs. Mary Ebenholtz, lives at 2248 North Springfield avenue. Gustafson, when last heard from, was in the Philippines. He previously had been wounded and decorated.

Fred Wroble, 2323 North Lockwood avenue, a machinist's mate first class, who is missing in the Manila bay area. He is 33 years old and has been in the navy 10 years. His wife, Marie, had received word that he is a prisoner.

Sergt. Wyvon L. Myrick, a marine for nine years, member of a "capitulating force in the Pacific area," is 31 years old. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Myrick, live at 1022 North Kedzie avenue.

Mrs. Alma Duncan, 523 Fairfield street, Elmhurst, last heard from her son Robert, 30 years old, in July, 1940, when he wrote her from Pearl Harbor. On May 9 she was notified he was missing in action and believed either to have been killed or taken prisoner on the Bataan peninsula or Corregidor Island. He enlisted in the navy in November, 1939, as a radio man 2d class.

RECRUIT'S AUTO STOLEN.

Walter Zieth and Harold Larsen of Kenosha, Wis., both due to report to the navy in Milwaukee May 24, last night reported to police Zieth's car was stolen from the front of a hotel at 1019 North Dearborn street, while they were out for a final fling in Chicago.

ITALIANS CLAIM U. S. HAS JOINED IN LIBYAN FIGHT

Rome Excited by Rumors of Offensive Moves.

New York, May 15 [Special].—Roman radio and press military commentators this afternoon appeared to be evincing considerable nervousness over the possibility of a British-American offensive against axis positions in Libya, according to private advices reaching the New York Times.

Rumors in the Italian capital claim that this offensive has already begun with intensified royal air force activity. Crews of "some" planes brought down, according to general belief, "contained high ranking American pilot officers . . . while the type of plane involved was most assuredly American."

Sea Concentrations Rumored.

Nervousness increased when the newspaper Giornale d'Italia reported this afternoon that British-American naval and air force concentrations had been seen by reconnaissance planes and that the Italians had taken "necessary measures." The newspaper added: "The Anglo-Saxons have succeeded recently in transporting strong reënforcements to their Egyptian bases."

Rumor had it that the Anglo-American naval forces had concentrated "in the neighborhood of Tripoli." Specific reference is made to the "luck of the Anglo-Saxon camp" in that a large part of the German air force formations which have been bearing the brunt of fighting over the Sicilian channel had just left Italy for the eastern front.

Rommel's Recall Reported.

There was further reason for dismay in the reported recall of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the German Afrika Korps—also unconfirmed, altho he has been reported in Vienna and Berlin during the last 48 hours by competent Stockholm circles—who was believed about to receive a command on the eastern front. His successful holding of British offensives in North Africa to date had led the average Italian to consider him a fixture there.

In any case, for whatever reasons there may be, reports from Italy indicate intensified troop movements southward, while an atmosphere of feverish excitement is said to prevail at the war office accompanied by unaccustomed activity.

Baltimore, Md., May 15 (AP).—Spencer Tracy, the actor, is in Johns Hopkins hospital undergoing what was described as a periodic examination. He is 42 years old.

Freed on Writ

MRS MARGARET EVERETT.

A last minute writ of habeas corpus saved Mrs. Margaret Everett, 32 years old, 6333 South Green street, from the county jail late yesterday.

She was arrested on an attachment for failure to pay a $250 judgment awarded last February to her neighbor, Mrs. Grace Church, 6335 Green street, in a slander suit. Mrs. Church alleged that Mrs. Everett called her a vile name in public at a polling place during a primary election three years ago.

The judgment carried a malice count under which Mrs. Everett is liable to incarceration up to six months, or until she pays the judgment. Mrs. Church, however, must pay her jail board at the rate of $3.50 a week. Yesterday Mrs. Church's lawyer, Ruel Gruneman, paid the first week's board. Mrs. Everett was taken to jail. A few minutes later Mrs. Everett's lawyer, Charles Waldman, obtained her release on the writ. Judge Francis Allegretti will decide Monday whether Mrs. Everett goes back to jail.

POLICE AND FIRE SHOW CANCELED TILL WAR ENDS

There will be no Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in 1942.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that a decision to omit the annual exhibition of the work of the two city forces had been reached in conferences with representatives of the two departments and THE TRIBUNE which for the last four years has sponsored the show for the benefit of the police and fire benevolent funds.

"It was agreed that the show should not be given in a war year," said the mayor, "but that it will be resumed as soon as possible and that the sponsorship of THE TRIBUNE will continue."

Much of the man power of the departments, particularly that of the police force, is now occupied with defense assignments and other war activities.

STORY OF BURMA WAR: A LACK OF PLANES AND MEN

Find Jap Success Attained at Small Cost.

BY DANIEL DE LUCE.

CALCUTTA, India, May 15 [Wide World].—Two factors shaped the course of the war in Burma which so far has been so disastrous to the British and Chinese.

One was the long delay in accepting and bringing the veteran Chinese troops who, in proper numbers, would have been capable of making the Rangoon delta as tough a nut to crack as Crimea.

The second was the expulsion of allied aircraft from Burma bases by concentrated Japanese bombing and strafing of all available landing grounds.

The first factor decided the campaign; the second turned reverses into complete evacuation because the allied armies had to fight blindly without aerial reconnaissance.

This opinion comes from high officers—British, Chinese, and American.

Japanese Use Only Four Divisions.

By the maximum use of an army authoritatively estimated not to exceed four divisions and an air force probably not over 450 planes, Japan drove a massive wedge from the Bay of Bengal nearly to the borders of Tibet in an amazing four-month campaign that practically separated two of her greatest foes and made their territories mere islands of resistance.

What the Japanese won in four months would be cheap at almost any price, but they actually got it at small cost.

Opposing them in the first half of the campaign were two imperial divisions combined with an RAF and an AVG [American Volunteer group] force of less than 150 aircraft.

One Chinese army, equivalent in numbers to one Japanese division, but with only a fraction of the Japanese fire power, bolstered the allied lines in the last two months. Another Chinese army was waiting immobilized in the Shan states, spread so thin along a 400 mile frontier that it was cut to ribbons by the first heavy Japanese thrust late in April.

Facts Can Be Told Now.

These facts may now be told, since the information no longer is of military value.

Burma was more poorly prepared for war than Malaya and Java, but even so, with great reserves of allied man power near by in China and India, if Burma could have been held it would have been a springboard for a united nations offensive squarely across the line of Japanese expansion in the South Pacific.

It was the back door to Japanese bases in Indo-China and Thailand. It was also part of China's lifeline since it contained the Burma road.

Sometime in December the united nations strategy went awry. Enthusiasts envisioned at that time huge Chinese armies streaming into Burma immediately. But they did not arrive. Native Burmese ministers protested against possible entrance of the Chinese. Chungking's offer to share the defense of lower Burma was refused.

Natives No Match for Foe.

While battle tested Chinese regulars stood a thousand miles away in Yunnan province, a few battalions of Burma Rifles—raw, uncertain native levies—were all that guarded the long Tenasserin coast across the little Gulf of Martaban from Rangoon.

These Burma Rifles looked good on the parade ground. They saluted smartly and wore their bush hats at a rakish angle. But neither they nor their British officers, who were territorial volunteers from colonial industrial business firms, knew much about jungle warfare. It wasn't in the textbooks.

On the last day of January the real assault began on the wide estuary of the Salween at the back of the Burma Rifles. They retreated. The Japanese had bought the 400 miles of Tenasserin coastline in a military bargain sale and were directly menacing Rangoon.

In February one Chinese brigade magically appeared in the Shan states, hiking there on foot. One crack division of the Indian army docked in Rangoon and was rushed overnight by train to the Salween river line. More than a month was to elapse before the Japanese broke into Rangoon on March 8, but in all that time not a single Chinese trooper was sent southward from the Shan states.

Observers agreed that an Indian army division, if helped by an equal number of Chinese, could have kept the Japanese pinned at the Salween indefinitely and have raided Thailand.

U. S. Flyers Write Epic.

In the skies over Rangoon the brilliant defensive exploits of the AVG were almost the only solace in the situation which continued steadily to deteriorate. British fighters did their best and bravest, but they couldn't keep pace—they didn't have the planes or the training.

What the allies could have done then with the large American army air force now in India makes a bitter item in the war's list of "might have beens."

Because of the inadequate number of troops which were poorly equipped for jungle fighting, British army tactics were confined to a defense of line positions. This was done tenaciously.

No sudden offensive attacks by strong patrols menaced the Japanese rear. The British troop positions were static. The enemy gathered his forces at key points and encircled them and continually forced the British to move back their whole line.

The allied military collapse was revealed suddenly in mid-April. The British army's remnants of the Burma division, falling back on the plains of Mandalay, became encircled, while the war-worn Indian division pursued a different route 10 miles eastward along the rail line and was unable to come to its assistance.

And so it went from one thing to another.

A few hundred airplanes and a few thousand more troops might have meant the difference between victory and disaster.

BRITAIN TRIES 22 WOMEN AS FIRST DRAFT DODGERS

Daughter of Pacifist Is Denied Exemption.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 15.—Twenty-two girls subject to draft for war service appeared today before Britain's first conscientious objectors' tribunal for women.

Among them was Jean Porteous, 21 year old typist daughter of Ethel Mannin, novelist and journalist, who told the court that her "pacifist sympathies are so well known as to make it no surprise that my daughter holds the views she does." Miss Porteous' appeal for exemption on the grounds of civil liberty was ruled out by the tribunal of three men and two women. They decided she was not qualified as a conscientious objector.

Educated in Radical School.

The young woman's mother explained that Jean was "educated at a very radical school. She will not be coerced. She is in no uniform of any kind." Miss Mannin said she would appeal the decision.

Asked if she would make "things as difficult as possible" for any invader who might overrun the country, Miss Mannin replied:

"Yes; the method Gandhi employed in India."

An unconditional exemption, however, was granted to Jean Laura Henderson, 22 year old Salvation Army girl. She said she opposed war as contrary to the teachings of Christ but does voluntary work at training camps.

Would Go to Prison.

Miss M. S. Frost, a salesgirl, evoked an outburst of support from the public gallery and a threat to clear the courtroom when she leaped to her feet and said she would "rather go to prison" than accept the tribunal's decision that she was not a genuine conscientious objector.

Mary Cescotti, 21 years old, also was refused exemption. She said her father is an Italian and her mother of German extraction and that she objected to "fighting against my own blood." The girl said she was willing to work as a hospital nurse, and the court advised her to ask for that kind of work when she was called for duty.

All British women between 20 and 30 who are single, able, and without dependents, are subject to draft for work in war factories or for service in the armed forces, except actual combat.

ADMIRAL WARNS SHIP BOTTLENECK MAY LOSE LANDS

San Francisco, Cal., May 15 [Special].—A warning that the United States "may lose Australia, perhaps Alaska" because of a shipping bottleneck was voiced today by Rear Adm. John W. Greenslade, commandant of the 12th naval district.

Not enough ships have been built, he told 12,000 workers at the Moore Dry Dock company's plants in Oakland, to prevent tens of thousands of military trucks and combat vehicles, badly needed in the war theaters, from standing idle in this country for want of bottoms to carry them. The nation is counting on the shipbuilders, he declared, not only to do their "damndest" but their "double damndest" to rectify the situation.

Adm. Greenslade told the workmen that victory or defeat at this time resolved itself into a "simple mathematical pattern," namely:

"Can we build ships fast enough to replace the vessels sunk off our coasts and in foreign waters and at the same time have a large enough margin of shipping to carry vitally needed supplies to our forces and fleets in foreign waters?" He could not answer the question, he said, but the workmen could.

Close Supply Routes

Closing of the Burma road and Japanese penetration in the area of the proposed Assam highway from India to China have virtually ended hope of getting supplies into China by any means other than airplanes flying over the mountains from India. Japan's grand strategy of isolating the teeming Chinese millions took form in 1937, when the first attack on China proper began. The chronology of the Japanese effort follows:

1932-'33—Japan invaded four Manchurian provinces and set up the puppet government of Manchukuo.

July, 1937—Fighting began between Chinese and Japanese outside Peking.

August-December, 1937—Japs captured Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai [Chinese city], and Nanking and overran much of North China and inner Mongolia.

January-September, 1938—Tsingtao fell [Jan. 10]; Amoy on the South China coast was taken [May 10]; the conquest of Hankow, of Kukiang on the Yangtze, and of the central Chinese iron fields followed.

Oct. 20, 1938—Canton was taken.

March 29, 1939—Nanchang captured. This was followed by the blockade of three ports, Ningpo, Wenchow, and Foochow; the taking of Suchow, and the cutting of the important east-west Lunghai railroad.

August, 1939—Japan had control of all important Chinese commercial ports and was able to block any shipments to China by sea.

July and August, 1939—Japanese and Russians [who had been reported as willing to arm China], clashed in Manchukuo with indefinite results.

September, 1940 — French Indo-China, south of China, was invaded by the Japs. and another possible supply source ruined.

December, 1941—Thailand [Siam], west of Indo-China, surrendered to Japanese forces; the European settlements at Shanghai and Hongkong fell.

March 8, 1942—Rangoon fell.

May 1, 1942—Lashio, beginning of the Burma motor road to China, was captured by Japs.

EGYPT IS LINKED TO U. S. BY RADIO PHOTO SERVICE

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—Direct radio photo service was begun today between the United States and Egypt and President Roosevelt called it "one more vital link" in the world-wide network of communications.

The first picture to be sent to Egypt will be one made here today of the President and the Egyptian minister to the United States, Mahmoud Hassan Bey. The first from Egypt to this country will be one of the Egyptian king.

In a statement on the inauguration of the new service Mr. Roosevelt said [about 110]:

"Thru this new means of communication, which spans the battles of the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, I greet our friends in Egypt," the President said, "and our friends as well as our own sons and brothers now serving in Africa and the near east in the armed forces of the United nations."

60 GO ON STRIKE OVER REFUSAL TO REHIRE DRAFTEE

Scranton, Pa., May 15 (AP).—The 60 employés of the Peckville Mining company went on strike today in a dispute over failure of a draftee to be rehired after he had been rejected by the army as physically unfit.

Officials of the CIO-United Mine Workers of America said Joseph Andrejko, 27 years old, returned to the mine yesterday and applied for his old job but was told it had been filled. They said the mine owner, Tobia Mancuso, said he had no room for another worker.

The employés voted at a meeting last night to walk out unless Andrejko was rehired today.

M'ARTHUR PLANES BLAST AIR BASE ON NEW GUINEA

Jap Installations at Lae Damaged.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today that allied planes bombed the airfield runway and buildings at the Japanese base of Lae, New Guinea, yesterday in a surprise attack which left large fires in its wake.

The attack on Lae followed Thursday's punishing raid on Rabaul, New Britain, northeast of New Guinea, in which one transport was damaged and an outstanding air success scored.

The Japanese, apparently stung by the effectiveness of allied planes operating in the New Guinea and New Britain areas, have increased considerably their aerial squadrons in those strategic territories, reports to headquarters indicated.

Further, the possibility that the Japanese might be having to use inexperienced pilots was seen by an air corps spokesman.

Chalk Up "Remarkable Score."

Reporting that the allied bombers shot down 7 of 17 Japanese fighter planes which intercepted them in the Rabaul raid, the spokesman said it was a remarkable score for such unescorted aircraft against the ultramaneuverable fighters and that it raised the question of the experience of the Japanese pilots.

One hint of the increased Japanese strength was seen Thursday in the second of two quick raids on Port Moresby, southern New Guinea city. Thirty-five Japanese planes—the largest number of aircraft in one unit the enemy has yet sent over New Guinea—dropped bombs from a great height after 13 fighters strafed the airport in the first short raid.

Indicates Jap Determination.

The size of the force indicated that the Japanese would go to great lengths to keep the allies from using Port Moresby as an air operations base. The bombers, however, did not hit a worthwhile objective.

The second raid was Port Moresby's 50th since the war began. Allied interceptors shot down two Zero [naval] fighters. No allied planes were reported damaged.

HENDERSON ASKS TOLERANCE OVER CURB ON INCOME

New Orleans, La., May 15 (AP).—Leon Henderson, federal price administrator, said here tonight that "today collective bargaining comes head on in collision with stabilization of income." He spoke before the national conference of social work.

"If I had but one appeal to make tonight, I should earnestly ask tolerance and forbearance while these two great necessities are satisfactorily adjusted. Certainly morale, again one of our precious components of life, rests just as heavily on this as it does upon a full stomach."

In painting his picture of giving up of consumer goods for war production, Henderson said the standard of living of the upper and middle income brackets will be reduced much more sharply than that of the lower one-third of our population.

FARMERS FEAR FROST DANGER TO TRUCK CROPS

Acres of Tomato Plants Might Be Ruined.

Chilly rains have halted farm work in northern and central Illinois and forecasts of scattered frosts early today had many farmers worried over losing truck crops already planted.

In the northern part of the state thousands of dollars worth of tomato plants set out in the last week are in danger of being killed. The large canning companies which have contracted farmers to grow tomatoes already have delivered most of their plants, and a light frost would ruin all those that have been planted.

Onion Sets Endangered.

In the southern part of Cook county a large acreage of onion sets is endangered as the bulbs are well up and susceptible to a freeze. On the large truck farms and in thousands of war gardens there are peppers, cabbage, lettuce, peas, beans, and other vegetables that may be seriously harmed by a frost.

Reports from central Illinois indicate that an unusually promising fruit and berry crop may be harmed or set back severely if there is a hard frost. Hail and cold rains swept many sections of the state yesterday.

Hundreds of acres of cantaloupes and cucumbers near Anna, in Union County, are far enough advanced to be seriously threatened by the cold weather. Other truck crops are further along than those in the north and are in more danger from freezing.

Blame Early Hot Spell.

Many farmers blamed the unseasonable hot spell that came during early spring. Under normal conditions the truck crops would not be as far along in growth as they are now, and thus could not be hurt as badly by a frost.

County farm agents in the state reported that the newly planted corn, winter wheat and spring seeded oats were in little danger and could stand a fairly hard freeze. Agents in Michigan, Indiana and Wisconsin declared the grain crops safe but expressed fear that severe damage might be done to garden crops and fruits.

Rainfall Near Normal.

The weather bureau reported that yesterday's rain should bring the total precipitation since Jan. 1 up to normal. Since the first of the year a total of 10.42 inches had fallen up to midnight Thursday. Normal rainfall for the period is 11.05 inches.

In January there was a deficiency of .51 of an inch. February was a wet month with a total of 3.01 inches. March was almost normal with 2.68 inches, but April was dry, with a total deficiency of 1.19 inches.

BELIEVE U.S. AIMS TO PUT TROOPS ON MARTINIQUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Negotiations looking toward solution of military and economic problems at Martinique are still under way by American and island officials Secretary of State Cordell Hull disclosed today. It was believed one problem under discussion was the basing of American troops on the island.

Hull expressed himself satisfied with the progress of this country's diplomatic offensive to eliminate the possible employment of the islands to menace this country and the Panama canal.

The most important point at issue has already been settled, he said, with the immobilization of three French warships at Fort de France, capital of Martinique, by island officials in coöperation with the American navy.

Altho he did not enumerate the military and economic questions still to be settled, it was generally understood that among these was the disposition of 150,000 tons of French merchant ships and maintenance of the island's economic life.

2,000,000 ON U. S. CIVIL PAY ROLL, AND IT'S GROWING

More than 2,000,000 persons are on the federal civilian pay roll now and new ones are being added at the rate of 100,000 to 200,000 a month. These figures were given yesterday in a speech by Henry F. Hubburd, of the federal council of personnel administration, at the conference of Civil Service association of the United States and Canada. The sessions are being held at the University of Chicago.

Hubburd said the intake of employés was so rapid that many were not qualified; they had shown "aptitudes" and would have to be trained to become efficient.

He added that the sickness rate of government employés was worse proportionately than that of workers in private enterprises, and suggested that the rule granting sick leaves of so many days a year was being abused by those who piled up these days and used them for vacations.

URGES TRAINING OF HIGH SCHOOL BOYS IN AIR WAR

St. Louis, Mo., May 15 (AP).—The nation's present day high school boys must be prepared to shoulder the burden of aerial warfare in case the war should last another six years, Dr. Dwayne Orton, educational consultant for the Civil Aeronautics authority, declared today.

"And students now in the fifth and sixth grades must be trained to hold the peace that will follow our victory," he told 200 Missouri and Illinois educators attending a conference here on "education for the air age."

"We must air condition them by getting them ready for their country's air service," Dr. Orton continued, "or the enemy's bullets and shrapnel will air condition them in a different way."

He urged the teaching of aviation on a preflight basis to third and fourth year high school boys and recommended the formation of glider clubs in the schools.

QUISLING BACK FROM 5,000 MILE EAST FRONT TOUR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 15.—Dispatches from Norway today said that Premier Vidkun Quisling had returned to Oslo after a 5,000 mile flying visit along the German-Russian front.

They reported he arrived by plane from Berlin along with Commissioner Josef Terboven who had been conferring with German officials about the Norwegian situation during Quisling's absence.

The Gestapo, German secret police, was said to have conducted a purge of Quisling's National Samling [Nazi] movement while the leader was away.

WEATHER CHIEF LAUDS PROGRESS IN METEOROLOGY

Points to Demand for Trained Men.

The war is bringing about enormous progress in the science of meteorology, Comm. Francis W. Reichelderfer, chief of the United States Weather Bureau, told the Citizens Board of Sponsors of the University of Chicago at a meeting in the Chicago club yesterday. Comm. Reichelderfer is credited with being primarily responsible for the introduction of modern meteorological methods in the navy.

In his address Comm. Reichelderfer pointed out that the training of meteorologists in five universities in this country, including the University of Chicago, has "trebled, doubled, and doubled again since the war started, not only in the number of men but in the quality of instruction."

Require Accurate Forecasts.

American meteorologists must be prepared to forecast conditions all over the world with accuracy that is important to military strategy, he said.

"Meteorologists are considered strategic materials and very hard to get," he explained. "Fortunately, our colleges soon will be turning out hundreds of trained weather men regularly and they will form the vast reservoir which can be used after the war for research work, which is very important to industry and agriculture. The colleges also are doing research work which had to be abandoned by the United States Institute of Meteorology for the duration of the war because of more immediate problems."

The colleges which conduct meteorology classes in this country are the University of Chicago, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, New York University, the University of California at Los Angeles, and the California Institute of Technology.

Six Hundred in Training.

Six hundred students are being trained in meteorology at these schools, said Dr. Carl G. Rossby, director of the University of Chicago's meteorological institute who also spoke at the meeting. In the winter of 1939-'40, he said, there were only 45 students in classes in the five schools.

After the meeting Dr. Rossby conducted Comm. Reichelderfer on a tour of the university's institute, where the weather chief complimented the students on their facilities and reminded them of their importance to the war effort.

HOW SUB SAVED CORREGIDOR GOLD UNDER JAP NOSE

Tons of Precious Metals Brought to U. S.

regidor. Japanese planes began their attacks around Christmas day and seldom did a day go by without an air raid. Virtually every large building on the top of the island fort was leveled the first day the Japanese planes attacked Corregidor."

Load Tons of Gold and Silver.

On the night of Feb. 3 the awaited submarine made its way past Jap sentries and tied up alongside a pier at Fort Mills, he continued. Tons of silver and gold were placed aboard the craft after its load of ammunition was emptied.

Navy officers, officials of the Philippine commonwealth, members of Sayre's staff and stevedores helped in the loading. Near dawn of Feb. 4, the sub pulled out from Corregidor and dived to the bottom of the ocean three miles from the fort to hide during the daylight.

As darkness fell again a naval boat carrying the last of the securities sped to a prearranged rendezvous.

"The submarine did not appear at once, and anxiety for the safety of the vessel was written on every face on board our boat," Willoughby said.

"Minutes that seemed like hours dragged by. After a while she surfaced a short distance away. An exchange of prearranged signals followed, and the submarine came alongside. It took only about 20 minutes to transfer the securities.

Turn Down Passage Reluctantly.

"Then Lieut. Comm. Fenno uttered a remark I'll never forget. His crew had gone below and he was standing on the conning tower preparatory to giving the order to submerge. 'Any passengers?', he asked cheerfully. Any of us would have been glad to get aboard that submarine, but it was not time for us to leave. We had to tell him 'No.'".

The submarine then headed for Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, where the valuables were transferred to an American cruiser which brought them to the United States.

REDS BLAST 400 GERMAN TANKS IN KHARKOV BATTLE

Batter Nazis' Inner Lines at Key to Ukraine.

MOSCOW, May 16 [Saturday]—(AP).—Red army troops beating at the approaches to the great Ukraine industrial city of Kharkov have destroyed or damaged more than 400 Nazi tanks in three days and still are advancing on that key to Germany's southern defenses, the Russians announced officially early today.

On the Kerch peninsula the soviet midnight communique said Russian troops defending that approach to the Caucasus oil fields "continued stubborn fighting."

[German troops occupied all except the harbor area of Kerch, but a Russian counterattack promptly drove them out, a dispatch from "the German frontier" to the Reuters news agency in London said early today. The Red troops were said to have counterattacked from Yenikale, where they had been backed against the Kerch strait.]

"In the Kharkov direction our troops carried out offensive battles and are advancing," the communique said. "Our troops destroyed 255 guns, damaged over 250 tanks, and brought down 40 enemy planes."

In two previous days of fighting 150 other tanks were reported smashed.

Hit Nazis' Secondary Lines.

No other significant changes occurred on the long Russian front, but in the Barents sea the Russians reported their airmen sank three enemy ships, including a transport.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's battle hardened veterans, supported by Russian manned American and British tanks and planes were reported smashing hard at the German secondary lines before Kharkov.

Along a wide front [some British commentators pictured it at 50 miles] Timoshenko's troops had crossed the Donetz river to the west and village after village outlying the great steel metropolis, said the official army organ Red Star, was falling to him.

White Russian guerrillas operating behind the Nazi lines were credited with destruction of two railroad bridges and derailment of two enemy troop trains in which more than 600 Germans were killed.

Nazi Losses Called Enormous.

German losses were described officially as enormous.

The Moscow radio announced that among the newly captured positions were heights of strategic importance before Kharkov.

[Reports from axis sources indicated Timoshenko also had attacked Pokrovskoe, some 15 miles from Taganrog, in an effort to cut the German wing protecting the Kerch action. Reports to London indicated he had broken the inner defenses of Kharkov in at least two places. Some London diplomats asserted they had heard that Hitler was so worried at the turn of events that he had ordered his ambassador to Tokio to make urgent representations to Japan for a Japanese attack on Siberian Russia.]

On the Leningrad front, where another major soviet offensive is under way, the Russians reported 2,000 Germans killed.

BOMB FLEEING REDS: NAZIS

BERLIN, May 15 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German warplanes are inflicting heavy losses on Russian soldiers who have been driven into a narrow area east of Kerch and who are attempting to flee across the narrow Kerch straits to the Caucasus, the Berlin radio reported tonight.

Earlier, the German high command had asserted that Russian resistance on the heights before Kerch, in the Crimea, had been broken. It said German and Rumanian columns are at the gates of the city.

A communique, however, said fighting was continuing near Kharkov.

On Defensive, Nazis Admit.

The Berlin radio referred to the Kharkov fighting as "a defensive struggle." It said 145 Russian tanks were destroyed in that area.

The high command also recorded several days' fighting in the Volkhovo region, some 75 miles southeast of Leningrad, where, it said, "an enemy group was encircled and annihilated." The German communique said the Russians lost 3,500 men killed and 1,000 prisoners.

A Russian attempt to land forces on the Arctic coast was reported smashed.

TELLS OF A NEW GERMAN WEAPON, AN AIR TORPEDO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 15.—Reports of another German secret weapon were published here today. The Svenska Dagbladet published an interview with "a Swedish volunteer who served for months with the German forces on the eastern front." He was quoted as having seen the Germans capture a Dnieper river bridgehead with a large aerial torpedo projected from a special compressed air gun. He said the torpedo's concussion burst the lungs of every one within a radius of 400 yards. He described the area around the bridgehead as "littered with Russian dead." Another new German weapon also was described. It was said to be a cannon capable of firing 30 shells a minute. The gun reportedly was built with a new type of steel.

GREEN CALLS OFF 1942 STATE FAIR AS WAR MEASURE

Springfield, Ill., May 15 [Special].—Gov. Dwight H. Green announced today that the 1942 Illinois state fair has been called off. The announcement was made after Green had conferred with Howard Leonard, state director of agriculture, and members of the state fair advisory board.

"The state turned its fair grounds over to the army air service command as a step in this administration's full coöperation in the nation's war effort," Gov. Green said. "We will continue to coöperate by making the transportation necessary to holding a state fair, both railroad and automobile, available for war uses.

"The state department of agriculture will continue to coöperate in every way possible with agricultural and live stock associations and all other groups interested in promoting the advancement of farming and stock raising."

COL. BELT TAKES MILITIA POST IN OLD REGIMENT

Col. Elden L. Belt, 8143 Kingston avenue, took over the command of the 1st infantry of the Illinois reserve militia yesterday following his appointment as colonel by Gov. Green on Thursday.

Col. Belt, who is 48 years old, has been in military service since 1913. He succeeds Col. Herman H. Weimer, 51, of 5001 North Western avenue, who said he resigned to devote all his time to his position as veterans' placement officer in the United States employment service.

In taking command of the 1st infantry, Col. Belt is returning to the organization in which he began his military career nearly 30 years ago. He enlisted as a private in company A, 1st infantry, on March 25, 1913. He was wounded in action overseas in the last war.

SOLEMN TRIBUTE JUNE 7 TO OPEN VICTORY WEEK

For one minute on June 7—at exactly 1:24 p. m.—Illinois' 8,000,000 citizens are to face west in tribute to the defenders of the nation's outposts in the Pacific.

It will be a minute devoted to remembering Pearl Harbor. Six months previously to the hour and minute, the Japs unloosed their bombs on Pearl Harbor. The salute by the state will open a "Dedication to Victory Week" at the suggestion of Gov. Dwight Green.

The Illinois state council of defense announced yesterday that the celebration, lasting from June 7 thru June 14, would be held to enlist every resident in the job of winning the war.

MALTA DOWNS 5 AXIS PLANES; RAISES TOTAL FOR TWO WEEKS TO 74

VALETTA, Malta, May 15 (AP).—Five axis planes were shot down and six damaged over Malta today without the loss of a single British craft. A revised official tabulation showed 21 German planes destroyed or damaged over Malta yesterday, of which six bombers and five fighters were destroyed. Thus, in the first 15 days of May, the enemy is known to have lost 74 planes over Malta.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 15 (AP).—British patrols engaged an enemy post on the northern sector of the Libyan front, inflicting casualties, British headquarters announced today. Brisk patrol activity also was reported on the rest of the north African front.

The royal air force headquarters reported raids on enemy objectives in Libya last night.

[London quoted the German radio as saying that the Nazi air force raided Alexandria, Egypt, last night, starting several fires.]

BORDER DISPUTE SETTLED; CAUSED RED-JAP BATTLE

MOSCOW, May 15 (AP).—A possible source of Russian-Japanese friction was removed today thru ratification of an agreement by Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia to end their border dispute which erupted into open warfare in the summer of 1939.

An accord delimiting the boundary between the two countries was signed Oct. 15 at Harbin, in Japanese-dominated Manchukuo, and its ratification announced today simultaneously there and at Ulan Bator, capital of Outer Mongolia, protégé of the soviet union.

[The long border dispute ostensibly was between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia, but most of the fighting two years ago was by Japanese and Russian troops. In one battle which lasted several weeks around the border town of Nomnhan the Japanese admitted 18,000 casualties.]

DRAFT QUESTIONS MAILED SLOWLY TO 20-44 GROUP

The mailing of questionnaires to men 20 thru 44 years old who registered Feb. 16 has not yet reached full volume, Col. Louis A. Boening, assistant director of selective service, said yesterday.

Only a few of the county's 180 draft boards have sent out the questionnaires. It will be necessary to have the papers distributed before a general call is made among the registrans for manpower, it was indicated. They are liable to call starting June 1.

Col. Boening said that most of the boards still have adequate numbers of 1-A men remaining from earlier registrations.

DEADLY, DARTING P-38s WAIT ON COAST FOR JAPS

400 m.p.h. 1 Man Planes a Terrifying Barrier.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., May 15.—If the Japanese attempt an assault on America's west coast it is probable the vanguard of our country's reception committee will be the P-38's of the air force's 4th interceptor command.

I have just witnessed a demonstration by one of the units of this command. I have talked with the pilots and visited their quarters. I have watched the mechanics of the ground forces at work. I have examined the ships—declared to be the fastest military airplanes in the world—and I have seen them fly away in simulated attack on the enemy.

Breath Taking to Watch.

Watching the P-38's in flight is breath taking. One minute the planes are tiny specks far up in a cloudless sky. A second later they are roaring past only 10 feet from the ground at speeds considerably more than 400 miles an hour.

The noise produced by these diving planes seemed to me to be more terrifying than the deadly whistle of high explosive bombs which fell on London. The P-38's are easily distinguishable in the air because of their dual fuselage and twin tail construction. Each plane looks like two airplanes flying in close tandem formation.

Flying a P-38 is one of the toughest jobs in the air service. They carry only one man, who must be both pilot and navigator and do his own firing when in contact with the enemy. The planes bristle with cannon and machine guns. The high speed of landings and takeoffs calls for unusual skill.

The "Old Man" is 26.

In the group of pilots I visited the average age of the men was 23. Only a short time ago most of them were taking their first rides in slow training planes, yet now they handle these terrific engines of destruction with the skill of masters. The oldest pilot was 26 and is called "the old man." He told me that 26 is supposed to be the deadline for fighter pilots but that he is confident he is still good for two or three years and hundreds of Japanese.

The squadron works in shifts, with a number of pilots always on the alert in what is called the ready room. An operations board outside this room carries the nicknames of the pilots on duty. Among the names posted on the day I visited the unit were "Crystal Ball, the hairless wonder," "Big Bill," "Jo-Jo," "Tank, the fat boy," and "Jeep."

10 in Each Ground Crew.

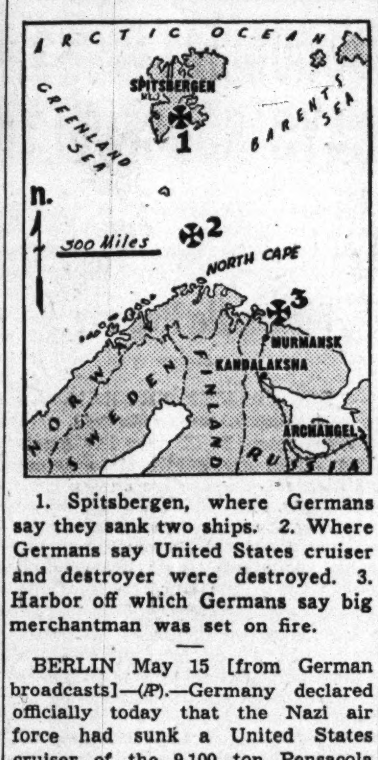
A ground crew of about 10 is required to keep one plane in the air. There is mutual friendship, admiration, and respect existing between the ground force and the pilots. As soon as a plane lands it is surrounded by mechanics who begin work before the pilot can climb out.

There is no wailing of a siren with a resulting scramble when an alert is sounded or a target reported. The senior on duty receives a phone call and gives brief words of instruction to the pilots.

"We'll rendezvous over X," the captain says. "We'll get our course and destination after takeoff."

A moment later the planes are climbing. They go up like rockets, and the instant a plane leaves the ground it is in direct radio contact with officers commanding the information center. The most effective detecting systems which science has devised are in 24 hour a day operation. If an attack comes, the P-38's will meet it far at sea.

Claim Blow at U.S.



1. Spitsbergen, where Germans say they sank two ships. 2. Where Germans say United States cruiser and destroyer were destroyed. 3. Harbor off which Germans say big merchantman was set on fire.

BERLIN May 15 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—Germany declared officially today that the Nazi air force had sunk a United States cruiser of the 9,100 ton Pensacola class and an American destroyer yesterday in attacks on an American squadron between the North Cape of Norway and the arctic island of Spitsbergen.

[There was no comment from Washington, D. C., on the claims, which might have been broadcast to draw out information on the disposition of United States warships.]

Further, the Germans credited their air force with sinking a 3,000 ton icebreaker and a 2,000 ton merchant ship in a Spitsbergen fjord, setting on fire a freighter of 10,000 tons north of Murmansk, Russia, and sinking four ships totaling 7,500 tons in a British south coast harbor.

Hit Two Trawlers, Say British.

LONDON, May 15 (AP).—The admiralty announced today that two enemy trawlers were left sinking after a fight with British light naval forces off the French coast in the English channel last night.

The admiralty also reported that in an attack on a German convoy Wednesday the Germans suffered considerable damage and casualties, in addition to the admitted sinking of one torpedo boat, and that a British light coastal craft was missing.

CONTRACT SIGNED FOR TERMINAL AT CHICAGO AIRPORT

Mayor Kelly signed a contract yesterday with eight major air lines for a new terminal building at Chicago airport to be built as soon as possible. The agreement provides that the lines will pay increased rentals and landing fees, designed to produce $371,000 annually, and for the lines to lend $1,300,000 to the city to pay for the building.

An ordinance authorizing the contract was passed last January by the council and was accepted by the lines. Mayor Kelly's signature was the last step to complete the deal. Under the agreement the lines will place $100,000 in escrow at once and an additional $1,200,000 when the contract for the building is awarded.

The city has agreed to amortize the $1,300,000 loan out of landing fees, but action of the United States army in taking over operation of the air lines Thursday may complicate the landing fee payment. Joseph Grossman, assistant corporation counsel, and officials of the lines were unable to say how the complication would be met.

A. of C. Directors Favor Traction Unity Ordinance

The directors of the Chicago Association of Commerce voted unanimously yesterday to support the city's traction unification ordinance which will be voted on by the people at a referendum June 1.

WORK OUT PLANS TO GIVE DRAFTEE 14 DAYS AT HOME

Will Get Time to Wind Up Affairs.

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—The army, revising its system of inducting men into military service, provided today for an automatic 14 day delay between acceptance of selective services recruits and the start of actual training.

In order to assure them time in which to wind up their personal affairs as civilians, selectees who have passed examinations by army physicians will be shifted to a temporary reserve status, and ordered to begin their military duty two weeks later.

The war department will pay for meals, transportation and lodging involved in actual travel by these men back to home towns from army induction stations and reception centers, and for their return.

Effective About June 15.

The arrangement will become effective June 15, or soon thereafter.

Officials said the present procedure had been subject to some criticism. Under it, army centers are directed to grant, upon request, 10 day furloughs to selective service recruits immediately after their induction. Selective service headquarters said, however, that in some instances requests had been denied, and in other cases inductees were unable to pay their transportation home.

National headquarters noted also that community farewell ceremonies, urged by Secretary of War Stimson and others as a patriotic gesture, would be possible under the revised procedure. Men from the same local boards, already accepted by the army, would leave in groups to start their military service assured that none would be rejected for physical faults and have to return home.

Other Procedure Unchanged.

Explaining the new system, the war department said there would be no change in the draft procedure now in effect prior to a man's arrival at the induction station. There the registrant will be completely examined and if found qualified will be inducted immediately and transferred to the enlisted reserve corps. If not qualified, he will be rejected for military service. Accepted and rejected registrants will then be returned to their homes.

Fourteen days later the accepted reservists will be due to report for active service, and will proceed in units from their local boards to the designated army reception center where they will be uniformed, classified and transferred to training centers.

CROSSES AWARDED 5 FLYERS WHO DIED TO SAVE CIVILIANS

Lieut. James J. Orr.

Second Lieut. James J. Orr, son of James W. Orr, 728 South Clarence avenue, Oak Park, was one of five aboard a crashed army bomber just awarded the distinguished flying cross posthumously, the war department announced yesterday in New York. Lieut. Orr was the co-pilot of the ship.

Last Jan. 1 the bomber took off from Mitchel Field, N. Y., carrying a full load of bombs on a tactical mission. One of the two engines failed when the plane was two miles from the field and only 500 feet off the ground.

The pilot, Second Lieut. Charles W. VanEuwen of Grant, Mich., could not gain altitude without dropping his bomb load. He was over a thickly populated residential area and he dared not risk a landing on a street or lot with his load. So he dropped the plane into a gravel pit, exploding its load and killing every member of the crew.

ROOSEVELT AIMS ANOTHER BLAST AT 'LOOSE TALK'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—For the second time in a week, President Roosevelt today condemned "loose talk" on military preparations and programs in Washington, including congress. He amplified the "lecture" he delivered Wednesday to members of the Pacific War council on the danger of too much talk on war plans.

My God, he said with deep feeling, there is more loose talk in Washington than anywhere else. The country as a whole is keeping its mouth closed, but the same thing can't be said for Washington.

"How about Capitol hill," he was asked. That's in the District of Columbia, Mr. Roosevelt replied.

However, it was apparent that the President's ideas on loose talk extended beyond the capitol, for when he was told that Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia had declared he certainly was not guilty of loose talk about the war Mr. Roosevelt said he was not aiming at Australia. He said he was aiming at other parts of the world—India, Egypt, South America, and other places.

UNLIMITED GAS FOR 19,000 U. S. BUREAU AUTOS

None Aids in War Effort, Senate Told.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—Revelations that nondefense executive agencies of the government own and operate at the taxpayers' expense nearly 19,000 passenger automobiles, many with full time chauffeurs, precipitated another furious outburst in the senate today over the issuance of X [unlimited supply] cards for gasoline rationing to members of congress.

Among the nonwar agencies with large numbers of automobiles, the senate was told, are the department of agriculture with 4,514 automobiles and 15 full time chauffeurs, and the federal security agency with 3,104 cars and 66 chauffeurs. Other agencies high in the list and the number of cars for each included: The commerce department, 312; the Federal Communications commission, 134, and the Federal Works agency, 982.

The other thousands of cars are distributed among hundreds of other nondefense agencies, bureaus, commissions, and departments.

Bureau Has 13,505 Trucks.

In addition to its automobiles, it was disclosed, the department of agriculture operates 13,505 trucks, giving it a total of 18,019 vehicles, more than any other nonmilitary agency in the government. The cost of operating them in the last fiscal year reached an all-time high of $3,789,068, according to the charges.

These records were described as "shocking" during the senate debate. Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] pointed out that all these cars will be entitled to unlimited amounts of gasoline under the rationing regulations of the Office of Price administration. He questioned whether continued operation of these vehicles in wartime would not be a threat to the entire gasoline conservation program.

Won't Give Up Special Privileges.

Among other developments in the ration card controversy today were the following:

1. A resolution seeking to pledge the senate membership to waive any special consideration under the gasoline rationing program went down to ignominous defeat by a vote of 66 to 2. The votes of Senators Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.] and Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] were buried under the avalanche of opposition from 46 Democrats, 18 Republicans, 1 Progressive, and 1 Independent.

2. It was disclosed that Downey, sponsor of the measure calling upon his colleagues to forego any extra supplies of gasoline, took care to provide himself with extra tires the day before the tire freezing order went into effect. Published accounts in California newspapers reaching the capital today — which the senators passed around amid much cloak room merriment—told that his two cars were equipped with eight new tires last Dec. 9.

Keeps Cars in West.

The senator, a member of the military affairs committee thru which much confidential information on supply and production is passed, is not affected by the gasoline rationing to which he sought to bind his colleagues as his cars are kept back in California.

3. A few hours after President Roosevelt expressed himself in favor of making public names of all holders of X cards, the OPA ordered full lists of persons securing ration cards to be opened for inspection and publication. Price Administrator Leon Henderson will issue a directive tomorrow for the lists to be made available thru local ration boards.

Mr. Roosevelt also disclosed he had instituted a gasoline and rubber conservation program for White House automobiles. In the future, he explained, one Presidential car and one secret service car are to be left at his home in Hyde Park instead of being driven there as in the past from Washington every time he made a trip to his ancestral home. He estimated that this will save 1,000 miles of gasoline and rubber usage per trip.

4. Several senators joined in denouncing the present rationing system, asserting that there should be no unlimited cards for anybody. Each motorist's allotment should be geared to his particular requirements, they declared.

Byrd Starts Fireworks.

Today's uprising in the senate over the rationing program began when Sen. Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.] read off a list of 14 departments and agencies showing the number of cars operated by each and the cost. He announced that on Monday he will introduce legislation forbidding the nondefense agencies to buy any new cars and requiring immediate discharge of all chauffeurs.

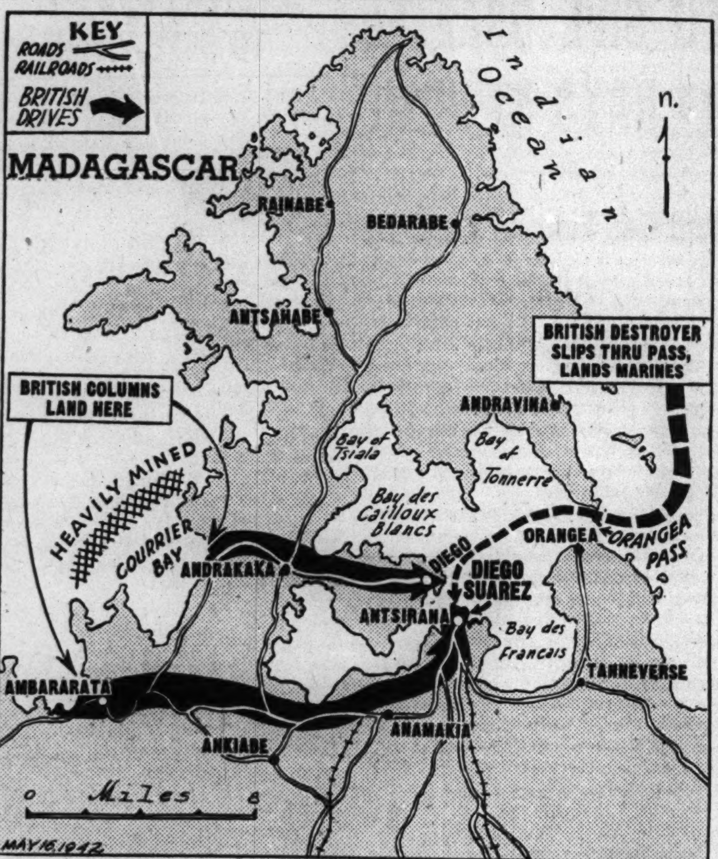
"I want to ask about this rather shocking total of 18 or 19 thousand automobiles operating under the bureaus," said Sen. Vandenberg. "Is there any threat to gasoline rationing from the issuance of unlimited gasoline cards for these vehicles? Would not these 19,000 automobiles, each one of which will undoubtedly travel under a so-called X card, represent the maximum hazard in that respect?

10,000 Burocrats Get "X."

Defending their right to X cards, the senators estimated yesterday that more than 10,000 administration burocrats had received ration cards for unlimited amounts of motor fuel. It was also noted that when a member of congress visits a government department on official business he drives his own car and buys his own gasoline whereas the burocrats and pay rollers go about in government cars, usually driven by a chauffeur.

"I think the OPA makes a mistake to issue so-called unlimited gasoline cards to anybody," Vandenberg continued. "I don't think there ought to be any X cards for anything or anybody. Every card should be geared to the necessity of the man who gets it."

How British Took Madagascar Base



Arrows and captions explain the routes of attack by which British forces drove from the west and south against Diego Suarez, French naval base in north Madagascar, then took the town after marines had been landed from north by daring maneuver of destroyer.

TELL OF BRITISH SURPRISE RAID TO WIN MADAGASCAR

Air, Sea, Land Forces Capture Base.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 15.—A surprise assault by British marines landed from a destroyer at the rear of the French forces and a frontal attack by British land forces played a big part in securing the speedy surrender of Antsirana, center of the stiffest resistance in Madagascar. This was revealed in detailed reports of the operations from Rear Adm. E. N. Syfret, commander of the expedition, and Maj. Gen. R. G. Sturges, commander of the troops.

Reports issued by the war office and the admiralty today told for the first time the full story of the storming of the naval base at Diego Suarez, in which land, sea, and air forces coöperated. Operations of carrier-borne aircraft, in attacking the airdrome and subsequently rendering valuable support in coöperation with both the naval and military forces, was described as "conspicuously successful."

Tells of Landing.

The reports related how the British military forces, with stores and supplies, arrived safely in a convoy off Courrier bay at dawn on May 5.

"It was found that the approaches to Courrier bay were heavily mined," the reports said, and in subsequent mine sweeping operations the corvette Auricula struck a mine and sank.

When the bay was cleared, troops, vehicles, and stores were put ashore and commandos, with a company of the East Lancashire regiment, "launched a surprise attack and captured the coastal battery overlooking the bay."

The troops then advanced to the east and by 4 p. m. the same afternoon had captured the town of Diego, on the north side of the harbor.

Meanwhile, another force, including the royal Welsh fusiliers, the royal Scots fusiliers, and the East and South Lancashire regiments, landed simultaneously at Ambararata and advanced to the east, supported by tanks. They captured a French officer and persuaded him to carry to the commander of the district a statement of the British intentions and the surrender terms.

Checked by French Guns.

At 11 a. m. these advance troops were held up by the defense on high ground about 5 miles southwest of Antsirana, but the resistance was overcome by evening.

At 6 p. m. on May 6 the British troops came up against a strongly defended position across the isthmus about two miles south of Antsirana. Despite naval support from two destroyers, which assisted the land forces by bombarding the French positions, a dawn attack failed to achieve its objective, "owing to a heavy cross-fire from 75s [3 inch guns] and machine guns." The retarded British troops awaited further reënforcements and the final assault was carried out after dark.

At the same time, marines landed at the quay at Antsirana in a surprise assault, which, it was stated, "created a valuable diversion and caused considerable confusion among the defenders" and helped "in securing the speedy surrender of Antsirana."

Slip Past Big Guns.

The marines were landed from a British destroyer which passed under the noses of shore batteries on either side of narrow Orangea pass without incident in the darkness. While the marines created a diversion at the rear, British land forces attacked.

On May 7 the coast defense batteries and defensive positions on the Orangea peninsula, south of the entrance of Diego Suarez harbor, also surrendered and on the same afternoon British warships, headed by minesweepers, entered the port.

No mention was made of French resistance in southern Madagascar, which Vichy claims still is continuing.

Gerald W. Homann (left) and Richard H. Moss, old and new cadet colonels, at University of Illinois ROTC review yesterday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., May 15.—The first wartime ROTC at the University of Illinois marched today in gala military day ceremonies, the 279 seniors tensely aware that their commissions soon will bring them to active duty for their country. Their maneuvers were part of the seniors' farewell to this campus—once called the West Point of the west by Gen. John J. Pershing—and a prelude to the grimmer task ahead.

Because of the weather, the outdoor parade and exhibitions were canceled and the review was held in the university armory. More than 2,000 relatives and friends of the cadets attended.

The 279 seniors and more than 300 juniors, who participated in the review, comprise the advanced ROTC at the university. Another 3,600 freshmen and sophomores are in the basic course, but the only ones in this classification who marched today were those in the battalion of Pershing Rifles, an honorary drill organization named in the general's honor.

The seniors will receive commissions as second lieutenants in the reserve but will be called to service quickly. Cadet Col. Gerald W. Homann of Mattoon, Ill., a senior in the college of engineering and an outstanding cadet in the 6th corps area, will get an immediate commission in the regular army. He was awarded one of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE ROTC gold medals last fall.

The incoming cadet colonel is Richard H. Moss of 5418 Lakewood avenue, Chicago, a junior and a graduate of Bloom township high school in Chicago Heights.

RETURN TO ROB BARTENDER.

Two men who robbed a tavern at 4353 North avenue returned yesterday and took $87 from Morris Kulwin, 1849 South Karlov avenue, the bartender, he told police.

AMERICAN SCALE OF COMBAT RISES, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Lend-Lease Total Tops 3¾ Billion, He Reports.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—American forces are getting into actual fighting more and more on the various fronts, and American supplies are reaching the allies in ever mounting volume, President Roosevelt told his press conference today. He refused, however, to give any details of the nation's war progress.

He made the statement in discussing his order of last night to the war department to take over planes of commercial air lines. He said we need all the planes of every kind—from puddle jumpers to transports—to get the army and navy to war fronts.

The war department will take over 80 of the nation's 300 commercial airliners, and 70 others will be converted into cargo carriers and operated by the air lines for the army. This will leave approximately 150 planes to continue commercial operations, but these must be available for emergency military missions.

Lend-Lease Sets Record.

Mr. Roosevelt reported the volume of lend-lease aid in April reached an all-time high of 677 million dollars and brought the grand total of such aid to 3 billion 835 million dollars since the inauguration of the program in March, 1941.

He said that in April lend-lease aid was built up to an annual rate of 8 billion dollars, compared with the annual rate of 4 billion dollars before Pearl Harbor. The March total was 588 million dollars.

"Since the start of the program the proportion of fighting weapons to food, drugs, raw materials, and other industrial materials has steadily increased," said a White House statement issued soon after the conference. "Today the major part of the aid supplies is in the form of finished munitions."

Destination Kept Secret.

Mr. Roosevelt would not say where the lend-lease supplies are going or how much each nation is receiving. He estimated the April total to be larger than that for the first six months of lend-lease operations.

Mr. Roosevelt said air traffic must be curtailed so the army and navy can get all the planes they need to carry men to battle. He said he is certain the people will understand that reduction of commercial transport service is necessary because the planes are needed for military purposes.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not anticipate an immediate shortage of passenger facilities on trains, saying he believed that ordinary passenger traffic will drop off because fewer and fewer people will take vacation trips this summer.

He said that if passenger facilities are taxed, however, people may have to stand up in coaches.

Air travel will continue subject to strict system of priorities. It was said persons applying for such priorities will be asked to take trains unless they can prove a real emergency.

The sweeping order affecting half the nation's commercial plane facilities took the capital by surprise.

CANADA REDUCES GAS RATIONS 60 PCT. IN 3 MARITIME PROVINCES

OTTAWA, Ont., May 15 (AP).—Gasoline rations for nonessential driving in the maritime provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island were reduced today to approximately two gallons per week, effective at midnight, in order to counteract an acute shortage.

Drivers who receive 60 coupons for the year ordinarily entitling them to 300 gallons under a 5 gallon unit system, now will receive only 120 gallons under a 2 gallon coupon system. [Canada uses the imperial gallon, which is one-fifth larger than the United States gallon.]

"What can be done for the tourist beyond the four coupons that he is given at the border will depend on circumstances," Munitions Minister C. D. Howe said in making the announcement.

No change was made in the coupon unit for other parts of Canada, and Howe expressed hope that the reduction might be only temporary.

Oil from western Ontario and Montreal is being sent to the maritimes where crude oil demands are heavy and tanker sinkings have created an acute shortage, Howe said.

Jap Planes Drop Letters from Australian Prisoners

San Francisco, Cal., May 15 (AP).—Japanese planes, flying high over often raided Port Moresby in New Guinea, dropped a packet of 400 letters from Australian prisoners in enemy held territory, the Melbourne radio reported in a broadcast tonight. The letters were dropped April 28 and since have been forwarded to their addresses by Australian army authorities.

AIR CRASH PROBE TURNS TO LIGHTS ON RADIO TOWERS

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 15 (AP).—A United Air Lines official today said the similarity between the red lights of two recently completed commercial radio towers and those of the Salt Lake airport towers was responsible for the crash of a United Air Lines' transcontinental plane May 1 in which 17 persons died.

Testifying at a civil aeronautic board investigation, Paul E. Reeder, assistant superintendent of flight operations in the line's western division, said:

"If trip 4 [the plane that crashed] had been north of the radio range station the accident could not have happened."

He referred to the pilot's report about three minutes before the crash at 11 p. m. that he was north of the radio towers at the airport "coming in for final approach."

Reeder said he believed the pilot saw the lights of the commercial towers, which are about four miles east of the airport and on the edge of the foothills in which the plane crashed, and believed they were the airport towers.

CHAPTER 22

CHAPTER 22

THE affectionate relationship which existed between Douglas MacArthur and his father, General Arthur MacArthur, culminated dramatically. The Milwaukee, Wisconsin newspapers record that, on September 5, 1912, General Arthur MacArthur, who had returned to Milwaukee to live after his retirement from the Army, attended the Fiftieth Annual Reunion of his Civil War Regiment. It was exactly fifty years from the day he had marched off from Wisconsin to the Civil War. He was called upon to address his old comrades. He spoke feelingly and as he finished he became weak, dropped over and died. An old adjutant, who had served with him, came forward to drape an American flag over him and, with sentiment welling up in his heart, himself dropped dead beside ________

WAAC OFFICERS TO GET TRAINING AT IOWA CAMP

Mrs. Hobby Named Chief of Female Unit.

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mrs. Oveta Hobby.

Washington, D. C., May 15.—The first officers' training camp for the women's army auxiliary corps, authorized today by the President, will be at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Recruiting of officer candidates will begin around June 1, with candidates applying at local recruiting offices, and the school will open around July 15. General recruiting will begin in about three months.

Fort Des Moines, now an arms induction center, is being converted into an all-woman camp, complete even unto beauty parlors. A three month officers' training course will be given, with the first contingent limited to 400.

50 Companies Planned.

The corps, restricted by congress to 150,000 members, was limited by the President to an initial enrollment of 25,000 with not more than 100 units. It is understood the inaugural plan consists of 50 companies of 250 women and four officers each. Forty companies of these will be trained for air raid warning service, now manned principally by women volunteers.

Working details of the WAAC will be announced tomorrow by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston, Tex., whom Secretary of War Stimson today appointed director, a title equivalent to the military rank of major. Mrs. Hobby's appointment was expected. She has been working with army officers for eight months preparing the groundwork for the corps.

Mrs. Hobby, wife of former Gov. William P. Hobby of Texas and mother of two children, has been chief of the women's interests section of the war department's public relations bureau since August. With her husband she is co-publisher of the Houston Post. She also is a banker and a lawyer.

Undecided on Qualifications.

Qualifications for candidates for officers have not been defined, but presumably they must be college graduates. After general recruiting begins candidates for officers will be selected from the ranks of the "auxiliaries."

The war department now has on file 5,000 letters from women who wish to join the corps. These will be disregarded. All applicants must enlist at local recruiting offices.

The war department also stressed the fact that members of the WAAC will not be used to replace civil service employés. They will replace enlisted men now in noncombatant duty as typists, telephone operators, clerks, laboratory technicians, pharmacists, and such jobs.

Woman to Design Uniform.

The design or color of the WAAC uniform has not been announced. Its design will lie in the hands of Miss Dorothy Shaver, vice president of Lord & Taylor, whom the war department has appointed general consultant on merchandising in the office of the quartermaster general.

The WAAC act provides for the appointment by Secretary Stimson of as many assistant directors as Mrs. Hobby needs. Edgar Brown, president of the National Negro council, today wrote to the secretary asking that one of these be a Negro woman.

Brown's group and the National Council of Negro Women have agreed on Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, president of Daytona-Cookman college, as their candidate for the job.

ALASKA CLOSED TO CIVIL TRAVEL BY ARMY, NAVY

San Francisco, Cal., May 15 (AP).—Travel of private citizens to Alaska, particularly of dependent women and children, has been virtually forbidden by army and navy authorities because of the lack of transportation facilities and the "definite hazard involved."

A statement of policy on such travel was issued today by headquarters of the western defense command and 4th army because of the increasing number of applications of private citizens for permission to go to Alaska.

Naval and military authorities, the statement said, "are discouraging travel of all women and children to Alaska, especially southwestern and western Alaska, because of the excessive shortage of passenger transportation facilities, the very definite hazard involved, and because subsistence of Alaska is proving increasingly difficult. The nature of the military situation has required, and will continue to require, use of all available space in vessels operating between continental United States ports and the territory of Alaska."

11 SUBURBS CHEER MEN LEAVING FOR SERVICE IN ARMY

Seven northwestern and four western communities paid rousing farewell to 152 draftees leaving for army service.

The northwestern section fighters hailed from Morton Grove, Golf, Skokie, Lincolnwood, Niles, Park Ridge, and Des Plaines. Farewell ceremonies were held in the Central school in Park Ridge, and the men were accompanied to the railroad station by 300 relatives and friends.

A similar scene was enacted in La Grange for 74 draftees from La Grange, Western Springs, Congress Park, and McCook. The men were fêted at a brief ceremony in headquarters of La Grange post of the American Legion and given a send-off at the railroad by relatives and friends.

REBUFF CIO PLEA FOR INCREASE IN ARMY BENEFITS

Congressmen Cool to Women's Plan.

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—A suggestion from the CIO women's auxiliaries that proposed government payments to dependents of service men be increased sharply and that the federal security administrator be empowered to augment them got a cool reception today from the house military committee.

Concluding public hearings on legislation whereby dependents would receive part of the service men's pay plus additional sums from the government, committee members demonstrated a definite lack of enthusiasm for the CIO proposals.

Payments originally proposed, said Mrs. Eleanor Fowler, Washington, secretary treasurer of the Congress of CIO women's auxiliaries, are "absolutely inadequate" and should be boosted substantially.

Calls Allowances Too Small.

On behalf of women dependents of CIO workers, Mrs. Fowler told the committee that in some cases the original proposal would not permit dependents "to survive."

Under provisions of the pending bill a dependent wife with two children would receive a total of $60 a month, made up of $20 from her husband's pay, and $40 from the government. Under the CIO recommendations the same family would receive $90.

Mrs. Fowler urged that the maximum allotment from the soldier's pay be retained at $20, but that the government allowance be doubled from $20 to $40 for a wife and increased from $10 to $15 for each child. She offered no proposal to increase payments to secondary dependents, which would be a maximum total of $50 per month.

Favor McNutt Proposal.

The auxiliary went on record as favoring the recommendation of Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt that he be permitted to give additional allowances to dependents in hardship cases. It was the only group that actively backed the McNutt plan.

Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] and other committee members said the additional cost of Mrs. Fowler's proposals would be prohibitive, and predicted the McNutt proposal also would be turned down when closed sessions are held next week.

MORAN SOUGHT TO START YEAR'S JAIL SENTENCE

George [Bugs] Moran, gang overlord of prohibition days, was being sought by the sheriff and state's attorney last night to begin serving a jail sentence of a year and pay a $2,000 fine assessed against him in Criminal court in 1939 on charges of conspiracy to counterfeit travelers' checks. He was found guilty with Frank Parker, another hoodlum, who, having served a federal term for mail fraud, is still fighting the Illinois Supreme court's order upholding the convictions.

Moran, who in recent years has been reported a boss of vice, booze and gambling in Lake county, a week ago was said to be recovering from a leg fracture. Sheriff Thomas J. O'Brien directed Chief Bailiff Joseph Lelivelt of the Criminal court to search diligently for Moran.

RECAPTURE TWO ESCAPED NAZI PILOTS IN CANADA

TORONTO, Ont., May 15 (AP).—Two German air force officers who fled the Bowmanville prison camp 40 miles east of here Wednesday have been recaptured, the Royal Canadian Mounted police announced today.

Lieut. Frederich Oeser, whose flight was his third attempt to escape, was captured in the Belleville railway station. The other, Lieut. Aberhard Wildermutch, was picked up in the Union station here.

The prisoners apparently escaped by hiding in clothing crates being sent to another camp.

U. S. TAKING THE LEAD IN CONDUCT OF WAR, SAYS LONDON PAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16 [Saturday].—America is taking the leadership of the united nations in the conduct of the war, Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper, the Daily Express, says this morning. Two reasons for this conclusion are specified: First, the increase in American production announced by Washington last January; and second, the London Times report that Washington is adopting a new policy which "takes note of the possibility that the united nations might be able to pass from the defensive to the offensive this year."

These things, says the Express, "may be of much consequence in changing the course and conduct of the war," and they indicate that "America is assuming leadership of the united nations."

The suggestion that the United States has discarded long range plans for winning the war and is now "planning for a swift victory" was made also in the News Chronicle in a dispatch from its New York correspondent.

HOW U.S. ENVOY MADE DIPLOMATIC HISTORY IN ROME

InContact with Foreign Office Five Months.

MADRID, Spain, May 15 (AP).—For more than five months after Italy declared war upon the United States, George Wadsworth Jr., United States chargé d'affaires in Rome, made diplomatic history by keeping in daily contact with the Italian foreign ministry, it was disclosed today as he passed thru Madrid en route home.

Wadsworth, a native of Buffalo, N. Y., was aboard the last of four trainloads of Americans from Italy headed toward Lisbon tonight to board the Swedish liner Drottningholm.

Three other trains bearing 120 Americans from Germany, including Leland B. Morris, chargé d'affaires in Berlin, entered Spain during the day at Irun, on the French border.

Police Guard Staff.

After receiving Italy's war declaration from Count Galeazzo Ciano on Dec. 11, Wadsworth arranged to continue conversations with a subordinate of the Italian foreign minister on matters concerning departure of the embassy staff.

Swiss legation in Rome assumed representation of American interests, but two American embassy secretaries, Elbridge Burbrow of San Francisco and Merritt Cottes of Norfolk, Va., stayed on as Wadsworth's liaison officers. The embassy staff itself lived in three Rome hotels, with individual, 24 hour police guards each.

Count Ciano called Wadsworth to his office on the afternoon of Dec. 11. As the envoy crossed the long room to the foreign minister's desk, the count rose, gave the Fascist salute with great formality, and said in English:

"I have sent for you to tell you in the name of my king and in that of the Italian government that as of today Italy considers itself at war with the United States."

Gives Note to Ciano.

"Mr. minister," Wadsworth replied, "I need not tell you I am bitterly sorry. I have brought with me one very brief aide memoire which I wish to leave with you."

Ciano interrupted to say he could not accept further communications from the American envoy.

"What I have to say is hardly a communication," Wadsworth replied. "It is a brief personal message to you personally from Ambassador Phillips." [At that time Ambassador William Phillips was in the United States, having been called home some time before.]

"Let me see it," Ciano said, and after reading the note his stiff formality was relaxed somewhat.

"Please thank Mr. Phillips for his message," Ciano, who is Mussolini's son-in-law, then told Wadsworth. "I too have appreciated his friendship."

In his note Phillips conveyed his best wishes to Ciano and reiterated thanks for "friendship and helpfulness" shown him by the Italian official during "my happy years in Rome."

explosion had shaken the east jetty of the southwest passage of the river's mouth the morning of the torpedoing. The report said damage was slight and no menace to navigation was created.

The navy said it had not determined whether this explosion had been caused by a stray torpedo, a torpedo deliberately fired from an enemy submarine, or by some other cause.

Three Survivors Reach Isle.

MEXICO CITY, May 15 (AP).—A lifeboat carrying three survivors of the torpedoed steamer Montana has arrived at Isla de Mujeres [Isle of Women] off the tip of the Yucatan peninsula, a dispatch to the newspaper Excelsior from Cozumel reported today.

The dispatch said the Montana was torpedoed May 9, but did not give its nationality. It added the survivors said 23 others left the ship in another lifeboat but have not been seen since.

Report Sub in Pacific.

MAZATLAN, Mexico, May 15 (AP).—Six shark fishermen reported yesterday they had seen a submarine running on the surface 12 miles off this Pacific coast port, but said it submerged before they could distinguish identifying marks on the conning tower.

MEXICANS DEMAND WAR

MEXICO CITY, May 15 (AP).—A deluge of demands that Mexico declare war on the axis arose in political and labor quarters today as anger mounted over the first torpedoing of a Mexican ship in this war with the loss of 14 lives.

Congressional leaders weighed the grave issue at an informal meeting, but deferred action pending a reply from Rome, Berlin, and Tokio to the government's demand for "complete satisfaction." That demand set next Thursday as the deadline for a reply.

German Club Stoned.

While the legislators were meeting a throng of National university students stoned the German club in the heart of Mexico City. Several windows were smashed before police dispersed the demonstrators.

Senate Leader Leon Garcia, spokesman for President Manuel Avila Camacho in the upper chamber, urged that an extraordinary session of congress be called to declaro war on the axis.

Deputy Aurelio Pamanes Escobedo, president of the permanent congressional commission, said however, such a session would not be summoned until the chief executive and Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla have had time to analyze axis reaction to the government's note.

The General Confederation of Labor, one of Mexico's three most powerful workers' organizations, demanded that property of all axis citizens in this country be confiscated as indemnification for the loss of the sunken vessel, the 7,500 ton tanker Potrero Del Llano which was torpedoed off the United States east coast.

The tanker, formerly the Italian Lucifero which was taken over by Mexico last year, was attacked at night while proceeding fully lighted and with the Mexican flag illuminated.

ARMY TO TRAIN LARGE FORCE OF GLIDER PILOTS

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—Army preparations to start training immediately of large numbers of glider pilots were disclosed today in a war department announcement that glider pilot schools were being established.

Upwards of 100,000 civilian fliers are expected to provide a pool of candidates for training in piloting the motorless planes on and behind war fighting fronts. Civilian pilots between 18 and 35 who are ineligible for army and navy aviation cadet training may qualify.

Several civilian æronautics authority schools have been selected in the middle west to train glider flyers, the department said, and the instruction also will be given at special army schools. The candidates must be graduates of the CAA elementary course or hold a pilot or glider license, the department said.

Americans, 45 to 65, 'Most Bloodthirsty,' Hershey Says

MONTREAL, Que., May 15 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, United States selective service director, told the Canadian club today that men between 45 and 65 appeared to him to be the most "bloodthirsty people I have ever come across." "They are ready to fight, even more so than the men in the draft age limit," he declared. "There is no limit to what they will do to win the war, and I believe they will in the end be responsible to some extent for victory."

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

"The TNT comes in by rail over there." The major pointed to a low brick shed from which the end of a red box car protruded.

"Then it moves along that inclosed passageway and goes to the bomb loading line. After the bombs are loaded they are stored in those magazines up yonder to await shipment."

Just as simple as that. Yet between the shed over there and the magazines up yonder are performed some of the most exacting and hazardous tasks civilian war workers are called upon to face.

A Vast Bomb Depot.

Here is the vital center of a vast bomb and shell loading depot in the Chicagoland area. In a few hours it can turn out as many tons of high explosive bombs as were dropped April 24 by the RAF in its smashing raid upon the Heinkel aircraft factories at Rostock.

The thousands of technicians and explosives experts who pack death into steel projectiles here are pepped up currently by the strong possibility that the two big bombs with which Capt. Colin Kelly sank the Jap battleship Haruna on Dec. 9 were loaded by some of them at this depot.

Chicagoans have been aware for several months that bombs and shells are being loaded in this area. But hardly one in a thousand has any specific knowledge on [illegible] subject.

TNT Comes [illegible] Boxes.

As the major said, [illegible] TNT comes in by rail, packed i[illegible]at might pass for soap boxes. I[illegible] a crystalline powder, light yello[illegible] color and bitter to the taste. [illegible]he unloading shed the lids are t[illegible] off the boxes and a number of [illegible] are piled on a hand truck.

One man then p[illegible]s the truck up a long passage to t[illegible] brick screening house. Here, still a[illegible]e, he forces the yellow powder thr[illegible] screens, reloads his truck, and pus[illegible]s it along an extension of the passage which ends at a padlocked door. He opens the lock with the only key in existence that will fit it. Inside waits an elevator with an empty truck which he wheels out to make room for the loaded one.

Then he snaps the padlock shut. The elevator goes up. The screener starts back down the passage, pushing the empty truck ahead of him. Meanwhile, the screened TNT has reached the third floor of the bomb line's most vital building.

A Storehouse of Death!

Observe the men in this room. They are worth looking at. They are about to undertake one of the two most ticklish operations performed in this vast depot of modern war. Their faces are serious, but serene.

Their personal histories are known better to the government than to themselves. Every year of their lives has been under scrutiny. Their histories in their home communities, their travels, and their family relationships all are known. They have been in government service many years.

Before entering this room—whose doors now are locked—their persons were inspected twice. And—most important of all—these are all family men with children who live adjacent to this storehouse of death!

Explosive Is Preheated First.

The TNT is moving now into the maws of great gas fed preheaters. The doors are shut and the men wait as the temperature climbs higher and higher. At the precise second, just before the explosive begins to melt, it is withdrawn and passed swiftly to the floor below. There it is guided into the melting vats by a second group of men—counterpart of the first.

The gas flames roar against the vats. The TNT grows moist. It trickles and becomes finally a great creamy mass. And as it does so its temperature is watched and anticipated with concentration born of the certainty that one second of distraction or carelessness now may send a great section of Illinois thundering skyward.

The vital instant comes. The flames die. The TNT, looking like a mass of fondant, is ready for the loading line. On the floor below, to which the TNT passes in insulated conduits, the candy shop illusion is more pronounced. The loaders, dressed in khaki and white uniforms with chef-like caps, step daintily about among the big green bomb cases, smoothing off a top here, doing something with a spatula there.

The Bomb Line Moves.

All thru the day and night the bomb line moves. As it is left behind the major remarks that you have just seen the line that is producing more bombs per minute than any other in the United States.

And the bomb plant, vast as it is, makes only a few dots on an aerial map of this reservation. Around it and beyond it stretch the storage areas, thru which gravel and paved roads—100 miles of them—trace their lengths. The rock for them came from the depot's private quarry.

Far outnumbering the warehouses, however are the massive buildings in the principal storage areas. Vaulted brick magazines in long lines march thru the fields of reinforced concrete igloos where the depot's high explosives are stored. In the magazines are kept cartridges, propellent charges, and other materiel.

Every Inch Guarded.

Guarding the great depot against enemy outsiders and careless insiders has been elevated to a science. Two coördinated police and guard forces—civil and military—cover every inch and cranny of the reservation daily. Patrols survey all the roads and tracks at studiedly irregular periods. Vital spots are guarded only by family men, whose people live nearby.

Entering the shell or bomb plants employés disrobe and file down a passage to the showers. From there they go into another room where their work clothes are waiting. These have been inspected inch by inch since last they wore them. Visitors' shoes are covered by rubbers.

And everywhere in these loading plants "housekeeping" is constantly in progress. Suction cleaners pick up crumbs of TNT. Dust isn't allowed to accumulate.

Boxes Are Burned.

Even the boxes in which TNT is shipped are burned on a far corner of the reservation. The oily black smoke that boils up tells why. The boxes have absorbed the heavy, benzenish fumes of the explosive. If confined in a stove these boards might cause a violent explosion. People of the countryside who lack the facts have criticized the depot for this destruction of apparently good lumber.

They also complain that the best fishing hole in these parts now is forbidden territory because it lies along the reservation.

"They're right about the good fishing," said the major appreciatively. "It sure is."

Just as the reservation's borders are closely guarded, so is the air above it. About three months ago two civilian pilots flew across one corner of the area. One is reported selling shoes for a living now and the other working in a delicatessen.

Plants Cleaned Weekly.

One day each week is spent cleaning up the loading plants for safety. Even the roof is brushed free of dust. All lights and switches are enclosed and sealed and are explosionproof.

The health of the workers is guarded, too. TNT workers must drink a pint of milk every four hours to combat poisons that may pass into the bloodstream thru the lungs. They are given periods of work in the open, away from the heavy fumes. And morale is high. These men know the product they speed on its way deals actual death and destruction to the enemy. The motto of the entire Chicago ordnance district originated here. It is:

"He who relaxes helps the axis."

In the mammoth shell loading plant there is another slogan, of which more later. On this day molten TNT is being poured into anti-aircraft and larger shells. When it has hardened, the projectiles are clamped into the necks of tall brass cartridge cases which previously have been filled with smokeless powder that will blast them from the guns.

The final operation is screwing in the nose fuses. Then the complete rounds—shell, fuse, and cartridge—are put into individual fiber containers and packed in fours in wooden boxes. During every hour of the day TNT is going into the brilliant yellow projectiles of all sizes. And what is the slogan?

"Big yellow shells for little yellow bellies!"

FIRES AT HIT RUN AUTO.

Leonard Ehrlich dashed out of his home at 2628 North Western avenue carrying a rifle Thursday night after he heard a car crash into his automobile which was parked at the curb. The driver of the other car sped away, followed by two shots which passing police heard. They arrested Ehrlich.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mildred Stahl, 5731 South Francisco avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

Have you ever had the opportunity to administer first aid to any one?

WHERE ASKED.

The Majestic theater building, 22 West Monroe street.

THE ANSWERS.

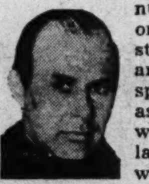
Ed Lehmann Jr., real estate man, 2136 Lincoln Park West—There were four of us in the car when it tipped over. We could all have used a little first aid, but the man pinned under the car needed it most of all. He could hardly breathe until we removed the car and then required artificial respiration.

R. F. Stonesifer, internal revenue agent, 1226 Winona street—One of my students in the first aid class fainted the other day when I gave a vivid lecture on broken bones. I set a good example for the students by performing all the little things the book advises and it was no time at all until she was with us again.

Spencer J. Fairhead, building manager, 10348 South Wood street—The janitor had just placed a large bottle of water upside down in the dispenser. He reached for a cup and the bottle burst. The glass almost severed his hand at the wrist. I made a tourniquet with a coin and handkerchief and slowed the bleeding. Then the doctor took over.

Genevieve Sommer, stenographer, 3701 West Irving Park road—The only chance I've ever had to use first aid was when my swimming partner cut a deep gash in her foot. I washed it and bound it with a handkerchief—the best I could do without a first aid kit. We both felt better when we couldn't see it.

Don May, advertising consultant, Hillside, Ill.—The biggest boy in camp—and also the best swimmer—dove into the water. We thought he was really establishing an endurance record when he didn't come up. It was more serious than that. After we located and rescued him it took many minutes of artificial respiration to bring him to.



Stanley M. Gonska, motorcycle delivery man, 1406 South Kenneth avenue—During a ball game one of the players stepped on a loose stone and suffered a very bad sprain. I bound his foot as tightly as possible with my necktie. Hours later the doctor said we had done a good job of preventing the swelling.

JUDGE DESORT HAS TWO BIRDS, BOTH IN BUSHES

He's Hunting for Peacock Catnip and Muzzles.

Two years ago Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court admired peacocks. At that time he saw a handsome pair in Elgin. He wanted to buy them for his country home on Summit drive, Winfield, where he has a sort of a zoo—ponies, horses, fancy pigeons, a tame deer, and the like.

They're all pets for his four young children. Judge Desort thought maybe the two peacocks would make nice pets, too, but the owner, Herman Goldberg, advised him to wait two years until the peacocks grew up.

Goldberg Was Thinking of Penguins.

Last Sunday Goldberg delivered the Peacocks, mature and beautiful, to Judge Desort's country place. Judge Desort was pleased. But he noted with a judicial eye that the peacocks sported large wings.

"We'd better clip their wings," suggested the judge, "or they'll fly away."

Goldberg overruled him. "They can't fly," he said, opening the crate.

A moment later one of the peacocks winged its way to the roof of Judge Desort's home, and the other soared to the top of a tree in the lot of a neighbor, William P. Littell.

Judge Desort tried to lure the birds down with corn. He tried to reach them with ladders and lassos. He tried to coax them down with pretty words. The birds perched all day Sunday in the tree and on the roof. They perched in the same places all day Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Fowl Scream in Devilish Key.

And all the time, day and night, they called to each other across a 300 foot space, in loud, raucous, rasping voices.

On Thursday the errant peacocks flew to the opposite bank of the Du Page river, which flows past the Desort home. There they continued their disrespectful vocal chorus. They were still at it yesterday.

In court, some one observed timidly to Judge Desort that it certainly was a wet day, just making small, friendly conversation.

"Yes, a beautiful day for those hand-painted monsters, and I hope they catch colds," the judge mused. "I wonder—has any one ever thought of peacock stew?"

SEARCHERS TO RIP UP MANSION IN TREASURE HUNT

Hornersville, Mo., May 15 (AP).—The walls of an 18 room mansion which have given up a sizable fortune will be torn down in a search for further treasure.

Between $200,000 and $250,000 has been found in the house, which was owned by Dr. F. Kinsolving, who died May 5 at the age of 79.

Trustees of the estate have posted a guard around the house. It was said two wills have been found, but search continued for a small bag the retired physician usually carried, in the belief it contained a later will. He is survived by a son and daughter.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries. Persons are asked to keep their letters short because of the volume of mail.]

L. C. R. writes: "We have a son in Australia and want to send him anything that would be a treat or help to him there and will be carried thru the mail. Are all kinds of candies and cookies refused mailing by postal authorities? How about toilet articles?"

ANSWER: The postoffice department, in a recent interpretation of the ruling concerning the mailing of perishable matter, announced that candies, cookies, and other similar foodstuffs will be accepted for mailing if they are contained in hermetically sealed cans or other types of metal containers which would make the contents nonperishable. This in turn should be packed in substantial cartons made of double faced corrugated fiberboard, or material of equal strength, and tied with strong cord. Toilet articles may be mailed if they are packed securely.

R. O. J. writes: "My son was drafted into the army five months ago. He had a few debts and also a car that was not paid for. The debtors are trying to make me pay the debts by telling me that if I don't they will have him arrested by the army officials and they will make it bad for him. Can they do this? My son would have paid his bills if he had not been drafted."

ANSWER: You need have no fear that the army will arrest your son at the request of some collective agency. The army will not act as a collection agency for civilian creditors. Your son's commanding officer might talk with your son in an attempt to work out some arrangement whereby he might clean up his debts by setting aside a small part of his army pay.

Mrs. D. S. S. writes: "I read in your column some time ago they do not take men in the army with false teeth. I see in today's paper you say they don't take men with chronic sinusitis. My husband has both and is in the army. Where do you get your information? You sure are wrong!"

ANSWER: It is true that on Jan. 19 this department, in answer to a question concerning false teeth, said a man with false teeth would not be accepted for the army. That was according to then existing army physical regulations. Last February, Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, announced that dental requirements had been lowered and men with false teeth who could eat army rations would be accepted. Gen. Hershey's announcement was given wide publicity and this department again printed the ruling on March 10 in reply to a query. In answering the query May 12 concerning chronic sinusitis, we said that "chronic sinusitis, unless mild in degree, would disqualify a registrant." Evidently your husband's condition was diagnosed by the army physician as mild.

A. A. writes: "I am a parolee. I was recently instructed to appear for a physical examination. I was given a blood test, but nothing more. Can you tell me what this indicates?"

ANSWER: It means that your draft board has placed you in class 1-A. You have received a preliminary physical examination. Tho you may not have been aware of it, the board physician also ascertained that you were not suffering from deformities, blindness, or other apparent ailments. Perhaps you did not know it, but parolees are eligible for induction.

To Mrs. M. B.: If you will send your address, this department will answer by letter your question concerning your daughter.

To G. W.: For the information you desire, write to the Canadian Aviation bureau, Statler hotel, St. Louis, Mo.

To Mrs. B. N. K.: If your husband's condition is found by the examining army physician to be as you have described it, he will not be inducted.

INSIDE WORKERS REJECT $2 RAISE FOR MILK UNION

Seven hundred members of the Inside Dairy Workers' union met last night in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium and voted against acceptance of a $2 weekly wage raise tendered by the Associated Milk Dealers of Chicago at the request of John W. Cofer, a federal conciliator. The union's wage committee was instructed to negotiate another week and to demand arbitration if no better offer can be obtained. The Milk Wagon Drivers' union has settled with the employers for a $2 a week increase. The Inside Dairy Workers asked for a $10 raise. The scale now varies between $44 and $54 a week, and union officials said the $2 offer was insufficient to equalize the rising cost of living.

Lincoln MacVeagh Named Minister to South Africa

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—Lincoln MacVeagh of Connecticut, American minister to Iceland, was nominated today by President Roosevelt to be American minister to the Union of South Africa. The White House did not disclose who would become minister to Iceland or whether Leo J. Keena, present minister to South Africa, had resigned or been appointed to a new post.

LAKEVIEW BOYS LEARN SPIRIT OF ARMORED FORCE

News of 'Fighting 69th' at Fort Knox.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on page 8).

Fort Knox, Ky., May 15.—Any one who had been there that night, to watch them come back from an unscheduled 12 mile hike, would know that "The Fighting 69th" was no idle term given these hardened young men in jest.

The phrase came originally from Thomas F. McManus, 3130 Clifton avenue, Chicago, a garage owner, and chairman of draft board 69. It was McManus, 43 years old, and two of his buddies from World War I. who recruited this group of 338 young men, most of them from the Lake View district.

They volunteered as a unit, after arranging for official permission, and are now training at the armored force replacement training center for service with one of the branches of the armored force.

Now in their sixth week, the men are growing accustomed to army life and the intensified and specialized training here. But it was still impressive to watch them swing smartly down the company street at 9 p. m.

Taken Away from Supper.

Four hours before they were changing clothes for "chow." Came an order from the company commander. Back into fatigue uniform, and off they went, six miles out into the country on an empty stomach, up "Agony hill," then a problem in the woods, and six miles back.

And they still had pep enough for the usual horseplay of barracks life while washing up for dinner—a hot meal of chicken and noodles—which had been kept waiting for them.

All Kinds to Make Army.

While most of the recruits have civilian skills of particular use to the armored force, a haphazard sampling of occupations indicates once again that it takes all kinds to make an army. Consider these:

Tony Barone Jr., 31, 3511½ North Halsted street, grocery manager; Emmett Fox, 23, Ottowa, butcher; Jacob Franz, 21, Ottowa, caretaker of state museum; George Eck, 31, 3016 Lloyd avenue, office clerk; Emanuel Gordon, 24, 516 West Addison street, attorney; James Campbell, 32, 1026 Dakin street, bartender; Joseph Lehman, 23, 5607 South Campbell avenue, farmer; Louis Cardinal, 30, 3746 Broadway, barber; Martin Zielinski, 28, Peru, hotel clerk; Steve Vezich, 37, 649 Lord Bluff street, Joliet, ammunition plant worker.

What's in a Name?

Company C of the 6th battalion, which contains most of the Chicago men [the others are in two neighboring companies], was receiving instruction in the nomenclature of a Thompson submachine gun. There are only 30 different parts, and some of the lads who had never seen more complicated mechanism than a meat cleaver, were puzzling over the pieces when the company commander, Capt. Daniel A. Rauenzahn of Seattle, Wash., quipped:

"I expect a lot of good scores from you men. You're from Chicago and you have a certain reputation."

Well, it was a hot day, anyway, and sometimes people forget that Al Capone went out of circulation in the early '30s.

First Company Wedding.

Company C turned out in its best uniforms last Thursday for the first wedding of their batch of Benedicts. The groom: John J. Stark, 34, of Standard, a guard at the Wilmington powder plant. His bride: Miss Olympia Galli, 28, of Cedarpoint, who runs her own drive-in soft drink stand in Pontiac.

The army is taking no chances on wrecking a valuable motorcycle, or wasting gasoline or tires. If a soldier can't learn to ride a bicycle in two days he'll never make a motorbike driver. Not only are bikes used for this purpose but more and more, all painted in regulation colors, are supplementing needed transport vehicles, particularly for messenger service.

Lieut. Boris Kutner, 25, of 1020 Hyde Park boulevard, an instructor in the motorcycle maintenance department of the armored force school, is particularly pleased with the latest type "cycle," or "sickle," as the army boys say. It is especially designed for cross-country work, and rides easier, runs cooler, has a foot gear shift lever and a hand clutch, with greater ground clearance.

SPECIAL PROGRAM TODAY CLIMAXES WAR BOND DRIVE

A special Bond Wagon program will be aired over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from noon to 12:30 p. m. today, climaxing the week's campaign in Illinois to obtain the pledges of citizens to buy war bonds and stamps regularly. The program will be aired from Nathan Hale court between Tribune Tower and the W-G-N studio. It will depict the departure of a mythical bond wagon loaded with pledges for Washington, D. C.

Mayor Kelly and Norman B. Collins, state administrator for the bond campaign, will be among the speakers. George Jessel will be master of ceremonies. Others to appear will be Sophie Tucker, Annabella, Phil Regan, Jimmy Durante, and Eddy Duchin. Ted Weems' orchestra will provide music.

U. S. to Set Up Volunteer Brigades of Farm Firemen

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—The agriculture department is planning to organize rural volunteer fire departments to combat farm fires. The companies would consist of 10 farmers each and would be organized on a nation-wide basis. It was said the organization was planned because fire dangers were aggravated by the war.

BELOVED SONGS TO BE HEARD ON W-G-N TONIGHT

Music that every one enjoys will be heard on the program America Loves a Melody over W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Marion Claire, Attilio Baggiore, and Ruth Slater will be the soloists with the W-G-N Symphony orchestra directed by Henry Weber.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, is to be the speaker.

The program will highlight melodies from "The Connecticut Yankee," "The Desert Song," and "The White Eagle."

Two song dramatizations, inspired by listeners' letters, will be presented. Writers of the letters will receive $25 for telling a personal story behind their favorite song. The first of the song spots will be the familiar hymn, "All His Jewels," sung by the chorus. Miss Claire and the chorus will sing "The Indian Love Call," from Friml's "Rose Marie," during the other song spot.

Warrant Accuses Fireman of Setting Forest Blazes

Hartford, Conn., May 15 (AP).—Judge Ernest A. Inglis issued a bench warrant today charging Edward F. La Casse, 30 years old, volunteer fireman, with starting fires in eastern Connecticut. A series of forest fires recently caused damage totaling 3 million dollars in this state and in Rhode Island. La Casse was accused of setting two fires in his home town of Plainfield which he himself helped to fight.

ROBBER GANGS GET $13,360 IN TWO STICKUPS

Seize $8,460 in Office of Finance Concern.

Three men wearing handkerchiefs to mask their faces, and armed with pistols and a shotgun, forced their way into the office of the Security Finance corporation at 804 North Ashland avenue yesterday afternoon and, after terrorizing several empoyés and customers, fled with $8,460.

Another band of three robbers, attired in coverall suits, halted two employés outside the plant of the Birk Brothers Brewing company at 2117 Wayne avenue a short while later and compelled one of them to surrender $4,900 of pay roll money that had just been drawn from a bank. They overlooked $4,100 which the second man was carrying.

Tellers Give Up Cash.

The Security corporation robbers ordered Michael Brakman and Louis Kamykowski, tellers, to hand over all the money in their cages. Miss Joan Palasz, switchboard operator, was forced to stand up with her face to a wall.

Marek Kraus, president of the firm, also was made to stand still with the shotgun pointed at him. Two male customers who were at the tellers' cages were robbed of $20 and $1, respectively, but Kraus reimbursed them for the amounts. In their flight the men rushed past a traffic policeman, but a heavy shower was falling and he paid no attention to their haste.

Smash Car Windows.

The Birk employés held up were Lester Smith, 43 years old, a foreman, and George Lawrence, 53, a cashier. At the Security National bank at 767 Milwaukee avenue they had separated the $10,000 they drew, with Smith carrying the larger amount as they got into a car.

They were curbed by the bandits in Wayne avenue near Clybourn avenue. Two of the holdup men smashed the car windows and demanded the money. Smith handed over his sack and the men fled.

SYNOPSIS.

Just preceding the present war, the lawn mower company in London, where June Clayton works as secretary, has secretly become an armament factory. Thru her failure to destroy some spoiled sheets of a confidential report, Henry and Jacob Ferrer, German agents from whom June is about to purchase a car, steal the report. Jacob escapes with the report but Henry, arrested, claims June gave him the report in exchange for the car. She is questioned by Glenday of the British secret service who, convinced of her innocence, agrees to shield her if she works for him, tho he still wants her to pose as secretary for the lawn mower company. She does not even tell her Aunt Dorothy Mallen, with whom she lives, nor her fiancé, Ralph Eddis, about her new job. Her first assignment is to attend a party given by Matarasso, a dangerous espionage agent in enemy pay, where she is to meet Frank Rawlings, handsome German spy in charge of sabotage. En route to the party, Jacob Ferrer jumps into her car and forces her to give him a lift as he shoots two pursuing policemen, and orders June to abandon her car and make a getaway. She barely escapes arrest and is upset when, at the party, she hears a radio broadcast giving details of Jacob's shooting and describing her. When she leaves the party she goes to Polly Flinders, one of Glenday's workers, who burns June's clothing and gives her a new outfit to keep police from recognizing her as the girl with Jacob. Glenday orders her to cultivate Rawlings. Rawlings takes her for an airplane ride, takes pictures of a munition factory, and when the RAF summons him down for investigation, he lands June first with the forbidden films, where a confederate taxi driver picks June up, planning to rob her of the films. But June jumps from the taxi and escapes, turning the films over to Glenday, who gives her fake films in exchange to take to Rawlings at a party at Matarasso's the next night. Matarasso has become suspicious of June, and he and Rawlings question her about the fake film she has given Rawlings.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

HALF TRUTHS.

In silence Matarasso handed June his cigaret case and lighter.

She took the half sheet. The note was clearly written in ink in a precise hand.

1. Shots of castle and grounds.
2. Seaside pier.
3. Shots of Cathedral [Galstonbury].

She read it twice before she could take it in. Here was some amazing conjuring trick by Glenday and the photographic department.

"Well, then, what are you bullying me about?" she demanded. Rawlings was looking at her steadily, but did not answer, so she went on: "I suppose I have to apologize for what I said about your palming off the dangerous stuff on me. But you did mislead me, didn't you?"

"I suppose I did," returned Rawlings. "But you created a mystery. What on earth were you doing in that shoot-up on Barnes common?"

"And who was the man?" demanded Matarasso.

She had chosen her line. She was giving them a picture of herself as a feather brained girl who was ready to do a little spying in return for a "good time." And she suddenly saw how the name of Ferrer might help her.

"You promise you won't tell anybody if I tell you?" she stipulated.

"I will," said Rawlings. "But Mat talks in his sleep."

"Well his name was Ferrer—Jacob Ferrer."

Simultaneously from the two men came a gasp of surprise.

"And how in heck, girlie, do you know it was Jacob Ferrer?"

Another bull's eye! She had got them now where she wanted them.

"You seem to know him. I wish I hadn't told you and I shan't tell you any more."

"Yes you will, m'dear——"

"Shut up, Mat! Don't mind him, June. He was brought up by a brutal stepmother and it's made him nervous for life. If you won't tell us, you won't, and Matarasso can't make you. But you do owe him 250 quid, don't you?"

"So I do!" gasped June. "And if we hadn't started all this I was going to ask——"

"That's all right, my dear," said Matarasso, with all his former benevolence. "You had bad luck. If it's inconvenient to you to settle up tomorrow—well, it's worth a bit to me to get a line on Ferrer."

"Really!" She must remember to appear very interested in money. "O then, of course, it's only fair to help you if I can. Well, you see, he and his brother Henry——"

"Correct!" put in Rawlings with his eye on Matarasso.

"They had a small garage near Tarlinghouse's where I work. To cut a long story short they gave me that car in return for a copy of some notes about something or other the firm is making. They're making armaments, you know; I think it was something to do with airplane parts. I remember the short name for it was 'Timcat'."

"Did you hear her say 'Timcat,' Frank Rawlings, or didn't you!" drawled Matarasso. "Go on, my dear."

She went on, using truth where it served her, suppressing it when it did not.

"And then they came and stole the originals and it was found out, and the police are looking for them. And if they're caught I daresay they'll give me away and I shall be in it, too. It's been a wretched business as far as I'm concerned, and all I've got out of it was a cheap little car. At least, Ferrer had the decency to send me another after getting mine tied up with the police. Have I helped you, Mr. Matarasso?"

"Wait a minute! You haven't come to the shoot-up."

She told them how Ferrer had forced an entry into her car and in turn had been pursued by the police.

"But what did he want of you?"

"That's what I don't know. He wants something and he said it would be worth my while to give it to him. And then the police business started and when he got out he said he would see me again. But he hasn't turned up since."

Rawlings and Matarasso exchanged glances. There was a long silence before Matarasso spoke.

"You're doing fine, girlie. Now if Ferrer contacts with you again, what about giving us the tip?"

"O, I don't know," said June doubtfully. "What do you want to do with him? I've no reason to get him into trouble."

"He's got you into trouble over that shootup," said Matarasso. "If they were to link you up with that now, you'd probably get about two years. And another two for helping Ferrer with those papers. See what I'm getting at, Beautiful?"

"No."

"Just one simple little fact. Are you and I friends?"

"He means," said Rawlings, "that if you do what he wants, he'll let you off with the two-fifty pounds and be your favorite uncle. And if you won't do what he wants, he'll tell the police you were in that car. And I can't stop him, June."

"There's no need for that kind of talk, Frank," said Matarasso unctuously. "June is going to be friends, aren't you, my dear! You put us in touch with Ferrer—without his knowing it, of course—and we'll take care of you."

June nodded, as if with reluctant consent. Rawlings went to a side table and poured himself a drink. Matarasso got up.

"I've got a spot of work to do," he said. "Frank will look after you—when he's got all he wants himself. Good night, m'dear."

By the side table was a wagon containing sandwiches and the like. Rawlings said nothing until Matarasso had left the room.

"Do you want any of this stuff?" he asked.

"No, thank you."

Silence, while Rawlings drained his glass. June had the impression that she was about to face another ordeal. He came slowly toward her.

"June, I'm sorry you're in this kind of thing."

"I might say the same of you."

"I know the game and can take care of myself. You don't."

"Well, I couldn't help it. I thought it didn't matter about those notes I gave Ferrer. And that seems to have landed me 'in the game,' as you call it."

His face was drawn and his hands worked restlessly.

"You're doing it for money, June. That's horrible, you know. I'm not British, nor anything like it. I am German. At any time now we might be at war with Britain, fighting for our lives. My job is to try and save German lives."

"O—war!" she exclaimed scornfully. "Anyhow I've never felt that I have any nationality and I just don't care."

"At any rate, you let your boss down by stealing his papers."

She was astonished and disconcerted at the line he was taking. She had not anticipated that this dangerous spy would give her a scolding.

"Why are you running me down like this?" she asked petulantly.

"Because I love you—and you've made it impossible for me to respect you as well. You're upsetting me and making me bad at my work. It was thinking of you that made me jumble up those two spools of film."

She still could not see what Glenday had actually done.

"What happened to the other film?"

"The police took it. Perhaps the film really was spoiled as they said. Perhaps—they don't want to arrest me—yet."

"But you think they will? One day?"

"They're bound to, eventually," he answered. "Listen. I am a spy—and proud of it. It's an honorable calling. But it attracts also the lowest kinds of human being—and we have to deal with them—the people who spy for money. Sometimes they're traitors and these are generally foul men who need money for their vices. Sometimes, like you, they are girls who want a good time."

So he had swallowed whole the lies she had told him! And he was cursing her for the picture of herself she had thus created. Because he loved her. That's what he said anyway. But had he really meant it?

THE YELLOW KID HIS DAPPER SELF AFTER LONG RIDE

Unperturbed by an automobile ride that started in Atlanta, Ga., at noon Thursday and ended at 5:30 a. m. yesterday at the Cook county jail, Joseph [The Yellow Kid] Weil, the old con man, was alert and immaculate a few hours later when he extended an interview to the press.

Two deputies, whose ages total only the 68 years The Yellow Kid boasts, still were fast asleep, worn out by the 717 mile drive with time out only for an occasional sandwich and a bit of gasoline.

Lacking the pink whiskers, yellow gloves, and yellow vest, which caused the late John [The Bath] Coughlin to dub him "The Yellow Kid," Weil greeted reporters, many of whom had known him in and out of jail for 25 years.

"It's easy to clip a man if you can get him to trust you," The Yellow Kid philosophized.

"My first venture," he recalled, was a transaction in copper. I bought a mine for $240 and sold a bit of stock. It was easy, you know, because there is a little bit of larceny in the heart of everybody. If there wasn't, nobody would be cheated.

"Before you stands possibly the best example of the fact that crime doesn't pay. My earliest ambition was to be a doctor and I believe I would have been a good one. However, other things interfered."

Weil protested slightly when greeted as "Kid."

"I'm not a kid any more, you know. I'm 68 years old, come July. I have lived 1,000 years in 68, had a lot of excitement and a good time. I want to retire now and live in peace, if the law allows."

Weil was philosophical about being allowed to live in peace by the law. An old indictment charging him with having fleeced Mrs. Bertha Harter and her daughter, Miss Agnes, out of $32,000 to invest in mining property, has been revived and it was on this charge that he was removed from Atlanta after completion of another sentence for fraud.

The "Yellow Kid" reminded interviewers yesterday that his old companion in crime, Fred [The Deacon] Buckminster, was acquitted in the Harter case before he died in 1939. Weil will be arraigned next week.

M'DONALD CRIES AS MOTHER TELLS HOW FATHER DIED

His First Sign of Emotion at Slaying Trial.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Mrs. Christine Wagner yesterday told from the witness stand in Criminal court every detail from the unhappy past that might help her son, Clarence, 17 years old, who is on trial for the murder of his high school sweetheart, Dorothy Broz.

The mother's testimony became pure and unrehearsed drama when Defense Attorney Donald D. Rogers asked her where her first husband, Virgil McDonald, died. She said nothing for a minute, then in a low voice:

"Do I have to answer that?"

Rogers said she did.

She was silent again. The courtroom became completely quiet. Then she whispered:

"He hung himself in the police station."

Slayer Shows Emotion.

For the first time since the trial began McDonald showed emotion. He burst into violent sobs and buried his blond head in his hands for several minutes before resuming his habitual fixed stare at the floor. Mrs. Wagner also recovered and was composed for the rest of her stay in the witness box.

Before calling Mrs. Wagner as its first witness the defense, thru Attorney Ben Aronin, gave the jury of eight women and four men an account of how it hopes to prove that McDonald was insane when he kissed and killed Dorothy Broz in the Palace theater balcony last Feb. 24.

Aronin promised to trace the beginnings of McDonald's so-called mental condition to his father and his father's family; to show that the father suffered from "insane fits of jealousy and abnormalities in his sex life," killing himself when Clarence was 11; that Carl Wagner, Clarence's present stepfather, "persecuted and mistreated both mother and children, singling Clarence out as the object of his persecutions, and repeatedly told him: 'Your father was crazy and you are crazy too'."

"World of Fantasy."

He said he also would prove that Clarence "lived in a world of fantasy"; that his mother recognized that his mental condition was not normal some months before the tragedy; that one of the immediate causes of the crime was the film "Hellzapoppin," which he and Dorothy saw just before he shot her, and that McDonald had "a split mind," at the time the murder was committed.

Mrs. Wagner, a native of Germany, traced her life from the time of meeting Virgil McDonald, a member of the American army of occupation, near Coblenz, Germany, thru her marriage and trip to this country three days later.

She described their moving from place to place, the birth of their children, McDonald's changing from job to job, their dependence on charity, and how, when Clarence was still very young, his father swore at him and struck him.

She said Clarence was sickly as a child and "had terrible headaches and ran a fever."

Says Stepfather Unfriendly.

Rogers passed quickly over the elder McDonald's suicide while being held on a sex charge, and asked about Mrs. Wagner's marriage to her present husband, whom she met in 1938, and whose son, Robert Wagner, is now married to Mrs. Wagner's daughter, Phoebe.

Mrs. Wagner testified that her new husband was unfriendly toward Clarence and ordered him to leave the house.

"Did Carl ever attempt any violence against Clarence?" Rogers asked.

"Once he went after him," Mrs. Wagner said, "and grabbed him by the throat. I hollered for help and his son came in and wrestled him away. He had Clarence across the bed choking him."

Tells of Son's Behavior.

She then was asked how Clarence had acted in the months preceding the slaying. She said that at night, when asleep, he would "hit the wall with his fists." She told also of meeting and liking Dorothy, and testified that an agent for the Great Western railroad—from whose offices Clarence, a former employé, stole the gun with which he slew the girl—had telephoned the Wagner home.

"After he called did you search Clarence's room for the gun?" Rogers asked.

Mrs. Wagner said she searched the room, the house, and asked Clarence about it. He denied having a gun.

On cross-examination Leslie Curtis, assistant state's attorney, brought out that Clarence had been devoted to his father, that he had been considered a good student, and that he engaged in a number of outside activities.

Robert Wagner, 6834 West 34th street, Berwyn, who, with his wife, Phoebe, lived for some time with Mr. and Mrs. Wagner and Clarence at 2823 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, testified next.

Tells of His Home Life.

He said he and Phoebe lived there eight months. Frank Ferlic, another defense attorney, asked whether in that time the elder Wagner had ever been kind to Clarence.

"Never," young Wagner said.

"Did he ever speak to him?" Ferlic asked.

"Just cusswords and slang," the witness replied.

Wagner corroborated the statement by Clarence's mother that Clarence was restive at night. Of occasions when Clarence slept at young Wagner's home, after he and Phoebe had left the parents' home, Wagner said:

"He would wake up, get out of bed and start fighting with the walls. Threw a regular fit. We'd tell him in the morning and he'd know nothing about it. He'd just say his hands were bruised."

Curtis was brief in his cross-examination.

"How old are you, Mr. Wagner?" He asked.

"Twenty-two," was the answer.

"And how long have you hated your father?"

"Ever since I can remember," Wagner said.

Mother in Asylum.

He then testified that his mother had been in an insane asylum since he was two months old.

McDonald's sister, Phoebe, who was next on the stand, told of her visit to McDonald after his arrest. She said she asked "Clarence, what's this all about?" and that he answered:

"Sis, I don't know. Please don't ask me any more. If I knew I'd tell you."

During the morning session an account of the reënactment of the murder was read by Assistant State's Attorney Francis McCurrie, while Curtis read the confession. The spectators leaned forward when McCurrie read the question: "Just before you shot her, did you kiss her?" and McDonald's answer: "I kissed Dorothy when I shot her."

Two lines from the confession were:

"What caused you to shoot Dorothy?"

"I didn't want no one else to have her."

The hearing will be resumed Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

SOUTH AMERICAN CARRIES 360 TO TULIP FESTIVAL

Despite whitecaps and a prospective rough crossing, the SS South American of the Georgian Bay line sailed at 10 o'clock last night for Holland, Mich., officially opening Chicago's lake cruise season and carrying 360 flower and garden enthusiasts to the "Dutch City of America" for the opening of the annual Tulip Time Festival there today. Because of the navy's occupation of Navy pier, the ship sailed from the southwest end of the pier.

The tulip festival is expected to attract thousands to view the 3,000,000 blooms on exhibition there. S. H. Houtman, manager of the festival, said the activities will reach their height this week-end and features will include the usual Dutch costumes, the ritual of washing the streets, parades, music, and folk dancing.

A Memorial day cruise to Green Bay and Charlevoix on the SS North American May 29, will precede the regular seven day cruise season opening June 27, according to E. J. Goebel, passenger traffic manager of the Georgian Bay line.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THREE FRONTS TO WATCH.

American forces are to be found on all the continents and on all the oceans and it is therefore difficult for even the experts to follow the action in all its detail. There are a dozen theaters in which Americans are playing a part and from which news is received from time to time. None of them can be wholly neglected by the citizen who wants to keep up with events, for there is no telling when our forces may be challenged in Iceland, Eritrea, India, or some place else.

The problem may be simplified somewhat by the knowledge that there are three areas of American effort which are particularly active at the moment and, therefore, particularly deserving of attention.

The first of them is the war in the Pacific and particularly in the southwest Pacific. Here there are welcome evidences that we are recovering from the shattering blow struck at Pearl Harbor. Our government invited the attack on Hawaii when the fleet was divided between the Atlantic and Pacific long before Dec. 7. The failure to develop a high degree of coöperation and coordination between the army, the navy, and their flying services gave the Japanese ground for the belief that they could safely risk the venture. They did not miscalculate.

Now, however, the situation in the Pacific is being retrieved under the leadership of Gen. MacArthur. The old mistakes are not being repeated. In the successful engagement in the Coral sea all our forces acted in unison. The navy, the naval air force, and the army air force were handled as a team under a single captain and the results have been highly gratifying. Tho the full story of the battle has not yet been revealed, there is little doubt that the enemy withdrew after suffering materially heavier losses than he inflicted.

So far, so good. In the second of our major spheres of activity the results thus far have been a good deal less reassuring. We have not done well against the submarines which are attacking shipping along our eastern seaboard all the way from Quebec to Texas. The losses of ships and cargoes have been far heavier than we can easily afford particularly at a time when shipping is in great demand. The problem of finding and destroying the marauders should present no insuperable difficulties but for lack of competence, or energy, or coöperation, or for some other reason, the job has been bungled. Evidently we were as ill-prepared to meet the threat to our coastwise shipping as we were to defend the portion of the battle fleet which had been left exposed at Pearl Harbor.

There is a third theater which also deserves the closest public attention tho this one is not presenting a scene of military action. Americans cannot afford to overlook the efforts of the Communists and their fellow travelers to overthrow our form of government. The war has given these wreckers their great opportunity. They were in bad odor during the period of the Stalin-Hitler pact and the war on Finland and could make little progress. Now they pose as superpatriots and they are using their opportunity to smear Americans who have consistently opposed communism and all other forms of totalitarianism. The Communists welcome the growth of burocratic rule in this country and all measures aimed at the destruction of the middle classes because these are Communist aims.

Curiously enough, these efforts to destroy our government have found support in a socially influential class of Americans who can best be described as ex-expatriates. They got their incomes from America but they lived abroad and many of them married abroad. The war in Europe drove them back to the safety of our country. It might be supposed that in such circumstances they would be particularly zealous in defense of our institutions but, instead, they are continuing to seek the favor of titled expatriates of Europe who fled here for refuge. These aristocrats, in turn, tho guests in our house, are not above using America for their own purposes regardless of consequences to our country. They would have nothing to do with communism in their own countries but they are quite willing to join hands with the Reds in America.

THE STOCK SHOW.

The news that a substantial proportion of the International Live Stock exposition, which had been canceled, is to be salvaged after all is most welcome to the citizens of Chicago. They have found the show, year after year, an interesting tie with the rich agricultural community on which so much of this city's importance depends.

The decision to hold the show for fat stock is completely logical. The general stock show was originally canceled because of expected transportation shortages. However, the fat stock are destined for the stockyards anyway, and there is no reason why they should not be exhibited before they are sent to the packing houses. The breeding stock, including the massive beef bulls which annually astonish city dwellers by their power and docility, will be left at home on the farms as a means of conserving transportation.

The decision to continue the show on a restricted basis should do a great deal for the morale of the boys and girls upon whose training in the 4-H clubs depends to a large extent the future efficiency and productiveness of the nation's farms. The 4-H boys' and girls' entries have always been favorites with show spectators and in recent years the steers and other animals they fatten have often taken grand championships in competition with the most experienced stockmen of the country.

By next December further rationing of travel may cut severely the attendance from rural regions. However, the show has thru the years won so great an interest among city residents that Chicago attendance should be sufficient to make it successful financially. The suggestion is made that the restricted wartime show may be given some other name than the familiar one of International. That would be a mistake. According to present plans enough of the exhibits will be salvaged without unnecessary use of transportation to make the show, as it has been in the past, the primary exhibit of the American meat industry, and a 42 year tradition of the International should not be broken lightly.

THE ARMY AND THE AIR LINES.

The extent to which the taking over of commercial air lines by the army will contribute to winning the war would seem to depend upon whether the army will be content with control or will make the mistake of undertaking operation of the lines. The air line operators will naturally concede that their duty—like the duty of every other citizen and business—is to put military and defense considerations foremost. Under the circumstances, a request from military authorities would be regarded as an order anyway and it seems largely immaterial whether the army is given the actual authority to issue orders.

The operation of air transport facilities is another question. The air lines of the United States have led the civilian transport industry in the world. They use their equipment more efficiently than it is used anywhere else in the world and far more efficiently than the army could expect to do if it undertook actual operation. The army's only experience in that field ended in a deadly fiasco. A political scandal resulted from the slaughter of a dozen or more young flyers who had been ordered to carry the mails without being adequately equipped or trained for the work.

More recently the air lines have undertaken to conduct air freight service for the army, using their own planes and personnel. They were permitted to do this after it was demonstrated that they could do it far more efficiently than the army was already doing the job with its own cargo planes. This arrangement is to be continued and it is to be hoped that, as the army has further need of specialized transport service, the operations, so long as they do not extend into actual combat areas, will be left in the hands of the air line organizations. They can do the job best and refusal to let them do it will raise suspicion that the taking over of the air lines may have had New Deal socialization rather than military necessity as its primary motive.

BATTLE CRUISERS AND NAVAL TACTICS.

The new edition of Jane's "Fighting Ships" discloses that the first of a class of six battle cruisers was laid down by the United States navy last December. The specifications of the new class, to be known as the Alaska, are unknown, but there is good reason to believe that the navy in returning to this debatable type of craft was motivated by knowledge that Japan is constructing an intermediate type of 12,000 to 15,000 ton warships.

A month before the first of the Alaska class was laid down, A. E. Sokol, writing in the Naval Institute Proceedings, damned the battle cruiser with faint praise. He asserted that the battle cruiser, overgunned and underprotected, was neither fish nor fowl, and warned that if we intended to build an intermediate type of warship, it should be really and frankly an armored cruiser, and not a second rate battleship. He attributed insurmountable weaknesses to the supercruiser and asserted that "the armored cruiser should be planned as a fighting cruiser and not as a 'small battleship'."

Mr. Sokol pointed out that the armored cruiser evolved as a type in which strong armament and fair armor protection were combined with comparatively high speed. It was designed to be superior to anything outside of a battleship, which its superior speed would enable it to outrun. Its original functions were to form a backbone for its own light cruisers, to help them disperse those of the enemy, and to protect the sea lanes against commerce raiders.

But latterly the conception of the armored cruiser as an especially powerful scouting vessel has been more or less forgotten. "It now developed its armament and armor in a way that tended towards equality with the battleship, while maintaining its superior speed," Mr. Sokol said. "A new type of warship, the battle cruiser, was born. In this ship the purely tactical or battle line qualities were being increasingly stressed, while the strategic tasks formerly assigned to the armored cruiser were being entrusted to the light cruiser.

"But in order to enable the battle cruiser to take a regular place in the battle line, to compete with the battleship in hitting and resisting power, and yet maintain higher speed, it had to be enlarged until it outgrew the battleship itself. Thus becoming too expensive and valuable for the ordinary cruiser duties, it ceased to be a cruiser altogether."

For its orthodox rôle in naval tactics, the resulting freak was unsuited. It could not do what it originally was intended to do, nor could it stand up to a true battleship. The outsized British battle cruiser Hood, sunk in the first two salvos by the Bismarck, is a fair illustration of the weakness of the type.

Mr. Sokol stated that in an emergency naval construction program such as ours, the best possible use of every ton and every dollar must be made within minimum time. We cannot afford the mistakes of peacetime, which can be rectified at leisure. Every move must count or the whole naval effort may come to disaster.

If the navy's new battle cruisers tend towards the small battleship rather than towards the armored cruiser, we may have wasted irreplaceable time, money, materials, and effort on vessels with little practicability. It is a conservative judgment that, at the least, the navy department is still bound by orthodox doctrines as to what constitutes a well balanced battle fleet. The experience of this war is that two fleets do not put to sea for a full dress naval engagement according to the rules of Mahan. Air power has become the governing factor, and planes restrict, if they do not completely rule out, the utility of both battleships and battle cruisers.

Even old fashioned naval tactics decree that minor tasks are left to minor forces, so that for each possible assignment the smallest and least expensive ship is made available—a vessel just powerful enough to perform the particular duty with undue risks. From this standpoint, the battle cruiser, hardly less expensive than the battleship, is an anomaly and a misfit.

PULITZER PRIZE.

[Hartford Courant.]

It is no reflection on the other winners of this year's Pulitzer prizes to say that the most fitting was the citation of the Los Angeles Times for the long legal battle that finally resulted in a Supreme court opinion upholding the right of a newspaper to comment on certain phases of legal evidence. Its action added one more rock to the firm pedestal upon which the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press rests. The long and expensive litigation that finally led to the justification of the Los Angeles Times was beyond question one of the great contributions of the year on the part of a newspaper.

MR. PEPYS PEERS AHEAD.

16th May—Heard Prof. Putkammer the other night tell what he saw from the front lines on the night of Nov. 11, 1918, when the Great War ended. He saw the greatest display of fireworks of his life, for the German troops were shooting up into the air all their illuminating devices—star shells, Véry pistols, rockets, flares, "chenille," et cetera, and the display went on for hours, all along the horizon, much to the admiration of Pvt. Putkammer, on observation detail. He tells about it better than any other person who has described that event in print.

This started me to thinking about the display that should be seen when This War comes to the end for which we struggle. It should combine the glories of the Aurora Borealis, the Milky Way, Halley's comet, the Star of Bethlehem, and the fireworks at the funeral of a Chinese emperor. Maybe all the volcanoes in Japan should be touched off to help the pyrotechnic show.

Went to see the Cubs at baseball last week-end and suffered from the cold, altho I wore a winter overcoat, and this caused me to meditate on one of my unsolved problems: "Why is it colder at a baseball game in the spring than at a football game in the fall when the temperature is lower?" Decided it was because at football I am always standing up and yelling, while at baseball I am always sitting down and muttering.

Saw a new play called "Watch on the Rhine," and decided to call it "Worries on the Potomac." Could easily forget the sugar rationing but for the noble way in which waiters whisk away the bowl.

WAR TOUCH.

He ran his elevator up and down
All day to number twenty-one and back,
And never wore his merry face a frown;
For every one he always had a "crack,"
A joke, a jolly grin that made you feel
Good for an hour thereafter. Passengers
In his gay cage heard laughter's frequent peal,
And prickly minds and manners lost their burrs.
But came a morning when his tongue was dumb,
His gestures still and small, and kiddingly,
"You look as if the judgment day had come,"
Folks chided him, and quite enjoyed their glee.
"Cheer up, old chap—what's all the clowning for?"
I asked. "They got my son . . . Corregidor."

A Saying for the Ages.

Long before Wilson said, "God helping her [the United States] she can do no other," or Churchill said, "God helping us, we can do no other," Martin Luther expressed his courage thus:

"Here I stand. I can do no other; so help me God!" A Looper.

"I can do no other" [May 13]: These were Martin Luther's words in the "Magna Carta of the freedom of conscience," spoken at the diet at Worms in 1521.

Charles V., the newly crowned emperor, summoned Luther to appear at the diet before him and the dignitaries of church and empire to retract his new teachings. But thruout the powerful inquisition Luther remained steadfast, and at its close gave this reply:

"My conscience is taken captive by God's Word: retract anything I neither can nor will, for to act against conscience is neither safe nor sound. Hier steh' ich. Ich kann nicht anders! Gott hilfe mir! Amen." H. M. Herrick.

O, Wordsworth's heart with pleasure fills,
And "dances with the daffodils,"
While Shakespeare's eye, as every one knows, is Rather more partial to rich, red roses.
But what does it mean, sir, and how does it come,
That there's no one who praises the nasturti-um?

And Alfred, Lord Tennyson, poet most holy,
Will sing for the amaranth, sing for the moly;
And mighty John Milton will write on until he
Has paid perfect tribute to many a lily.
But poets, how say you? Think you it would runia
To write a short stanza for—say, a petunia?

Memories of Marguery's.

"War Among the Gourmets" [May 12] brings back fond memories. Besides the sole Marguery, Marguery's served a wonderful "Pot au feu en marmite," brought in a huge earthenware pot by two waiters. Also, in addition to fine Burgundies, their cellar had a delightful light Vouvray that was a joy with any meal. Marguery's was closed, permanently it was said, in 1937, so it was a surprise to read of its bombing. F. E. V.

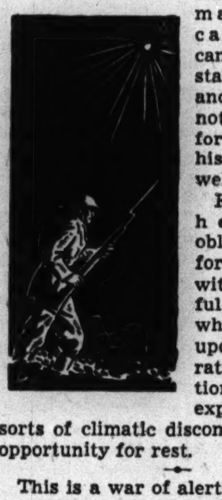
VITAMIN A REINFORCEMENTS IN NIGHTBLINDNESS.



THE only difference between John Jones in his capacity as a young business man, and the same individual when he becomes a soldier, is that in the latter category he dare not grow stale. Top physical efficiency must be maintained because, when a campaign begins, stalwart endurance may mean not only safety for himself, but his comrades as well.

Furthermore, he may be obliged to exist for several days without a mouthful of hot food, wholly dependent upon emergency rations. In addition, he may be exposed to all sorts of climatic discomforts with no opportunity for rest.

This is a war of alertness, in which eyesight plays a vital rôle. Those who suffer from "nightblindness" will be unable to spot aircraft after dark. There are some persons whose menus are deficient, particularly in vitamin A, who are unable to detect objects in dim light. Fortified with this food element, these patients will have no difficulty.

Tests of members of certain British commands have shown that from 16 to 30 per cent were under average in night vision, while from 11 to 29 per cent are above. Among a large group of officers, apparently on different rations [with plenty of A], none was below an acceptable standard.

As additional aids, adaptation goggles are supplied to those scheduled to go on outpost or lookout duty. These devices enforce rest for the optics, as no light whatsoever is allowed to strike the retina. The glasses fit snugly altho ventilation is provided. They are worn for many hours before assignment to a reconnaissance. In consequence, the retina is strikingly sensitive and can detect movements and objects quite beyond the range of ordinary perception.

It is reliably reported that German pilots prior to flying at night are kept in total darkness for 24 hours before they are ordered to take off. The goggles are preferred because there is no drop in morale—in fact, the soldier can carry on conversations and mingle with his fellows while undergoing "treatment."

For those who are definite victims of night blindness, 12 thousand units of A are prescribed daily for the first week, 18 thousand the second week, and a corresponding increase during the third. The tests are then reapplied and further medication is determined by the result. It is no uncommon procedure to administer 24 thousand units daily during intervals when vision must be unusually keen.

Following this program, so-called spotters with advance forces on the battle line are only those who have passed these rigorous examinations satisfactorily and who respond quickly to reinforcement of the diet.

We are engaged in a conflict in which the science of nutrition is most important. We have the best men. We can provide them with the most nutritious food. An undernourished army will surely collapse, regardless of courage and initiative. In the matter of vision alone, given normal eyes to start with, our pilots can outsight those of every other nation.

HIVES.

H. L. writes: I have been told that the itching bumps which appear on my skin from time to time are caused by something I eat. How could this be?

REPLY.

Many individuals are sensitive [allergic] to certain substances. Articles in the diet or in the environment [dust, etc.] may be factors. This susceptibility may manifest itself in irritation of the skin, swelling of the mucous membranes, etc. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hives, or urticaria.

BODY FLUIDS.

K. L. writes: What causes the system to lose its fluid balance?

REPLY.

There are many factors—for example, a weak heart muscle may be responsible for the retention of water. On the other hand, diarrhea may deprive the tissues of needed liquids.

JUDGE IGOE.

Chicago, May 13.—The language used in the federal court of Mr. Igoe yesterday smacks of the dictators of Europe and Asia. This erstwhile ward "heeler" and New Deal judge most certainly lowers the dignity of a federal court. C. M. P.

Chicago, May 13.—More power to you, Judge Igoe. You sure are the right man in the right place. The very idea of a man letting his conscience tell him he can't fight for his country does not deserve the freedom of the country he lives in. Those women in your courtroom ought to be ashamed of themselves. They call themselves "War Resisters." I call them damned pests and they, too, should be removed from society.

SUGGESTS WAR CHEST DRIVE.

Chicago, May 10.—Why not "A War Chest"? Remember, we had them in World War I. and each organization worthy of support can present its case to an impartial board.

The association of commerce indorsement committee—used to advise its membership of worthy local charities is ready and available for service—and the community chest organization, as you suggest, can be trusted to do an efficient job of collecting the war chest. This would go a long way to prevent racketeering, fly-by-night, national travelers from taking in a kindly, generous people in an emergency, and you will have the unending gratitude of thinking citizens.

Have had considerable experience in fund raising campaigns, and know it can be efficiently worked out to the complete satisfaction of worthy organizations and those who contribute. Racketeers would give Chicago a wide berth if they knew we were smart enough to protect ourselves. It can be done if the politicians can be induced to keep hands off.

EQUALIZING THE HARDSHIPS.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE SOUTH.

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—After a residence in the south long enough to observe carefully but not long enough to become indoctrinated with "southern traditions," may I add a word to your current civil war?

Mr. Petersen must know he is in serious error in his belief that the south should not have been readmitted to the Union. Neither north nor south can exist comfortably without the other, at least, not economically. The fatal blunder was the kind of administration during reconstruction, and from it has come down, apparently, the prevalent distrust and even hatred some southerners feel toward northerners. Also from it has probably come the master-serf attitude most southerners take toward most Negroes.

While the north is hardly a perfect home of democracy, the south, because of its evidently studied plan to keep the Negro submerged, if for no other reason, is still farther away from the ideal. There the Negro is "all right in his place," but don't inquire too pointedly about that place if you believe in democratic ideals.

When a Talmadge can fan sectionalism and race prejudice as he has on no supported evidence, the south cannot hold its head very high, and the enlightened administration of a Gov. Dixon [Alabama] is largely offset. When, because of the influence of southern officers, the military forces show evidences of similar prejudices, the situation indeed becomes serious. That the "decent" people of the south find little admirable about Talmadge is beside the point—the effect of their vote, at least in Georgia, is almost as negligible, apparently, as that of the Negroes, who can't vote in state elections, anyway.

POSTAL CLERKS' COMPLAINT.

JAP ATROCITIES.

Chicago, May 9.—Perhaps a month ago in a colored supplement to the Sunday edition was an article descriptive of Japanese history and atrocities [including those of the present war]. You rendered a public service in making such information available; and I sent the clipping to the war department, suggesting that every American in the army and navy should be supplied with a reprint. In the past our soldiers and sailors have been justified in assuming they would take part in a civilized war. But now, it seems to me, they should be prepared to fight a different kind of enemy. Such articles should be made known to every American.

2. Would there be any way of me claiming my share without my husband signing papers?

4. If I applied for a divorce would my husband have to pay for it?

1. As we understand it you already have these shares.

2. Claiming your share of what? Your husband's coöperation would not be necessary for you to share in the estates of your own parents, if that is what you mean to ask. His signature, however, would be necessary for you to convey away your share in real estate.

DOUGLAS LETS GO A PARTING SALVO AT SCHOOL BOARD

His Political Secretary Explains Charges.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Leaving for camp at Parris Island, S. C., Private Paul H. Douglas of the marine corps last night issued his final farewell blast against the Chicago school board—by proxy. Douglas is better known as professor of economics at the University of Chicago, alderman of the 5th ward [he resigned Wednesday], and the defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator in the April 14 primary.

Asked to amplify the charges he made in a resolution at the Wednesday meeting of the city council, Private Douglas said:

"I can no longer talk about such matters because I was inducted into the marine corps this morning. But my secretaries have some material and they'll tell about it."

Charges Excessive Prices.

William Slayton—Douglas' political secretary—shouldered the major portion of the assignment. Among abuses charged by Douglas were:

"Excessive prices paid for the purchase of materials and supplies, thus leading to a waste of taxpayers' money and the crippling of the educational work of the schools.

"The existence of cases where members of the school board have sold materials and supplies to the board, thus acting as both buyer and seller and hence violating a fundamental principal of decent government."

Private Douglas' proxy said that Irwin N. Walker, an attorney who is a member of the school board, belongs to a law firm which represents companies doing business with the board.

He named the Curtiss Candy company and its subsidiaries, Duer Sales, Inc., General Gum, Inc., and Bireley's Beverages. Others, he said, are the Wheeler Publishing company, the Equipment Finance corporation, Coyne Electrical School, Inc., Liberty Cleaners, and Durkee Famous Foods, Inc. He said Walker also is the registered agent for the Curtiss and Wheeler firms.

Douglas, according to Slayton, also had in mind the fact that the board did business with three school supply corporations fined in federal court here for fixing prices. Indicted for conspiracy to fix the prices of composition blackboards and blackboard erasers thruout the country, the firms were the Beckley-Cardy company, E. W. A. Rowles company, and Weber-Costello company.

Says Tie Bid Accepted.

When sealed bids were opened, the three companies' tie bid was accepted and lower bids were rejected for alleged failure to meet specifications, Slayton said.

State's Attorney Courtney, who three years ago had 630 representatives of companies doing business with the school board questioned by his assistants, authorized Douglas to say that the board's purchasing methods are inefficient and prices paid are excessive, Slayton asserted. [The matter never reached the grand jury stage nor court action.] Douglas also told him that there were instances where higher than retail prices were paid, the secretary said.

Other allegations made in Douglas' last resolution to the council were:

"The use of rank favoritism in the 1936 principals' examinations, and the promotion of many on the basis of political favoritism rather than merit.

"The granting of jobs as substitutes on the basis of personal or political influence rather than on the basis of training or efficiency.

"A general series of arbitrary acts injuring the morale of the teaching force and weakening the quality of the instruction given."

Help of Aldermen.

As to the substitute teachers jobs, Slayton said that Douglas knew that an increasing number of applicants had been asking aldermen to intercede in their behalf.

Douglas' resolution concluded as follows:

"Whereas, both appointments and reappointments to the school board are of such great importance that the rule providing that they should lie on the table for at least one meeting should not be suspended and the council should instead give mature consideration to such appointments and reappointments.

"Now, therefore be it resolved that the council committee on schools be instructed to hold a series of hearings on the subject matter of this resolution and make a report to the city council upon it."

Douglas said that the council has both a moral and a financial responsibility for the conduct of the school board since it must approve or disapprove the board's budgets. Ald. Henry Sonnenschein [22d], chairman of the committee on schools, will call a meeting early next week to consider the resolution.

UNION GOON FAILS TO QUIT AS DRAFT BOARD CHAIRMAN

Selective service officials waited in vain yesterday for Michael J. Healy, union business agent convicted for slugging, to resign as chairman of draft board No. 31. If Healy does not resign, formal charges to remove him as draft board head will be filed with Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national draft director. His removal will be sought on the ground that he has been convicted of a crime and is not qualified. Healy was found guilty by a jury May 8 on charges of conspiracy in connection with the assault on an Elgin meat dealer. A motion for a new trial will be heard May 22 by Judge John A. Sbarbaro.

YOUNG G.O.P. URGE STRONG PLANK ON FOREIGN POLICY

New Yorkers Want U.S. Role in World Peace.

Hamilton, N. Y., May 15 [Special].—The Association of New York State Republican Clubs today moved toward a platform declaration for a strong foreign policy of full recognition of United States' responsibility in coöperation with other nations to establish and maintain a stable world order after the war.

A draft of a platform to be presented to the convention tomorrow indicated an international plank broader than that adopted recently in Chicago by the Republican national committee.

Would Abandon Isolationism.

Speakers at the opening session of the convention urged that it is necessary for the Republican party and its candidates to abandon "isolationism" or any resemblance to it as a future policy.

Characterizing the Chicago resolution as "a good beginning," Raymond Leslie Buell, former president of the Foreign Policy association and associate editor of Fortune magazine, declared that the fate of both the United States and the whole world well might depend on how the Republican party rises to its responsibilities.

"When the Republican national committee last month committed itself to a postwar policy of international coöperation, it returned to the historic policy of the party followed for 30 years before 1920," Buell contended.

Woman Assails Rep. Fish.

Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, former vice chairman of the Republican state committee, called for the defeat of Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for renomination in the 26th New York congressional district. She characterized Fish's "isolationist" record in congress as "shocking."

William D. Kiley, national representative of the association, in his "keynote" asserted that the United States must accept its responsibility to the community of nations. He said, "We must eliminate from our councils and refuse to support the wishy-washers, wobblers, and fence sitters."

DEMAND FRESH PROBE OF FLYNN PAVING SCANDAL

Citizens Group Acts After Grand Juror Talks.

New York, May 15 [Special].—Reopening of the white washed Flynn paving block scandal was demanded anew today by a citizens committee which charged that Bronx District Attorney Samuel J. Foley had given the investigating grand jury advice which prevented it from "seriously considering an indictment."

The plea of the newly formed citizens committee to reopen the Flynn case was addressed to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, who twice has refused to supersede Foley and name an "independent" special prosecutor to probe the case. Foley is a political protege and golfing companion of Edward J. Flynn, Democratic national chairman and target of the investigation. Gov. Lehman also is a Democrat.

Evidence adduced at several inqueries was that Flynn, the Bronx political boss, restored 8,000 granite paving blocks and caused payment of wages to a gang of city laborers in January after it became known that the use of city employés and city owned materials in the construction of an antique Belgian courtyard at his estate at Lake Mahopac last November was under investigation.

Grand Juror Talks.

Today's demand for a new investigation was based on a statement just obtained from one of the grand jurors. The committee offered to show Gov. Lehman the statement, "or better yet, we can arrange to have the grand juror meet with you at your convenience, so that you can hear the story from his own lips."

Prof. Herman A. Gray of the New York University Law school, as chairman, and Sydney S. Barron, secretary, signed the telegram on behalf of the committee.

"Mr Foley advised the grand jury that no indictment for larceny could be returned if restitution of the property taken had been made prior to the filing of a formal complaint," the telegram quoted the grand juror as asserting. "Because of this advice the grand jury was precluded from considering an indictment.

"The statement [of the juror] further declares that Foley failed to point out certain discrepancies, sharply criticizes Foley's handling of the case and concludes with the belief that the method used in the presentation of the case was largely responsible for a result characterized as "not in accordance with the law."

Distortion Charged.

"In our opinion, Mr. Foley's advice to the grand jury was a distortion which vitiated the entire inquiry."

A spokesman said Foley had no comment on the committee's new demand. Asked if he considered the case closed Foley said:

"The governor has the last say on that." Adding with a smile, "And I think he has said it."

BONDS STOLEN BY BURGLAR.

Noise in the living room of his home aroused Dr. L. E. Hines, 5322 Lakewood avenue, yesterday. When he investigated he found a burglar had stolen bonds worth $400 and $32 in cash.

GAMBLING FACTS DENIED ALLMAN, CAPTAIN SWEARS

'Special File' Revealed by M'Cormick.

Police Capt. Martin E. McCormick, recently suspended, told the civil service commission yesterday that during the time he headed the morals division he had a "special file" on gambling which never was submitted to Police Commissioner James P. Allman.

The "special file" came to light while McCormick was testifying in the case of Policeman Fred Trauth, one of McCormick's squad leaders. Trauth is charged with inefficiency and neglect of duty while investigating gamblers. McCormick also faces trial on the same charges.

Ordered to Make No Arrests.

A report of 16 raids was introduced as evidence by Assistant State's Attorneys Richard Austin and Ralph Clare. The report, made on June 12, 1940, listed several places where gambling was on. It listed no arrests. Trauth and Sergt. Russell Corcoran, a member of Trauth's squad, testified they were told to make no arrests at those places, but were "only to investigate and make a special report."

"That was a special report I had Trauth and Corcoran make for me," McCormick admitted.

He said that Capt. Thomas Duffy of the 1st district went to him with a list of handbooks which Federal Judge William J. Campbell, then United States attorney, had said were operating. According to McCormick, Duffy asked him to investigate and "tell no one."

Report Federal Charges True.

McCormick testified he called in Trauth and Corcoran and in the presence of Duffy gave them their orders. Later the men returned with a report that Campbell's charges were true.

"Duffy read their report and said 'I don't believe it'," McCormick continued. "'Corcoran replied that it was on honest report'."

McCormick testified that Duffy then took the report and the next time he, McCormick, saw it was last fall when he was called before the grand jury by State's Attorney Courtney.

"Didn't you take the report to the grand jury?" asked Austin.

"No," snapped McCormick, "Everyone knows you searched my special files and took it yourself."

Admits Allman Didn't See It.

"Give me the name of one person who told you that," Austin answered.

"I don't know any names," replied McCormick.

McCormick then admitted that he had never sent the report to Commissioner Allman.

Austin and Clare failed for the third time to get grand jury evidence into the records of the commission hearing. Commissioner Wendell E. Green, Democratic nominee for Municipal court judge, who was originally appointed as a Republican member of the commission, again blocked the state's attorney's plans.

"We cannot expose grand jury testimony to public view," Green ruled. He did not budge under Prosecutor Clare's insistence that grand jury testimony was commonly used in Criminal court trials.

ARREST 3; SOLVE 40 AUTO THEFTS AND 25 ROBBERIES

Forty recent automobile thefts and 25 store and gasoline station robberies were solved last night by Policeman Roy Hallen and his Chicago Lawn police squad with the arrest of three young gunmen who escaped May 2 when Policeman Perry Tolby shot two of the gang, one fatally, during the attempted holdup of a tavern at 6441 South Austin avenue.

The three seized are Walter Gudlanskas, 19 years old, 5901 South Oak Park avenue; Raymond Gluszek, 17, of 5254 South Moody avenue, and Michael Salava, 21, of 5313 South Mobile avenue. They admitted involvement in the 40 auto thefts and 25 robberies. They also admitted that they were companions of John Drake and Edwin Zubar when those two were caught in the fire of Policeman Tolby's gun when he trapped them during the attempted tavern stickup.

Drake was fatally wounded. Zubar is recovering in the Bridewell hospital.

'EXPLAIN' VOTES ON GOLF COURSE GIFT TO BURNHAM

Park Head Told of Order from Headquarters.

Bizarre excuses offered by members of the county board for the votes by which a week ago they took from the Calumet Memorial Park district the right to operate the Burnham Woods golf course and awarded it to Johnny Patton's village of Burnham, came to light yesterday.

They were bared by Lester Kelly, president of the park district, which for 13½ years has operated the golf course and spent $150,000 on it since 1928, who said that at least two of the commissioners themselves told him the giving of the permit to Burnham was voted because "the boys at the Morrison hotel" [headquarters of P. A. Nash and the Democratic county committee] gave orders to that effect. Kelly said the commissioners only verified what he had heard in several other quarters.

Attorney Adds to Story.

Roman E. Posanski, attorney for Calumet Memorial Park district, had this to say:

"That may explain the reluctance of some of the commissioners to discuss their votes. I know that just before the meeting Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh, a Democrat, told me, 'I don't vote anybody on this board but myself and I'm giving it to Burnham,' and wouldn't explain any further. And Commissioner Edward M. Sneed told us he was going to vote against Burnham, but voted the other way when his name was called."

Chairman Nash Unavailable.

Neither P. A. Nash, chairman, nor George Ross, his son-in-law, who is executive secretary of the Democratic county committee, were available last night for questions concerning the reported Morrison hotel "orders." At Nash's west side home a woman member of his family said, "They're both out and your guess is as good as mine about when they'll be back."

At the same time Commissioner William Busse announced he will demand a reconsideration of the county board's action.

The board, sitting as the board of the forest preserve district, turned the golf course over to Burnham over the protests of Attorney Posanski, representing the park district. The vote was taken after the lawyer told the commissioners the park district had spent $150,000 building the golf course on land which is owned by the forest preserve. He also told them the park district still has a $125,000 investment, which was to have been paid off out of revenue from the links.

Patton's Record Cited.

Johnny Patton, perennially known as "the boy mayor of Burnham," for years was Al Capone's vice overlord for Burnham, Cicero, and Stickney. His present connections with the Nitti-Guzik-Humphreys-Stanton syndicate for vice and gambling—Capone's present day mob—are reported intact.

Sig Paszkowski, colleague of Kelly on the park district board, said Patton told him, "You fellows are butting your heads against a stone wall. My fellows want the golf course and we're going to get it!"

Busse, a Republican who voted with the Democratic majority on the county board to turn the course over to Burnham, said yesterday he was not fully informed when he voted. He explained that in view of the apparent injustice done the park district, the county board should make a thoro investigation.

Two Vote Against Award.

George A. Miller and William N. Erickson, Republican county commissioners, who alone voted against the award, declared the park district is entitled to operate the golf course after building it up and equipping it at substantial cost.

One Democratic commissioner, who asked that his name be withheld, said yesterday he also opposed giving the course to Burnham and repeated almost word for word President Kelly's version of the "order by the boys in the Morrison hotel."

"I'd have voted against it if this weren't an election year," this board member added. "But you can't buck the organization with an election coming up."

Inquiry among other Democratic commissioners disclosed that most of them voted with the majority without bothering to understand the transaction.

Admits Being in Dark.

Commissioner Mary McEnerney said: "I didn't know just what it was about. You wouldn't expect me to vote with Republicans, would you?"

Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke said he voted for the permit to Burnham "as a matter of form" and that he was not familiar with the details of the permit.

Posanski announced that the Calumet park district will hold a special meeting Monday night to consider possible legal action against the county and Burnham.

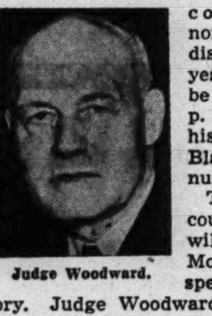
RITES MONDAY FOR U. S. JUDGE C. E. WOODWARD

Dies of Heart Ailment in La Grange Home.



Judge Woodward.

Funeral services for Judge Charles E. Woodward, senior member of the United States court in the northern Illinois district, who died yesterday, will be held at 12:30 p. m. Monday in his home at 140 Blackstone avenue, La Grange. The federal courts in Chicago will be closed Monday in respect to his memory. Judge Woodward's judicial associates and other governmental officials will attend the funeral. Burial will be at Grand Ridge, near Ottawa, where the judge formerly lived.

Dies of Heart Ailment.

Judge Woodward died of a heart ailment in his home after an illness of two weeks. He was born in New Salem, Pa., 65 years ago and moved to Illinois with his parents when he was 10. He attended the grade schools in Grand Ridge, the Lincoln [Ill.] college, and Northwestern university.

Leaving school before graduation, Judge Woodward read law in the Ottawa office of the late William H. Stead, under whom he served as an assistant attorney general of Illinois for eight years. They later formed a law partnership, which continued until Mr. Stead's death. In 1920 he was elected president of the Illinois constitutional convention.

Appointed by Coolidge.

Judge Woodward was appointed to the federal District bench in Chicago March 19, 1929, by President Coolidge. During his service on the federal bench he heard many widely discussed cases. After the economic collapse of 1929 his court was flooded with bankruptcy and receivership cases.

Judge Woodward leaves his widow, the former Lura Hampson, whom he married in 1899; a son, Harold C., an attorney, and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas R. Willard, both of whom live in Riverside.

QUIZ TIETELBAUM AND ROMANO IN STANTON INQUIRY

Louis Romano, ousted president of the bartenders' union, and Abraham Tietelbaum, who said he represents the Chicago Restaurant association, appeared yesterday before Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office, to answer questions about reports that Danny Stanton, the old public enemy, was back in control of the bartenders' and food dispensers' union.

James Crowley, present head of the bartenders, appeared before Gilbert Thursday and denied he had been eased out of the presidency of the joint council of bartenders and restaurant employés.

Romano told Gilbert he had not worked for Tietelbaum and that their acquaintance was only casual. He said he had visited the lawyer's office several times when he had an idle moment to pass. Tietelbaum said he does not know Stanton and that all he knew about the unions was that he had negotiated several contracts for the restaurant men.

YOUTH CRUSHED BY CAVE-IN DIES AFTER RESCUE

Portland, Ore., May 15 [Special].—James Harper, 16 year old student at Hill Military academy here, died at a hospital at noon today from injuries and shock suffered during a 13 hour imprisonment in a rock cavern on the academy grounds.

Harper was trapped at 5 p. m. yesterday by a cavein while he and two other students were exploring. A boulder weighing 1,500 pounds settled on his legs. While his mother, summoned from her home in Yakima, Wash., waited at the cavern entrance, a crew worked thruout the night to release the boy.

The boulder was lifted by jacks about 6 a. m. and Harper was pulled thru a narrow, twisting passage by a rope under his arms.

Mrs. Gladys Buettner (left) and her sister, Mrs. Virginia Peckinpaugh.

A Circuit court jury yesterday voided the will of the late Col. Charles E. Bartley, head of the Seneca Hotel company, which left two-thirds of his $1,000,000 estate to seven charities and 35 individuals. The jury held that Col. Bartley was of unsound mind when he made the will which, as a lawyer, he drew himself.

If the verdict stands, the estate will be divided equally between his two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Buettner, 4950 Chicago Beach drive, whom he provided for, and Mrs. Virginia Peckinpaugh of Toledo, O., whom he cut off with $1. It was Mrs. Peckinpaugh who contested the will.

A fight will be carried to the Illinois Supreme court, if necessary, to uphold Col. Bartley's will, according to Fred A. Gariepy, attorney for the designated charitable and individual beneficiaries.

BUND PROMOTERS TO BE CALLED IN SEDITION PROBE

Inquiry into activities of the German-American bund is expected to be a major part of the investigation by the federal grand jury of alleged seditious activities in the Chicago area. This was learned yesterday after J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, returned from Washington where he conferred with Attorney General Francis Biddle. Woll declined to comment on the talks he had with Biddle, but it was expected that a number of Bund leaders and publishers will be summoned to testify next week.

Yesterday's chief witness was the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the Temple Baptist church of Detroit, Mich. He was believed to have been called to testify about Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling's Patriotic Research bureau.

Dr. Norris once was known as the "stormy petrel of the South." In 1926 he was tried and acquitted of the "self-defense" shooting of a political enemy in Texas. He announced last January, after a talk with Maxim Litvinov, Russian ambassador, that he was planning to hold revival meetings in Russia this summer.

SLAYER OF TWO GUILTY; PENALTY FIXED AT DEATH

Bruno Jackmiak, 23 years old, 1793 West 43d street, was found guilty of the murder last Feb. 7 of two Mexicans in a tavern holdup at 4458 South Ashland avenue by a jury in Judge Harold G. Ward's Criminal court early this morning and his punishment fixed at death in the electric chair.

Jackmiak's victims were Jesus Hurtado, 30, and Romano Bessera, 35, both of 1250 South Peoria street. He and Joseph Skupien, 26, shot the pair in the tavern owned by Mrs. Pascuala Cerrillos.

Jackmiak was arrested a few hours after the killing, and Skupien was shot to death when he invaded the New City police station, where the former was being held, in a desperate attempt to free him.

The young killer on April 23, when he was brought to trial before Judge Ward, offered to plead guilty and take 199 years' imprisonment. His offer was refused by Assistant State's Attorneys Edmund Grant and Clement Cody, who prosecuted him before a jury.

SHOT TO DEATH IN HOME.

Joseph Berwal, 45 years old, 1251 North Bell avenue, was found shot to death in his home late yesterday with a revolver nearby.

KEEP LOCAL TAX RATES UP, URGES U. S. BUDGET CHIEF

Reduce Debts to Block Inflation, He Asks.

Harold D. Smith, director of the United States budget, called yesterday upon state and local governments to maintain tax rates as they are during the war even if the taxes should bring in more money than is needed to meet current expenditures.

At the same time George B. McKibbin, Illinois director of finance, urged all responsible state officials to reduce all nonessential state government costs so that functions vital to the war effort may continue without added burdens upon the public.

The two officials made these pleas at a regional meeting of the Council of State Governments in the Stevens hotel. Financial officers of 12 states attended.

Proposes Excess Profits Law.

Another speaker, Congressman Wesley E. Disney [D., Okla.] spoke in favor of a federal excess profits law to compel corporations to place 20 per cent of excess profits in federal bonds. This money, he said, would serve as a reservoir for postwar conversion of war industries to peace industries.

Budget Director Smith said that increasing pressure will be brought upon state and local bodies to reduce taxes on the ground that many of the local governments are accumulating balances in their treasuries and many taxpayers are crying for relief.

Advocates Paying Public Debts.

"But the broad public interest, now and for the future, requires that this pressure be resisted," Smith asserted. "A period of great inflationary danger is not the proper time for reducing state and local tax rates. This is the time to maintain tax rates, provided the amount that might have been left with the taxpayers is used for retiring state debts or accumulating balances—not, I want to make clear, to support increased levels of spending or even past levels of spending.

"Federal tax increases cannot take up the slack created by scattered reductions of particular state and local taxes; it remains to be seen whether these increases will be great enough to absorb the explosive inflationary pressure. Any state and local tax rate reductions would release further purchasing power and increase this pressure on prices. Certainly the national effort to control living costs and war production costs would be hindered by such reductions."

Smith urged state officials to "sterilize" excess cash by placing it in dormant bank deposits or federal government bonds, and to make plans now for using these funds in postwar public works projects.

Sees Slump in State Revenue.

State Financial Director McKibbin, in his recommendation that nonessential government expenses be reduced, said that many states will face serious financial problems when the full effect of the war reduces revenue from gasoline taxes, automobile licenses and the like. Some states of course, he added, may build up surpluses with increased tax receipts from greater industrial activity. Those surpluses, he asserted, "must be safeguarded against unnecessary expenditure."

Carl H. Chatters executive director of the Municipal Finance Officers' association, likewise cited the prospective reduction in local and state revenues because of the curtailment of automobiles, gasoline, and many other poducts. He warned that the property tax, backbone of revenue for local units, is less and less able to provide revenues because of the increasing amount of property exempt from taxes thru acquisition by governments.

The conference will hold its final session today. Roy Blaugh, director of tax research for the United States treasury, and John K. Langum of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago are scheduled to speak.

Wheaton Store Is Burned; Estimated Loss $300,000

A fire which destroyed the merchandise and the inside of the building raged for hours yesterday in the Woolworth store at 113 Front street, Wheaton. It started in the basement from an undetermined cause, firemen said. It was confined to the one store building after a hard fight, during which Fire Chief Phil Durant was temporarily overcome. Damage was estimated at $300,000.

140 FORECLOSURE SALES APPROVED TO SETTLE TAXES

The settlement of $950,258 in back taxes owed on 140 properties by the payment of $629,832 thru "friendly" tax foreclosure sales has been approved by the county board, a summary by the board's tax committee showed yesterday. In addition to the $950,258, penalties averaged 30 per cent, making a total due of $1,235,000, or nearly twice the amount of the settlements.

The board has ordered foreclosure actions against the 140 parcels, and if no bids higher than those of the owners are made at the sales, the owners will clean up the taxes and penalties on the compromise basis by paying the agreed bids.

The county commissioners took jurisdiction over the friendly foreclosure suits last month, after States Attorney Courtney discontinued the practice which he had supervised since 1939. The state's attorney's office handled 4,000 friendly foreclosures on properties which owed $24,253,425 in principal, or a total of $31,500,000 including penalties. These were settled for $17,349,213, amounting to 72 per cent of the principal or 55 per cent of the combined taxes and penalties.

INJURED DRIVER DIES AFTER TRAIN STRIKES HIS CAR

George J. Stevak, 35 years old, 2422 West 46th street, died in Clinic hospital, Michigan City, Ind., yesterday of injuries suffered last Saturday when his automobile was struck by a Nickel Plate train on the East Michigan street crossing, two miles east of Michigan City. Mrs. Stevak was killed outright.

Frank O'Bra, 38, died in St. Bernard's hospital a few hours after he had been found in his room at 544 West 63d street, suffering from internal injuries. O'Bra told police he had been struck by a truck at South Chicago avenue and 79th street. Police did not have a report of the accident.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, Cook county had gone for three days without a fatal accident being reported officially. Since Jan. 1 286 persons had lost their lives and of this number 226 were killed in Chicago where the accident toll was increased to 7,492.

Nursery Board Planning Gay Summer Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE board of the North Avenue Day Nursery is planning one of the pleasantest parties imaginable for a hot August afternoon. It is to be a tennis, swimming, badminton, and cocktail party at the Winnetka home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham on Saturday, Aug. 15. Mrs. Gorham is chairman of the party, from which the proceeds will go to the nursery. Mrs. Theron T. Chapman is co-chairman. They and their committee are arranging for a number of attractive prizes to be given during the afternoon, among them a $100 savings bond. The party will be rather a small one. Each board member is sending out her own invitations to make up the group.

Another pleasant Winnetka party is planned for next Saturday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hale will open their home for the annual meeting of the American Friends of China from 3:30 to 5:30 o'clock. Five Chinese university students will talk informally on the subject, "Chinese Students in the War Years." The meeting will be for members only.

Cordon Club Is Planning Barmecide Birthday Ball.

The Cordon club is outdoing "the little man who wasn't there" by having a Barmecide Birthday ball—a party without orchestra, refreshments, tickets, mailing expenses, or flowers. For its 27th birthday anniversary on Tuesday the club has taken an inspiration from the Arabian Nights, which describes a Barmecide feast as a party at which one isn't served anything to eat.

Instead of paying out money for the party, the club actually will add to its treasury by "selling" birthdays to be marked off on a huge calendar—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's and Winston Churchill's already have been bought. A musical performance during the evening of "Jack and Jill" will be given by Marie Sidenius Zendt, Louise Hattstaedt Winter, Lola Fletcher, Marjorie Morgan, Elaine De Sellem, Eva Horadesky, and Besse Boynton, with Philip Jorgenson at the piano.

The Arts club has cards out for the opening of two new exhibitions from 4 to 6 o'clock next Friday. The exhibiting artists will be Max Ernst and André Masson.

Carter Harrisons' Grandson to Be West Point Graduate.

Of all the proud parents planning to see their sons and daughters graduated this spring none are prouder than a pair of grandparents—Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison. They and their daughter, Mrs. Harrison Manierre, will be at the United States Military academy at West Point on May 29 for the graduation of Mrs. Manierre's son, Cyrus E. Manierre Jr. His younger brother, William R. Manierre II., who is being graduated from the Hill school on June 8, also will be present at the academy exercises.

Mrs. Manierre is going east next Thursday to see Billy pitch in a baseball game. He will enter Yale in July. His elder brother, who has been an instructor in French at the academy, is being graduated in the cavalry, but is transferring to the air corps, and will enter an officers' training air school.

Sixty silver stars and one gold one are on the service flag that will be raised at the annual homecoming at the Arden Shore camp tomorrow. The flag was donated by one of Arden Shore's "old boys," Drexel Kyle, and the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association is providing the stars.

Mrs. Mark Rector of Glencoe is in charge of arrangements for luncheon and tea, which will be served after the program.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

The working girl is no slacker when it comes to war activities. After office hours she punches the overtime clock and starts right in again. Such organizations as the La Salle Street Women prove this. Originally formed to promote friendship between women in investment banking, brokerage, investment trust, and related enterprises, it met last fall to help with a job survey in the financial field. But with the arrival of war, further civilian plans went by the board—war work was to come first. Now there is an active membership of more than 150 women, representing some 60 investment firms.

Many members have taken training in public speaking at the United States treasury war bond division; others man booths to sell war stamps. The United Service organizations, the state and city units of the Office of Civilian Defense, and selective service boards are among those benefiting from the volunteer work of secretaries, file clerks, statisticians, librarians, and saleswomen from La Salle street. Miss Louise Hedlund heads the committee which contacts the girls and assigns them to various jobs. Miss Laura Reinebach's committee keeps records of the time, hours, and places at which the girls work, and Miss Eva Stark's committee finds the jobs.

The group meets the first and third Wednesdays of each month from 11:30 to 2:30 o'clock at the YMCA cafeteria, 19 South La Salle street. Members drop in for luncheon at their convenience, and two business sessions are held during the period so that all may be kept in touch with the progress of the war work. Miss Grace May is president of the La Salle Street Women.

The 6th corps area units of the Women's Overseas Service league will hold meetings today and tomorrow at the North Shore hotel, Evanston. Mrs. Herman J. Bakker of Webster, N. Y., national president of the league, will be the special guest.

Events scheduled include a dinner tonight at 6:30 o'clock and a tea tomorrow at 2:30, at which Mrs. Bakker and Miss Helen Patten of the Milwaukee unit will speak.

Chicago women already are acquainted with most of the details of the price ceilings on retail goods which will go into effect on Monday, Miss Mary Mark, executive secretary of the Consumer Information Service of the OCD, said yesterday. Questions and answers on the ceilings were distributed to community consumer chairmen at a meeting last week and were passed on to other women. The service urges that women keep careful records of prices paid at various stores so that they may buy to their best advantage later; that they do not consider themselves price policemen; that they buy only at or below the ceiling price, and that they share critical goods with neighbors insofar as possible. Mrs. William H. Stanley, director of the service, made up the questionnaire.

Miss Harriet Staver.

The poster committee of the British and American Ambulance corps is sponsoring a cocktail bonnet party at 538 North Michigan avenue from 4 to 7 o'clock today, the proceeds to go to the ambulance fund. Mrs. Walter J. Roney and Miss Harriet Staver, co-chairmen of the committee, are being assisted by Mrs. Alex Spare, Miss Barbara Grubb, Miss Rosemary Cudell, and Mrs. Christian Veeder in planning the party. The committee has placed 9,200 war posters called "Loose Talk Can Cost Lives" in Chicago buildings and institutions.

Men in uniform who enjoy ballet will have an opportunity to see Ruth Page and Bentley Stone dance tonight at the night club of the Chicago Service Men's center, 176 West Washington street.

The Illinois Institute of Technology's Polish club will hold its annual dance tonight at the Polish Women's alliance ballroom, 1309 Ashland avenue. Proceeds of the party will be divided between the club's scholarship fund and the American Red Cross. Twenty-five service men have been invited as guests of the Polish students.

Discussions of the current program of the Red Cross and the training of fire wardens for civilian defense will be presented at a meeting of the Chicago Altrusa club at 6:30 o'clock Monday evening at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. Miss Genevieve Touton will speak for the Red Cross and will emphasize the part that business and professional women with limited leisure can take in the Red Cross program. Mrs. Sally Jordan, a woman fire warden, will discuss her work. Miss Mary Dimery, program coördinator of the club, is in charge of arrangements.

Rain Fails to Dampen Spirits of Visitors at Annual Flower Show

Rain failed to put a damper on the spirits of garden lovers who visited the 16th annual Chicago Flower show of the Garden Club of Illinois at Thornhill farm, near Glen Ellyn, yesterday. Considering the weather, attendance records were unusually high, Mrs. Raymond Knotts, president of the club, said. The show, the first to be given outdoors, is open from 10:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. and will continue thru tomorrow.

"Visitors were waiting outside the gates when we opened," Mrs. Knotts said yesterday. "Rain can't hurt the exhibits, and we were glad to see the public felt that it couldn't really spoil their fun either."

More than 80 member groups of the club are exhibiting in the show. Mrs. O. W. Dynes is general chairman.

Flower Show Impressions.

Most inspiring sight: The Arabian tent made to order many years ago for J. Sterling Morton, founder of Arbor day and grandfather of Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy and Sterling Morton, who gave the use of Thornhill farm for the Illinois Garden club's 16th annual show, which opened Thursday and will continue thru tomorrow. Made of thousands of multicolored quilted pieces, it has the appearance of stained glass when the sun shines on it. . . . First casualty: The stuffed owl in the Winnetka Garden club's entry, reduced to a handful of feathers when a local crow spied it and rounded up his fellow crows to beat the stuffing out of the intruder. . . . What to do problem: The Elmhurst Garden club's, because when it set up a display of bird houses, many feathered families moved right in and set up housekeeping. . . . Perfectionist touch: Members of the Lake Forest Garden club hanging a crystal chandelier from a tree branch, using a plumb line to assure the fixture being at the right angle over the Victorian dinner table. . . . Mrs. Edward L. Hasler and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill of the same club putting finishing touches on the white chairs which they'd painted themselves.

Appropriate.

We're indebted to a sharp eyed confrère for this quip, culled from a local news item:

"American Indians and their friends will meet for a May luncheon on Saturday, the event being a meeting of the First Daughters of America, an organization with Indian members. Mrs. E. T. McIver is in charge of reservations."

Home on Leave.

In the mail:

"After spending the greater part of the year on merchant ships in the submarine zone, I returned to dear old Chicago for a brief visit. On the day of my arrival I found the loop full of pulsating fire engines, a ladder truck dangling in a subway excavation, and an elevated train perched precariously in the air. It all reconciled me to returning to the comparative peace of the submarine zone.

"CYRIL MARTINIQUE."

Campaign Echoes.

Eleanor Walbaum was a volunteer canvasser in this week's pledge campaign to stimulate the purchase of war stamps and bonds. When she rang the bell at the first apartment on her list, the door was opened and quickly closed again. She was considerably heartened on her next two calls, however, as both of the men who answered the bell were in army uniform, and both subscribed immediately; one for $10 a month, the other for 10 per cent of his pay checks.

Another canvasser, working in a not too prosperous neighborhood, went into a tiny but spotlessly clean apartment. The smiling housewife, a naturalized Belgian, said at once, "O, you're the bond lady," and produced $100 she had saved to give for her country's war effort.

Yummy, Mummy.

Jay Dee writes that after attending a cooking school demonstration in a neighborhood motion picture house, she overheard a small boy, upon meeting his mother in the lobby, exclaim, "Gee, mommy, I sat thru a whole pie!"

Kappa Delta Members of Chicago Area Will Hold Luncheon Today

Mrs. Gordon Gill of Oak Park, chairman on arrangements, will present as the principal speaker Mrs. Maurice T. Coode, a Kappa Delta alumna of the University of Illinois. Mrs. Coode returned recently from the orient, and she will relate her experiences in Singapore and Penang during Japanese bombings. Mrs. Herbert E. Mueller of Evanston, province president of the college chapters in this area, also will be at the speakers' table. Mrs. Ada Schumacher, Miss Irenne Teets, and Miss Jane Houts will be among the national officers present.

Curtsey Issue Raised During Juliana's Visit

The old question, to curtsey or not to curtsey, was uppermost in the minds of the Chicago women who were invited to meet the future queen of the Netherlands, Crown Princess Juliana, during her visit to Chicago earlier this week.

The women of Netherlands descent, with whom the visitor talked in her native Dutch at various Netherlands communities in the city, slipped easily and naturally into a curtsey as the future ruler of their native land approached. The young Chicago girls and their mothers who were bidden to meet the princess at Mrs. Barrett Wendell's tea last Wednesday, or at Mrs. Richard T. Crane's semiofficial dinner on Wednesday night, had no heritage of curtseying and refrained from doing so.

Any question of behavior in the royal presence was settled for guests at these two parties, however. At Mrs. Wendell's tea the guests were asked to arrive 10 minutes early and to remove the gloves from their right hands. Princess Juliana arrived at the appointed time, and made the rounds of the room, shaking hands. After greeting the guests, she sat on a couch, and guests took turns in coming and chatting with her, then moving on to make room for others. During the party the princess made a trip to the top of the building to look at the view.

Evidence of the informality—from the point of view of diplomatic protocol—attendant in the entertaining for the princess was a last minute request that Mrs. Crane's men guests wear black ties instead of full dress to the dinner. These guests were asked to come 15 minutes early, and Mrs. Crane was asked to be at the door so Princess Juliana could meet her before greeting the other guests. Because the men were in dinner clothes, the party did not have as formal an appearance as some "American" dinner parties that have been held in the Crane home.

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, May 15.—At Sam Goldwyn's house they were talking shop, as usual, and somebody said he heard that the Warners' "Yankee Doodle Dandy" is a wonderful picture. "And," added Sam, "they've got a wonderful publicity idea. They're going to open it around the country on the Fourth of July—Washington's birthday." . . . Now that a women's branch of the army is a likelihood, one Hollywoodian says he's working to get a job as host in one of their canteens. . . . This story has been given me as true by what the Washington boys would call "an authoritative source." Anyhow, after Robert Montgomery quit the flickers and became a lieutenant commander in the navy, one of his assignments was in Washington. After a while Bob tired of this—possibly as being too social—and applied for and got a transfer to the torpedo school at New London. Before he left he was sent for by President Roosevelt. The President, addressing Bob as "commander," said nice things about him conducting himself as an officer and a gentleman, then asked if the ex-actor would like an autographed picture. According to the story, Bob said he'd be deeply honored. So Mr. Roosevelt got out a picture, wrote a fine dedication, then said he'd hesitated to make the offer because of Montgomery's valiant toil in Hollywood on behalf of Wendell Willkie before the last election. As he handed the picture to Bob, the President grinned and said, "At that, you got to the White House before he did."

◆

Problems of set construction, already acute, are bound to become worse, and the studios are working ahead to meet them. For instance, you are going to see more real outdoor shots.

In the past it has been more efficient to build outdoor sets on sound stages. Sergt. York's two farms, with real dirt and all, were carted into a stage where light and sound could be controled. The street in "This Above All" was really an interior. Most street scenes in most pictures—the railroad stations in "King's Row" and "They Died with Their Boots On," for example—are within four walls and a roof.

But now Hollywood is facing not only a shortage of materials but also its patriotic duty of conserving materials on hand. Rationing has put definite limits on new construction. So, whenever possible, Hollywood will go back to nature and shoot real houses, roads, trees, and fields. It will be no easy task, for there is scarcely a moment in southern California when you can't hear the hum of at least one airplane, and an airplane hum can wreck a sound track. This difficulty is not insurmountable. Dubbing—the fitting of a studio made sound track onto a previously made picture—has become a fine art.

The most radical step toward conservation of material so far taken by Hollywood has been okayed at 20th Century-Fox—where, for instance, there are nails enough for three months and nobody knows when any more of these simple, but precious things will be available.

Twentieth's art director, Richard Day, has devised a series of permanent sets. These sets, once erected on stages, will stay put, and no director can say, "take out that wall." They will be a series of rooms in a house, hotel apartment suites, office suites, country homes, and all the other typical layouts you'll find in most pictures. Each will occupy a sound stage.

Cookies are the smart thing to bake in the way of "sweets" nowadays. They keep longer and go farther than cakes on approximately the same amount of sugar. Also, they're easier to make and, therefore, less likely to be a wasteful failure.

There have been more good cookie recipes entered in the contest than there have been prizes to give to them. Today we present some near prize winners that are much too good to be overlooked entirely. Save them for your files. If you can't use them now, you'll be sure to want them again when sugar rationing is a thing of the past.

The first of the lot is a caraway sugar cookie which rates an honorable mention for Mrs. Floyd Wiley, 2918 North Lotus avenue, Chicago.

Grandma's Caraway Sugar Cakes.

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 tablespoons buttermilk
¼ teaspoon baking soda
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 tablespoon caraway seeds
Coarse granulated sugar

Cream butter, adding sugar gradually. Continue creaming until light and fluffy. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add buttermilk. Sift soda and flour together and add with caraway seed. Chill dough. When ready to bake, roll out to ⅛ inch thickness and cut with floured cookie cutter. Sprinkle with coarse, granulated sugar and bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 20 minutes or until delicately browned.

These tantalizing little tea cakes have a Chinese inspiration. They're made with tea [which should be fresh], altho orange juice or water may be substituted for the tea. Mrs. Flora Sullivan, 317 West William street, Dwight, Ill., gets an honorable mention for these goodies.

China Town Tea Cakes.
[About 2 dozen.]

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons lard
1 cup soft brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon tea, freshly brewed
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup pastry flour
Crystalized ginger

Cream butter and lard together, adding brown sugar gradually. Add soda and tea, then vanilla and flour, beating thoroly. Roll into tiny balls and arrange on buttered baking sheet, 1½ inches apart. Thrust a sliver of the candied ginger into each ball and bake in a hot [400 degree] oven until lightly browned, about 10 minutes.

Another honorable mention goes to Miss Florence Van Donsel, 1433 Eastman avenue, Green Bay, Wis., for her recipe for carrot cookies. Store these in a stone jar. The texture and honey flavor improve with age.

Carrot Cookies.
[About 5 dozen small cookies]

1 cup grated raw carrots
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup honey
½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup raisins
1 cup nutmeats
2 cups quick cooking oatmeal
2¼ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Grate carrots, add honey and soda. Add softened butter, beating thoroly. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add raisins and nutmeats, and stir in oatmeal. Sift remaining dry ingredients together and add. Roll out very thin and cut with floured cookie cutter. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown, in a moderate [350 degree] oven.

Don't put off sending in your possible prize winning recipe. A daily prize of $5 is awarded the best recipes submitted. Recipes should give standard, level measurements and clear and complete directions.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

A man cook, John Miluski, 492 South Division street, Buffalo, N. Y., wins today's $5 prize for his recipe for deviled eggs. He writes that they're a favorite with customers at his roadside food stand.

If you make some special dish that "customers" in your own family find worthy of compliments, send the recipe to the Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and perhaps it will win a $5 award. We hope that it will be written as clearly and accurately as was this contributor's recipe.

Deviled Picnic Eggs.

6 hard cooked eggs.
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¾ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon butter
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon evaporated milk
1 tablespoon cooked, chopped mushrooms
6 stuffed olives
1 egg, beaten
1 cup fine bread crumbs

Cut eggs in half lengthwise, remove yolks, and mash thoroly. Combine with seasonings, butter, Worcestershire sauce, catsup, milk, and mushrooms, mixing thoroly. Fill egg whites with the mixture and press halves together firmly, with a stuffed olive in the center of each. Secure with toothpicks. Roll in crumbs, dip in egg, and roll again in crumbs. Drop into deep, hot fat and cook for 2 or 3 minutes, or until lightly browned. Drain on absorbent paper and cool. Wrap each in waxed paper.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Romance Is Where You Find It.

Anna was a pretty, rosy cheeked waitress in a bakery lunchroom. One day, several springs ago, she was trying to shoo a bee out of the display window with her handkerchief. A big, good looking truck driver happened to be passing, saw Anna, concluded she was waving at him, backed up his truck, and dropped in to "coffee up." Today they are celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary.

On Quitting the Job.

How to keep from getting a recommendation:

Misrepresent your "prospects."

Stir up discontent among your former associates.

Spread a bit of spicy gossip about the "higher ups" now that you are about to quit the company.

Stall on your work the last week so as to make it especially hard to break in the new girl.

A Champion Speaks.

A letter from Albert Tangora, world's typing champion, holds so much of value to the business girl that paragraphs from it may find their way to this column from time to time.

"Just gotta do it!" he writes. "I've read about enough on the care of the typewriter in your column to give in to this irresistible impulse. How about the care of the typewriter herself?

"To heck with the machine! Correct operation alone will prolong its life immeasurably. With careful use and proper placement the machine needs no care. I have carried a typewriter in a case [the iron variety] 100,000 miles in a single year on planes, trains, buses, and cars with nary a thought on how the machine would perform except that the ribbon was getting too light. There are only two things I watch: the platen and the segment. The platen gets an occasional pure alcohol rub. The segment gets no erasure dirt. If I have to erase the desk gets it, not the machine.

"Here then is the bane of the repairman's life. Just plain dirt. Mistake—erasure! The typist can well afford to cut down on attempted speed to the point where errors are avoided before they are made. Count the seconds or minutes it takes to make an erasure, especially when corrections have to be made on carbons as well, and you will see what I mean. Experts in championship contests hit the keys 13 times per second, average for an hour. Yet they will assure you that every stroke is "thought out" before it is made. Slips occur less than once in every 1,000 strokes. Many business letters require less strokage than that, yet the w. c. g. often looks as tho her life depended on getting "Chicago" down on paper in record time, tangled keys be hanged!"

Job Snobs.

"In the moment that you get out of your head the fallacy that one kind of work is more genteel than another and learn that gentility is what you have and not what your job gives you, in that moment you cease to be a job snob and you will be able to look at careers with an intelligent eye and pick your own with wisdom and astuteness."—From Career Clinic by Esther Brooke.

Auxiliary Meets Monday.

With Mrs. Richard Gebel presiding, the Woman's auxiliary of the German club will have a business meeting and card party at 12:30 o'clock Monday in the Germania club, 108 Germania place.

Years Change Ways to Gain in Obedience

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Today is a windup, at least for the week, of the subject of obedience which this column has been covering.

This windup is to be a little bit of a panorama. That is to say, it will cover a wide arc, or swing well around the horizon, from babyhood around nearly to adult years.

Because I've swung around that arc with children both in and out of my family, I feel qualified to pass on to you something that you may not realize, if your experience is limited to your first baby or your still small son or daughter. It is a something, a perspective, a looking ahead thru some one else's eyes that I believe will help you. And it is this:

While gaining obedience without punishment rests on certain underlying principles that are sound for all ages, a mother must modify her "technique" to suit it to the changes that take place in a child in his body, in his mind, in his feelings, in his experience in general, from phase to phase of his growth.

With the baby, you are absolute arbiter of his fate, that is, of what he shall do, in a forthright way.

With the runabout child, tact and understanding, and a taken-for-granted attitude, with some friendly explanation, and also lots of time and patience, turn the trick.

When your boys and girls get to those years around 7 and 9 and 11, something else is needed. A tremendous amount of tolerance, a touch of easy-goingness in overlooking small lapses and pecadilloes, a ready interest in their interests, will gain the obedience in essentials and keep open the line of friendly communication so needed then and so vitally needed later when they come into:

Last, their teens. And here is where your technique of gaining obedience, or compliance with your requirements, undergoes a rather radical change. Holding to your own standards formed thru sympathy and years of a wider experience than theirs, you still must grant these teen age children the right to increasing independence; and further, to frank discussion of your viewpoint, and the demands which you feel are not only for their good and which are fair to the family as a whole.

Music Notes

The Chicago Lithuanian chorus, "Pirmyn," will give its annual concert in Kimball hall next Wednesday evening under Charles F. Stephens' direction. The program will consist of Lithuanian and American music and will feature several soloists. This chorus took first place in its classification at last summer's Chicagoland Music Festival.

Heimo Haitto, 15 year old Finnish violinist, will give a recital at the Finnish Community center, 4219 Lincoln avenue, beginning at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening. When only 12, Haitto won the attention of his own country by an appearance with the Helsinki Philharmonic orchestra. Soon afterward he played in London and in the Scandinavian countries.

Jewish Leaders Open Conferences on War Problems Here Today

War emergency sessions of the American Jewish congress open this afternoon at the Hotel Sherman under the chairmanship of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, president and a founder of the congress. Last night Dr. Wise preached at regular services of Temple Emanuel, 701 Buckingham place.

Four principal points make up the convention program. These are American Jewish contributions to the war effort, strengthening of democracy against inner assault of totalitarian ideas in this country, plans for post war reconstruction for Jews, and methods whereby the claims of Jews for the restoration of their rights may be presented at a peace conference.

Sunday afternoon's sessions will be devoted to I Am An American day observances, with Dr. Malcolm MacLean, president of Hampton institute and chairman of President Roosevelt's committee on fair employment practices, will be a principal speaker. Dr. Nahum Goldmann, chairman of the administrative committee of the World Jewish congress, will speak on Monday.

Shoppers Find Cotton Hosiery Sheer, Colorful

BY REA SEEGER.

Cotton accents for your summer wardrobe of cotton start with the new cotton hosiery, in good looking pastels of pink, pale blue, and yellow, with the almond green shade the best buy. The all white ribbed finds are white as snow, and called priority white. These are the ideal stockings for wear with cotton or any tubbable suit, especially cotton suits made of tweed mixtures and other fine checked patterns copied from fine tweeds and woolens.

These stockings are especially companionable with ginghams, chambrays, and the crisp piqué dresses or suits and with golf dresses and shirtwaist dresses for daytime wear in the country. They also are perfect for seersucker outfits and travel togs of cotton and the many novelty knitted outfits. There are some tweed mixture effects in these summer cotton stockings that are a bit startling at first glance but they do improve the longer you look at them. Don't let the cotton part of this hosiery promotion scare you away, for they are all delightfully sheer and flattering.

Mesh hosiery continues to lead the list of popular buys for spectator and summer daytime clothes. The suntan shades, together with neutral beige, navy, and dull black, assure fascinating effect on the skin besides being the coolest stockings imaginable for hot weather.

Most helpful fashion note of the week . . . first aid neck scarfs of white cotton material printed with actual illustrations of all the bandages, wrappings, tourniquets, and splints officially approved by the Red Cross training classes. . . . So if you're in the process of learning your first aid lessons, tie such a scarf around your neck or waist and use your idle minutes for skull practice.

Thru the Looking Glass

The acknowledged beauty of the '40s will be completely unlike the glamor girl of the '30s. She'll have glamor, but it will be of a different, better kind; a deeper kind, if you like.

She'll be healthy and look healthy. And she'll value ways and means to the good health that insures complexion radiance and figure beauty. She won't pursue superficial "beauty secrets," but she will pursue the paramount beauty secret of all—sound health. In the achievement of good looks, as in the achievement of many other things, we're going to get right back to the fundamentals in the '40s.

Exercise is one of these fundamentals. We'll be exercising for the sake of preserving health, good looks, and sound nerves. We're already starting it. Each week sees more and more timid girls and women venturing on the hiking and biking expeditions that are wandering over the hills and dales of Chicagoland. Working girls and housewives are trying it—and finding it fun, plus!

It used to be that most girls and women didn't know where or how to start to hike, even if they wanted to. That's not necessarily so today. Under the physical fitness division of the Office of Civilian Defense outing organizations are rather well coördinated and their starting points and destinations are well publicized each week.

This week-end, for example, seven hikes and bicycle trips comprise the physical fitness schedule. They're all open to any one who wants to go, and there's no obligation to join any organization with which you might choose to go! And they're free, except of course for your transportation to and from the starting point and, on some of the longer ones, for lunch.

You'll find the schedule of the hiking and biking outings in the sports section of tomorrow's TRIBUNE. Look it over early, slip into your roughest clothes, and join the nearest crowd! You can go in the morning or the afternoon—and if you're beauty and health wise you will go.

Good morning!

Sand and spice—and all things that suffice—
Those're what United States marines are made of!

If you don't believe it—see "To the Shores of Tripoli." AND—if you don't think your hard boiled marines can look pretty as well as gritty—ALSO see this film. Because it's in technicolor—and what it does for Randolph Scott and John Payne——O, Lady!

This is a socking movie that informs the public—to the tune of an interesting yarn—as to what goes on at a marine training post. . . . Randolph Scott is seen as a top sergeant, John Payne as a handsome graduate of Culver Military academy, who enters training thinking he knows it all—and learning differently. . . . His father, who had fought with Sergt. Dixie Smith thru the other World war, commends the lad to the latter's toughest attention. . . . "You do something with him—I couldn't" . . . he writes. And Dixie starts to put Chris thru his paces.

I must say here that I thought Smith a heap too rough on Winters because, from the start, aside from a little not obnoxious freshness, Chris seemed a pretty smart, decent, and kindly chap to me—deserving a heap better than he got at the hands of the boss man.

The situation between officer and rookie is the axle on which the rest of the action turns. . . .

Maureen O'Hara plays sweetly the charming nurse who fascinates, repulses, and finally goes all out for Chris. She's a gorgeous thing as photographed. . . . Nancy Kelly depicts well a lightweight colonel's relative who tries to wangle young Winters into a Washington swivel chair job. . . . William Tracy, who plays the kid with the photographic memory in the "Hay Foot" series, is appealing as an earnest little guy brimming over with esprit de corps who still just can't make the grade as a sea marine, and Randolph Scott never did anything better than his Sergt. Smith.

All other players are apt. . . . Maneuvers are thrilling and there are many exciting episodes and lots of martial music. . . .

A very swell movie, I'm thinking. And I'm also thinking—What on earth has either a son of heaven or a Nazi got that a United States marine can't polish off with one hand?

See you tomorrow.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
Pass	Double [final bid]

Altho East's double was of the hair-trigger variety, it was not illogical considering that South had shown a decided disposition to sign off after each of North's rebids. Unfortunately, the defense was not up to par.

West opened the diamond ten and East captured the jack. East made the good return of a low heart. Declarer ducked, and West won with the queen. West returned a diamond, removing dummy's ace. The heart jack then was led, and East, to avoid an eventual throw-in play, went right up with the ace and returned his remaining heart. [East's idea was to retain his third diamond as an exit card.] Declarer won the heart return and led a low club to the ten spot. East won, and now triumphantly exited with his carefully preserved diamond. Declarer won and led a club to the ace, then ruffled a club. East's king ingloriously fell, and now declarer did not have to lose a spade trick. The defenders took, in all, only two trumps, one diamond and one club, and the doubled contract was fulfilled.

It should have required no great farsightedness on East's part to see that dummy's club suit was very dangerous and that it would be vital to go out after a spade trick. Declarer was marked with the diamond queen, because if West had held that card, he would have returned a heart [after taking his heart queen] to prevent a diamond ruff in dummy. Thus, when the club jack was knocked out, East should have returned a spade, trusting West for the queen. If declarer had that card, there was nothing to be done about it. The pressing danger was that the club suit would be established for several discards.

It is worth noting that a spade lead by West, after taking the heart queen would be futile. Declarer could set up a spade trick and thereby avoid the club loser. The spade lead had to come from East, after one club trick was "home."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 15.—The Cubs had another uneasy afternoon at Shibe park today, but Pitcher Claude Passeau took it upon himself to do a bit of slugging and the Phils contributed another run, so the Chicagoans hung up a 2 to 1 victory.

Passeau, who was outpitched by Tom Hughes, hit a home run with the bases empty in the third inning and in the sixth an error and a misjudged fly ball gave the Cubs another score for their winning margin.

Hughes Yields 5 Hits.

Hughes allowed the Bruins only five hits while Passeau was found for nine. The Phils had Passeau in hot water most of the day, for in five of six innings the first Phil at bat reached first safely—yet failed to score. Inability to sacrifice, coupled with failure to read coaches' signs, spoiled their chances.

Nick Etten, first baseman of the Phils, was spiked in the heel in the fourth inning sliding to second base and was carried off the field. He will be out of action for a week at least.

The victory gave the Cubs a 3 to 2 lead in the season's series and was Passeau's fourth victory against three defeats. Altho he was hit frequently and gave three bases on balls, Passeau was splendid in the pinches—and no one can overlook his home run which broke the ice and gave the Cubs a lead.

Passeau Turns Slugger.

Passeau turned slugger in the third and hit a home run high into the upper deck of the left field stands to give the Cubs a 1 to 0 lead.

Chicago threatened in the fifth when Stringer singled to center and Phil Cavarretta was safe on Glossop's wild throw. Clyde McCullough rolled out and Passeau fanned. Hack was walked purposely and Merullo flied to Northey.

An error and a misjudged fly gave the Cubs their second run in the sixth. Gilbert opened with a single and Nicholson hit a towering fly to right that Northey misjudged and it went for a single, putting men on first and second. A double play, Benjamin to Bragan to Hughes, erased Nicholson and Dallessandro, but Glossop tossed Stringer's roller wild and Gilbert scored.

The Phils got this back in their half when Litwhiler singled with one out, went to second as Glossop rolled out and scored on a single by Northey.

Paul Erickson has been selected to pitch for the Cubs in tomorrow's series final. John Podgajny will hurl for the Phils.

HOW TO FIND THE HOME YOU WANT

Because results are better, advertisers place more real estate want advertising in the Tribune than in any other two Chicago newspapers combined. This makes the Tribune the best place to start your search for a home, because the more homes to select from, the better your chances of finding exactly the one you want. Read the real estate want ads in the Tribune.

A Toast.

Let me offer this toast to the groom and his bride
Who are starting the long trail today:
You can make life a joy as you walk side by side
If you're certain you want it that way;
You get out of this life what you put into it,
If you're cranky and headstrong and tart
You'll be walking on thistles and chewing up grit;
But if you from the depths of your heart
Are determined to give a lot more than you get,
And to smile when you feel you should frown,
You will never have reason to worry or fret
And your lifemate will not let you down;
For believe this no matter what pessimists say:
If you're right, folks will meet you much more than half way.

A PITCHERS' DUEL IS IN THE CARDS FOR SOX AND A'S

Edgar Smith Takes Mound Against Marchildon.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A classy pitchers' battle is in prospect for Comiskey park this afternoon if the weather improves a couple of hundred per cent over the brand that brought about postponement yesterday of the scheduled second game between the White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics. Edgar Smith, who has won none and lost five for the Sox, will be pitted against Phil Marchildon, who has won five and lost two for the A's.

In the light of the bald statistics, the meeting of a gent who has lost five out of five and one who has won five out of seven wouldn't seem to hold forth much promise of a pitchers' battle, but the fact remains that if Smith had had anything resembling a major league offense in each of his games his ratio might well show five victories and no defeats. He has been even more flagrantly abandoned by his associates than has Ted Lyons, and that really is a rap at the so-called Sox batsmen up to the time the Chicagoans launched their current winning streak, still unended at three straight.

Once Aroused They Spare None.

The Sox's record winning streak is remarkable for reasons other than the fact the Sox found some use for baseball bats. The big onslaught has been waged against three different teams, showing that, once aroused, the Sox spare no one. They started their big victory string against the Browns, beat the Red Sox for their first two game winning streak of the season, then waded into the A's Thursday.

Postponement of yesterday's game was acceptable by all concerned for good news was received by both teams anent their respective sickbays.

Ted Lyons Leaves Hospital.

Ted Lyons, who probably has spent less time in hospitals than any other active player of half his years of baseball service, left Mercy hospital shortly before noon. After undergoing a checkup there Thursday Lyons was instructed to remain over night. He confined himself to his apartment in Windermere hotel yesterday afternoon, but said he would be in uniform this afternoon if weather permits the playing of a game. Ted said examiners had told him they had found no evidence of a suspected kidney infection.

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Sox, reported himself as gratified with latest reports on the treatment of Thornton Lee's sore arm. After several flareups the 22 victory flipper of 1941 at last is responding to treatments.

It Was Wet, but, O, How They Ran!

Much of the track was covered with water, yet Big Ten track men performed well in yesterday's preliminaries of the annual outdoor meet, being held in Dyche stadium. Bob Wright of Ohio State, defending champion, won this first heat in the 120 yard high hurdles in :14.9 and Frank McCarthy of Michigan also qualified. Left to right: Walter Lambert, Wisconsin; Wright; Robert Crane, Illinois; McCarthy and Vance Wilkinson, Northwestern.

Angott Gets Up Off Floor to Beat Stolz

New York, May 15 (AP).—Sammy Angott came up off the floor tonight to keep his world lightweight championship with a decision over Allie Stolz in a rough and tumble 15 round bout before a near capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden. Angott weighed 134½; Stolz, 133.

Floored for a nine count with a right hand shot in the third round and outpunched all the way, the Washington, Pa., and Louisville boxer used his crowding, charging style to come thru by a whisker over the Newark boy.

So close was the bout that the boos which followed the announcement of the decision lasted so long and were so loud, the announcer could not introduce the next bout.

Stolz Loses on Low Punches.

Two low punches really cost Stolz the fight. He was penalized in the 12th and 14th rounds for out of bounds blows, and that was enough to make the difference between the championship and an outpointed challenger. At the finish, the Associated Press score card gave each seven rounds and called one even.

From start to finish, the fight followed a single pattern—Stolz tried to stand off, box and whip in his sharp, cracking punches, while Angott drove in close, pounded Allie's body in the early rounds and landed an occasional sneak right hander in the late going.

Angott drew the first penalty, losing the fifth round for swinging low. Stolz evened this up in the 12th and went one better in that department in the 14th. But in between, it was every man for himself in one of the best lightweight bouts of the last few years.

At the end it was so close the officials were split. Referee Frankie Fullam voted for Stolz, nine rounds to four, with one even. Judges George Lecron and Johnny Potter picked Angott, each turning in an identical score card with eight rounds for Sammy, half a dozen for Stolz, and one even.

By their jeers at the finish, the crowd of 16,099 which contributed to a gross gate of $49,014, obviously agreed with Fullam.

Angott's Style Decides Bout.

Angott's rushing, mauling style apparently was the deciding factor. In the first couple of rounds he tossed punches to Stolz's body almost exclusively. He was starting another such round in the third when Stolz fired a short left and a right hand that bounced Angott on the floor and so stunned him he waited out the nine count grinning like a kid with a lolly-pop.

Thru the middle rounds Stolz solved Angott's style, stood off and measured him as he charged, and connected with ripping punches, particularly swinging lefts to the body that slowed the champion down.

Stolz lost the range temporarily in the 12th and 14th. Each time it was for just one punch, and the one in the 14th landed on the outside of Angott's leg, where it could do no possible damage. But it meant the fight.

Oak Park High Qualifies Eight in Prep Track

Champaign, Ill., May 15 [Special].—Oak Park led with eight qualifiers for tomorrow's finals in the preliminaries of the state interscholastic track and field meet at the University of Illinois today. Urbana qualified four, and Evanston, Du Sable [Chicago], Wheaton, and Proviso [Maywood] three each. Ten other schools placed two men each in the finals.

Paul Behan of Crystal Lake broke the state interscholastic discus record with a throw of 153 feet 4⅜ inches. The old mark of 149 feet 3 inches was set last year by Louis Schilling of Pinckneyville.

Geyer Paces Oak Park.

George Geyer paced the Oak Park team by qualifying for the 100 and 220 yard dashes. His time of :09.9 in the 100 tied that of Harold Anderson, Du Sable, as the day's best. Geyer and a teammate, Ed Lyon, shared the best mark of :21.8 in the 220, where both qualified.

Other Oak Park qualifiers were Nussbaumer and Preble, low hurdles; Flohr and Westgate, pole vault; and Nichols, high jump. Nussbaumer's :22.8 was the best time for the 200 yard low hurdles.

One of the day's best performances was by Carl Ockert, Mooseheart's only qualifier, who ran the 440 in :49.5 despite a slow track.

Qualifiers

THE number of men qualified by each team in yesterday's preliminaries for today's finals in the Western conference track meet were as follows:

Ohio State	13	Indiana	4
Illinois	8	Wisconsin	3
Michigan	7	Purdue	1
Minnesota	5	Northwestern	0
Iowa	4	Chicago	0

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ohio State university, favored to win the Western conference outdoor track meet this afternoon in Dyche stadium, led the list of qualifiers in six events yesterday with 13 places. Illinois was second with 8 men and Michigan was third with 7.

Rain and cold weather forced the officials to abandon trials in the three field events, the shot put, discus, and broad jump. Trials in these will start today at 1:45 p. m., while the first championship event, the mile run, will be held as scheduled at 2:30 o'clock.

Preliminaries in the hurdles, sprints, quarter mile, and half mile were finished despite yesterday's adverse conditions only because it was impossible to postpone them.

Track Is Sheet of Water.

The weather conditions set an all-time record for the conference meet. A rainstorm drenched the track until it was a sheet of water from curbing to outer lane and it was still pouring when the first heat of the high hurdle race was called. Then just as the 60 barriers had been set up the wind flattened all as one can start a line of dominoes tumbling with a sharp thrust.

The hurdles were reset and weighted with stones to hold them in place for the trials. Bob Wright of Ohio State, around whom the Buckeyes' championship hopes are built, was the winner in the first qualifying race. The contestants ran the distance in water and before the last of these events the soft cinders at the starting blocks had been gouged into holes. Wright's time, however, was fair under the handicap. He was timed in 14.9 seconds. George Hoeflinger, a teammate, won the third of these races and Henry Vollenweider of Iowa took the second trial.

The cold—it was only five degrees above freezing—severely handicapped the runners. There were no upsets, however. Campbell Kane, defending half mile champion, who established a Big Ten all-time record last year of 1:51.3, took the third qualifying race in this event yesterday in 2:02.2. Bob Rehberg of Illinois ran the distance in 1:58.5.

Directors, Faculty Men Meet.

Indiana got three of its four qualifying places in the half when Paul Kendall and Earl Mitchell also got into the group of nine finalists.

The directors of athletics of the conference met yesterday morning to formulate recommendations to the faculty committee, governing body of the Big Ten.

No announcement of the directors' proposal was made. The faculty men met last night in the North Shore hotel in Evanston after dinner with the directors. Announcement of the decisions of the faculty conclave will be made today.

Indiana university announced that its football team would play Fort Knox at Louisville, Ky., Nov. 28. The Indiana game with the Iowa cadets will be played in Bloomington on Oct. 31.

Farmer Barely Gets In.

Lee Farmer, Iowa sophomore, who won the 60 yard conference indoor championship barely qualified in the 100 yard sprint. Farmer finished fourth in the race which was won by Dave Trepanier of Ohio State. Incidentally, Trepanier's time of 9.8 seconds was better than that in the second qualifying race, which was won

TOMORROW'S CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE

RECORD MEETING AT SPORTSMAN'S TO CLOSE TODAY

Betting May Surpass '41 by $1,300,000.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Sportsman's Park will close its spring meeting today with another record on total attendance and mutuel handle. According to conservative estimates, the betting will surpass that of last season by approximately $1,300,000.

The total handle for the 1941 spring meeting of 19 days was $5,028,120. This figure was passed on Wednesday, the 16th day of the present session. Following the eighth race on Wednesday, the 1942 handle was $266,758 above that of last season's 19 days. Yesterday, at the conclusion of 18 afternoons of racing, the excess was $910,206 over last year's complete 19 day figure. Today's handle is expected to run in the neighborhood of $475,000 if the weather is favorable.

The first race yesterday was marred by the runaway of Winkle, an 8 to 1 shot. This 5 year old mare threw her rider and broke away while the field was lining up in the starting gate. The outrider, Harry Miller, caught her bridle after she had made a complete circuit of the half mile track but she was going so fast that he had to let go to avoid the danger of a serious accident either to himself or the horse. On the second time around he caught her but she already had run a mile and this took so much out of her that her jockey, Steve Murphy, had to ease her up and she failed to finish. Meanwhile Stray Chord, an 11 to 1 shot, was going on to win.

Illinois Rules Amplified.

The Illinois racing laws have been amplified considerably in recent years to break many of the unfortunate precedents established by the gray bearded Jockey club of New York. Under the old rule a horse was a starter when he left the paddock and entered the track on the way to the post and all bets stood regardless of whether he was dead or alive when the gate was sprung. The initiative Illinois track operators and commissioners abolished this rule several years ago and gave the steward wide latitude in excusing a horse at any time before at actual start.

This has been applied repeatedly and refunds from the betting pool have been administered to general public satisfaction in the case of horses which have been injured on the way to the post, but never yet have the stewards' prerogatives been invoked in the case of a runaway, such as Winkle yesterday. In California, the rule is worded to the effect that whenever the stewards believe that a horse is not in a condition to give his best efforts, they may excuse him at any time before the start and the money wagered upon him may be refunded out of the betting pool.

A Pigeon Rules the Roost.

A homing pigeon disrupted the press box routine yesterday. He was found, exhausted after flying thru heavy weather, and was brought up for rest and resusciation. After showing a complete coldness to the advances of newspaper men, he made friends with Wingie Quinlan, a jockey's agent. He ate a cheese sandwich and drank a cup of water out of Quinlan's hand. Then he became an arrogant dictator of press box procedure. Whenever the typewriters would begin to click, he would stop eating and glare at the offender, who would thereupon meekly quit work and wait until the displeasure of the pigeon had subsided. Eventually his owner, a Mr. Fiala of Berwyn, turned up and claimed him, giving the boys in the press box an opportunity to go back to work without offending the bird's finer sensibilities.

Today's program will be headed by a race of a mile and a sixteenth for three year olds and up and a seven furlong sprint for three year olds. The longer event will bring out Valdina Paul, Cherry Trifle, He Man, Vegas Justice, Relious, Beamy, and Moslem. The sprint has drawn an overnight field of nine, including Can't Lose, Tetros Jr., Outbid and other speedy performers.

Winner trained by P. L. Kelley. Went to post at 4:24½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won ridden out, place driving.

COMMISSION, away on top, soon dropped back off the pace, came with a rush while saving ground rounding the final bend, and, under mild pressure, closed strongly to win going away. SHIRLEY G., rushed into the lead going to the first turn, set the pace to the final furlong, then gave way when the winner challenged. DAVID B. JR., a forward factor in the early stages, raced up swiftly on the inside of the pacemaker entering the backstretch the last time around, held on gamely to the final drive, then tired. TWO PLY raced evenly but was never able to threaten the leaders. MILLMORE forced the pace for the first half mile, then dropped well back. DARBY DALLAS raced wide on all the turns.

PURLING LIGHT, very slow to get going, moved up steadily rounding the far turn, closed gamely in the final furlong, but was no threat to the winner. LACTOSE was closest to the winner for the first three-quarters of a mile, then tired.

Start good from gate. Won easily, place driving.

HER REIGH forged to the front after going the first sixteenth of a mile, and under a well rated ride held his advantage to the last quarter mile, then, under urging, withstood a bold bid by ILLINOIS STAR, drew away in the final furlong to win going away. WATERCURE, never far from the leaders, closed some ground while saving ground rounding the final bend, got up in the last stride to get the place narrowly. ILLINOIS STAR forced the pace for the first half mile, made a game bid midway of the backstretch* but was not good enough and just lasted in the final drive to save the show.

Golf School's Honor Pupils Await Big Day

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

An invitation to the graduating exercises of the tenth annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE is hereby extended to all golf minded Chicagoans. These final ceremonies in the largest plan of group instruction in the game's history will begin promptly at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Diversey location in Lincoln park, Diversey boulevard and Lake Michigan. Every one interested in seeing the 32 finalists swing for prizes is urged to attend the closing exercises of the 1942 school.

These 32 prize students, all of them novices, were chosen by the members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America at the conclusion of the fourth and final lesson of the regular series last Thursday night on the four courses of the Chicago park district. Each of the four courses—Jackson, Marquette, Columbus, and Lincoln—will be represented by two men, two women, two boys, and two girls in tomorrow's graduation party.

66,000 Free Lessons Given.

This 1942 anniversary school closed with a record of 66,000 free lessons given by the members of the Illinois PGA, who for the tenth straight year donated their services free of charge, forsaking club opportunities to carry on the work. That 66,000 raised the ten year aggregate of free instructions given by the PGA faculty to 395,000. Attendance was remarkable in view of the pesky behavior of the elements. The finalists and their professors are congratulating themselves on having completed the classes before yesterday, which could not have been classed among the best days for holding a final lesson.

The professionals who will form the jury in tomorrow's session don't make any hasty decisions, as proved in their selections in the 1941 school. In that, only one decisive winner—in the girls' class—was chosen without benefit of an elimination process. In the other three divisions, the pros had to examine swings over and over again before they finally selected the main winners.

Winners Get Golf Bag, Clubs.

The man, woman, boy, and girl beginners whose swings are rated best by the PGA professors tomorrow will be presented with a golf bag and a complete set of clubs. The other 28 finalists also will be rewarded, each receiving a golf merchandise certificate.

HOLD PREP TRACK TRIALS TODAY IN 16 INDIANA CITIES

South Bend, Ind., May 15 [Special].—Track athletes will compete in 16 sectional meets thruout Indiana tomorrow to qualify for the annual state high school event at Indianapolis on May 23.

Mishawaka will be a qualifying center, with contestants representing 15 schools in St. Joseph, Marshall, and LaPorte counties competing. Athletes who finish first and second in events at each meet will qualify for state competition, while members of the winning half mile and mile relay teams will also qualify.

North Side of Fort Wayne, undefeated this year, and winner of the Northern Indiana conference and the Gary indoor meet, two of the outstanding high school meets staged this season, will be defending champion at the state meet.

3 PREP TRACK MEETS LISTED IN CHICAGO AREA

Compete Today at Loyola, Stagg Field, and in Elgin.

Track champions of the Private School league, Midwest Prep conference, and Illinois Catholic High school relays will be crowned today.

On the north side Loyola will act as host in the third annual meet for Catholic high schools. As an added feature this year there will be a quarter mile relay for grammer school teams, four of which are entered, including St. Ignatius, St. Thomas, St. Hilary, and St. Francis Xavier.

Ten in Private School Meet.

The defending meet champion is St. Ignatius. St. George, winner of the first meet, also will compete, along with Loyola, Mount Carmel, Fenwick, Leo, De Paul, St. Rita, St. Gregory, St. Francis DeSales, and possibly St. Elizabeth. The first event is scheduled to start at 2:15 o'clock.

Ten schools will compete in the Private School league meet at Stagg field this morning. During the past three years, University high, the host school, has taken the trophy. Teams entered are Francis Parker, Chicago Latin, Concordia, Chicago Christian, Harvard School, North Shore Country Day, Luther Institute, North Park Academy, and Wheaton academy.

Midwest Meet at Elgin.

At Elgin, Midwest Prep conference members will vie for honors now held by Culver Military academy of Culver, Ind. Frank Limacher, Elgin coach in charge of arrangements announced yesterday that Chicago entries will be Morgan Park Military academy and Pullman Tech. Others entered are Lake Forest academy, St. John's Military academy of Delafield, Wis.; Onarga Military academy, Roosevelt Military academy of Aledo, Ill., and the host school.

39 GAMES POSTPONED

With all of yesterday's Public School league baseball games postponed, total postponements since the season opened April 13 reached 39. With regularly scheduled games scheduled Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. It leaves only Tuesday and Thursday open for playing off these games.

Harrison, currently undefeated and leading in the central section, faces the difficult task of playing three regular games and four postponements before the season closes Friday, May 29.

Trouble in Other Sections, Too.

Postponed contests are expected to cause trouble in the other sections, too. Kelvyn Park, tied with Crane in the west section, has seven games remaining, while Lane, unbeaten in the north, has three postponements to make up, one of which will be played as a double header with Taft on May 27.

As the season draws to a close, it appears as if there will be hotly contested games between the leaders in all sections. In the north, Lane, with eight victories and no defeats, has Schurz and Taft for its chief rivals.

Schurz Record Good.

Schurz has won eight of nine and Taft six of seven. In the west section, Crane and Kelvyn Park each have won 10 and lost only one, with Austin in third place with an eight and two record.

Bowen leads the south section with seven victories and one defeat with Calumet in second with six decisions in eight games. In the central, unbeaten Harrison, with seven consecutive victories is receiving competition from Farragut and Gage Park, each of whom has lost two games while winning seven and six respectively.

DODGERS, WYATT PUSH PIRATES INTO 3D PLACE, 8-3

Tie Score in Eighth Inning, Win in Ninth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 15.—The champion Dodgers, that strange assortment of athletes assembled by the ingenious Larry MacPhail, put Whitlow Wyatt back into circulation this afternoon and it proved another grief laden occasion for Frankie Frisch's Pirates. Big, bald Whitlow figuratively blew the shirts off the Pittsburghers, and the Dodgers as a group did the same to Truett [Rip] Sewell, the upshot of which was an 8 to 3 triumph for the title holders.

Vaughan, Reiser Prove Big Help.

Wyatt, who previously had won only one game and hadn't gone the route even once, had able assistants in Arky Vaughan, the Pirate alumnus, and Pete Reiser, who wears the league batting crown. Vaughan amused a ladies' day crowd of 21,308, of which 12,154 were cash customers, with two singles, a double, and a run producing pass. Reiser's act was made up of three doubles. These two fellows got in all their work in six innings, which was Sewell's limit, to give Wyatt such a comfortable lead that he eased off in the eighth and let a four hit job turn into an eight hitter.

Pirates Drop to Third Place.

Sewell's foldup, which cost him his second defeat and at the same time plunked the Pirates into third place, set in early in the proceedings. He was pushed around for a run in the opening inning and the third was so turbulent that he couldn't extricate himself until after three more Dodgers had registered. By this time the tormented Mr. Frisch was fully convinced there was nothing crucial about the series so he permitted Sewell to continue. But the sixth was just a little too much for the Pirate boss' patience. Five of the first six Dodgers to bat exploded base hits for four runs and Frisch quickly found other gentlemen to furnish what little pitching was needed to complete the lopsided struggle. Score:

BRAVES DEFEAT CARDS, 3-2, AND CLIMB INTO 2D

Boston, Mass., May 15 (AP).—The Boston Braves moved into second place today, four games behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, as they came from behind in the last two innings to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2. A walk, a sacrifice, an error, and a long fly provided the winning run in the ninth.

Eddie Miller.

The Cards scored two runs in the sixth by bunching three of their five hits off Al Javery and went into the eighth leading, 2 to 0. Then Eddie Miller doubled and scored on a single by Nanny Fernandez for the first Boston run. Clyde Kluttz sacrificed Fernandez to second and Chet Ross brought home the tying run with a single to center. Score:

PETE REISER WINS DRAFT APPEAL PLACED IN 3-A

New York, May 15 (AP).—Pete Reiser, the National league batting champion, was reclassified 3A by a draft appeal board today, and the chief threat against the Brooklyn Dodgers retaining their pennant consequently was removed.

The 22 year old star center fielder, who last year became the first rookie ever to win the batting championship, originally was rated 3A, because he contributes to the support of his parents and four sisters and a brother, all of whom live in St. Louis.

But his local board in Brooklyn, where Reiser registered, placed him in 1A last winter during the reclassification that followed the United States' entry into the war.

Wheaton notified the conference of its withdrawal, leaving the league with nine members, Illinois Wesleyan, Lake Forest, Augustania, Millikin, Bradley Tech, North Central, Knox, Illinois college, and Monmouth.

The conference's annual tennis, golf and track meets will be held at North Central today. The track meet will start at 1 o'clock on Kroehler field.

Hale America Golf Entries Break Record

New York, May 15 (AP).—A total of 1,475 entries—a new record list for open golf competition—was announced today by the United States Golf association for next month's Hale America National Open golf tournament.

Fourteen former National Open champions and many amateur, pro, and sectional titleholders are in the field competing for the $6,000 in prize money in the tournament finals which will be played June 18 to 21 at Ridgemoor Country club, Chicago, for the benefit of the Navy Relief society and United Service organizations.

Previous High Mark in 1937.

The previous high for open entry lists were chalked up for the 1937 National Open in Detroit, for which 1,402 shotmakers filed cards. USGA Secretary Joe Dey, announcing the closing of Hale America entries today, said the 1,475 already in may be exceeded by a few stragglers form Canada and California.

The total will be whittled down in 81 local qualifying rounds at 36 holes each, to be played May 24-26. The survivors of that competition meet in 13 54 hole sectional tournaments June 5 to 9. Some 80 to 100 will come out of those trials to join 21 standout performers already exempt in the field of between 100 and 120 for the 72 hole affair in Chicago. The number of qualifiers in local and sectional tournaments will be decided in the next few days by Francis Ouimet, chairman of the joint USGA-Chicago district-PGA committee handling the tournament.

15 Canadians Are Entered.

The entry list included 15 Canadian competitors, of whom two will qualify in Canada for the finals, and two South Americans—Dr. Walter C. Ratto of Rio de Janeiro and Carlos Bracht of Buenos Aires—who will compete in the New York qualifying rounds.

During his absence, Anton won and lost the world 175 pound title. He gained recognition by defeating Melio Bettina, but lost it shortly thereafter to Gus Lesnevich.

Mike Evans, rangy Philadelphia junior welterweight, also arrived yesterday for a 10 round headliner against Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind., in Marigold Gardens Monday.

JOHNNY DAWSON SEEKS TO REGAIN AMATEUR STATUS

New York, May 15 (AP).—Johnny Dawson, veteran Hollywood, Cal., golfer who is among the latest entries for the Hale America Open tournament, hopes to regain his amateur standing, the United States Golf association disclosed today.

While ranking as a top flight golfer for years, Dawson has been in the position of being neither an amateur nor a professional. His employment by a sporting goods company, however, made him ineligible for tournaments sanctioned by the USGA.

Seeks to Regain Amateur Status.

Dawson told the USGA that he expects to leave the sporting goods business soon and is preparing to file an application for reinstatement to amateur classification.

He is entering the Hale America tournament as an applicant for amateur reinstatement and, as such, would not be eligible for either an amateur prize or a professional prize, altho he would be awarded the winner's medal if he should win.

He will compete in the Hale America sectional tournament at the Riviera Country club in Pacific Palisades, Cal., June 8 and 9 in an attempt to qualify for the final tournament to be held June 18-21 at the Ridgemoor Country club in Chicago.

Wins Bing Crosby Tourney.

Dawson won the sixth annual $5,000 Bing Crosby tournament at Rancho Sante Fe, Cal., last winter with a record score of 66-67—133. He held the trans-Mississippi championship in 1936 and went to the semi-finals of the British Amateur tournament in 1929.

The USGA said Dawson's application for amateur reinstatement would be considered later by its executive committee.

HIGHLAND PARK YOUTH LEADS IN STATE PREP GOLF

Peoria, Ill., May 15 (AP).—Herbert Chambers, Highland Park High, today won the first round of the Illinois High School golf tournament by turning in a 76, four over par, on the Mount Hawley Country club course.

Chambers led Highland Park to a substantial lead in the scramble for the team title, the foursome carding an aggregate of 343. East Rockford trailed with 350, followed by La Grange, 352; Kewanee, 361, Bloomington and Peoria Central, 372; Vandalia, 374; Joliet, 379, and Champaign, 392.

Five strokes back of Chambers in the individual standings was Earl Peterson of East Rockford with 81. Another East Rockford entry, Dean Nelson, tied with Laverne Carlson of Princeton and Duncan Fisher, La Grange, for third place at 83. The final 18 holes will be played tomorrow.

ARLINGTON MAY ADD INVITATIONAL RACE TO ITS CARD

An invitational race, patterned on the Pimlico Special in which five or six of the nation's leading thorobreds would compete, may be included in the list of stake events at Arlington Park's 1942 meeting, scheduled to open on June 22. Ben F. Lindheimer, executive director of the track, made the announcement yesterday.

The statement followed a report that Warren Wright's Whirlaway and Mrs. Al Sabath's Alsab might meet in a match race at Arlington.

"The complete schedule of stake events has not been drafted," Lindheimer explained, "but we rather like the idea of an invitational event involving several of the leading money winners."

He indicated that such a race would be preferable to a match because of the uncertainties attendant upon the latter type of feature, such as pre-race injuries to either entrant.

AVIATION SHARES WEAK, BUT MOST OTHERS ADVANCE

Wall Street Bullish Again Over War News.

New York, May 15 (AP).—Aside from an assortment of weak aviation issues, stocks generally exhibited quiet recovery leanings in today's market. Dealings were slack, with a majority of active issues closing fractions to a point or more higher.

The principal air transport stocks dropped 1 to 3 points or so when it was announced the army would operate or control all domestic passenger planes as a war measure. The question as to how shareholders would fare brought out a little early selling. A few aircraft manufacturing stocks slipped.

Index Up .3 Point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .3 of a point at 33.8. Transfers totaled 257,120 shares, compared with 278,857 Thursday.

Wall street seemed to have retrieved some of its bullish spirits as bulletins told of the strong offensive being put up by the Russians at Kharkov, which, if successful, was expected to more than offset temporary Nazi advances on the Kerch peninsula.

There was still plenty of worry anent spreading economic controls and taxes, and their repercussions on earnings and dividends.

EDISON STOCK UP.

Commonwealth Edison advanced ⅛ to 18¾ and accounted for 3,450 of the 13,000 shares traded yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Of 70 issues traded, 37 advanced, 17 declined, and 16 closed unchanged. Among other active stocks, Libby, McNeill & Libby finished unchanged and Chicago corporation declined 1-16. Deere & Co. advanced ⅛ and Standard Oil of Indiana declined ¼ in the half hour following the close of trading in New York.

GREAT NORTHERN LIFTS PREFERRED STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors of the Great Northern railway yesterday declared a dividend of $1 on the preferred shares, double the preceding payment on the issue made in December last year. The American Sumatra Tobacco corporation authorized an extra dividend of 50 cents and the 25 cent quarterly payment on the common stock.

The North American company, utility holding company, announced a dividend of one share Detroit Edison company capital stock for each 50 shares of North American common. Payment is subject to approval by the Securities and Exchange commission.

NEW OPA PRICE MARKING STAND CAUSES UPROAR

Retagging of Items Called Too Costly.

Delay List Filing

Washington, D. C., May 15 [Special].—The OPA today extended from June 1 to July 1 the time within which retailers must file lists on cost of living commodities with local war price and rationing boards. The revision does not change, however, the requirement that the specified cost of living articles must be posted plainly in each store beginning Monday.

A bulletin titled "What every retailer should know about the general maximum price regulation" will be distributed next week, Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Merchants of the nation were thrown into an uproar yesterday by the OPA's sudden reversal of its stand as to how March ceiling prices are to be marked on retail goods when the price controls go into effect next Monday.

Joseph T. Meek.

The OPA, in a question and answer statement interpreting the price controls, said Thursday night that merchants would not be permitted merely to list March ceilings for each article in a book, looseleaf folder, or card index placed near the merchandise for use by consumers or investigators.

Until then, retailers' spokesmen had been assured by top OPA officials that such a procedure would be acceptable.

Must Tag Each Type.

The new requirement as outlined in the OPA statement is that the ceiling price be listed either on a tag attached to each type of controled article or be prominently displayed on a single sheet, it not being permissible to post one sheet on top of another so that the consumer would have to look at a number of pages.

With the reversal of the rule being made at the last minute, when merchants are fighting against time to be ready for business Monday under the regulations, the retail industry protested vigorously to Washington.

Objections were based on several grounds. One was what merchants termed the physical impossibility of getting individual price tags printed and put on the goods by Monday. Another was that the cost of merchandising would be increased for merchants who do not use the individual tag or shelf tag system of marking prices.

Called Costly Operation.

In a big department store price tags are cut to a certain size and are routed thru complicated marking machinery. There is no room on the tags to add the words "our ceiling" or "ceiling price." Changing the size of the tag would mean a readjustment of machinery. Merchandising men said that price marking is one of the costliest operations in preparing goods for sale.

In addition, many merchants who pride themselves on the appearance of their stores objected that to put on every article on the shelf a tag big enough to carry the "ceiling price" and the current price would ruin the appearance of the store.

Joseph T. Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, said that to saddle merchants, particularly the small ones, with an impossible task would get the price control program off to a bad start, because it would catch many retailers in an unavoidable technical evasion of the regulations.

"That would have a bad effect on morale," Meek said. "We cannot afford to put merchants in that position, because we cannot afford to have the price control program fail. Failure would bring disastrous inflation."

PLAN NO APPEAL ON MILWAUKEE'S INTEREST ORDER

William C. Osborn and John Gerdes, representing holders of Milwaukee railroad 5 per cent 50 year mortgage bonds of 1975 have advised the railroad's trustees there will be no appeal from the order of the federal District court in Chicago on April 14 authorizing payment of $19,940,153 in interest to bondholders.

At the hearing they had asserted the bondholders they represented were entitled to a larger share in the distribution than had been proposed by trustees and approved by the court.

Altho no other bondholder group has indicated it will appeal, A. N. Whitlock, attorney for the trustees, said the payment will not be made until after May 24, when the 40 day appeal period expires.

CIO Selected in 15 Plants of Steel Firm; 2 in Illinois

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 15 (AP).—Employés of the 15 plants of the American Steel and Wire company have chosen the CIO Steel Workers' Organization committee as their exclusive bargaining agent, the National Labor Relations board announced here today. Results in the two Illinois plants were: Joliet, 2,360 to 55, and Waukegan, 1,263 to 160.

Wood Replaces Steel Trusses for Roofs of New Factories

BY AL CHASE.

Wooden roof trusses are replacing steel—heretofore almost alway used in permanent, fireproof industrial plants—in practically all new factory buildings thruout the country, it was learned yesterday. This is being done as a result of a War Production board order to conserve all steel possible for actual armament purposes.

The practice will save about 96 per cent of the steel ordinarily used in roof truss construction, according to one large contracting firm. The other 4 per cent of steel will be for bolts, washers, bearing plates, anchors, and other small hardware used on the wooden trusses, it was said. Builders said there would be no saving in price or time as it takes as long to get wood trusses made and costs more at present prices.

One Saves 20,000 Tons.

In one big midwestern plant the saving by using wooden construction will amount to 20,000 tons of steel, which will go into tanks, shells and other implements of war instead of roof trusses.

Builders disagree as to the effect this war move will have on the permanency of the newer industrial plants. All agree that the wooden trusses cannot carry the roof loads, heavy cranes, etc., that steel construction can. Most builders regard it as a backward step in industrial construction—especially as it increases the fire hazard and will put most of the new factories in the classification of "temporary structures."

"All trusses with a 60 foot span or under must be made of wood instead of steel," an engineer explained. "In trusses over that width steel can be used only if it can be proved that steel is justified. Otherwise the spans will have to be narrowed and support pillars used."

A report that the big Chrysler plant to be built on the south side may have to change its plans, which are said to call for 75 foot steel trusses, could not be verified. The George A. Fuller company, which has the general contract, said working plans had not yet been received from Detroit.

An official of that company said that even if plans had to be changed to wooden roof trusses it would not mean that the plant would be a temporary affair. It is a permanent production project, he said.

Bans 'Excess' Sale

Washington, D. C., May 15 [Special].—Disposition of surplus iron and steel inventories held by manufacturers of farm machinery and equipment today came under control of the WPB, which ruled manufacturers cannot, except by WPB permission, dispose of these inventories in raw or partially fabricated condition which are in excess of requirements under a previous order establishing farm equipment production quotas.

WPB Puts Ban on Installation of Cooler Units

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—The War Production board today banned new installations of air conditioning equipment and commercial refrigeration equipment except on military contracts or on contracts certified by WPB as meeting an essential civilian requirement. The order also restricts production and sale of such equipment.

For the next 90 days only the army, navy, and maritime commission may contract for production of beer dispensers, bottled beverage coolers, mechanical refrigerators designed to store frozen food, individual room coolers, florist boxes, and display cases, and fountainette-type soda fountains. Thereafter production of these items is prohibited.

Theaters, Hotels Affected.

Theaters, restaurants, and hotels are denied new air conditioning equipment, but J. M. Fernald, WPB branch chief, said the order will not interfere with productions or installations to cover health rather than mere comfort requirements.

Fernald listed five categories of essential civilian uses for which purchases might be authorized on application. They are:

1. Processing, transportation, storage, preservation, and distribution of food and food products only in those expanding defense communities where adequate minimum facilities do not exist in the opinion of the War Production board.

2. Production, processing, transportation, storage, preservation, and distribution of milk and dairy products.

Mining Processes.

3. Mining, manufacturing processes, communication equipment, and processing methods [including water and liquid cooling] where control of temperature or humidity can be proved necessary for production.

4. Ice manufacture and storage only where, in the opinion of the War Production board, adequate facilities do not now exist.

5. Miscellaneous applications in connection with testing and research laboratories; defense production drafting rooms which can demonstrate proof of actual need; operating rooms in regularly constituted hospital buildings; preservation of drugs, medicine, and serums, mortuaries [body storage]; production inspection test rooms.

SHIPBUILDERS' PARLEY ON PAY 20 DAYS OLD; NO WORD ON PROGRESS

The WPB's shipbuilding wage stabilization conference at the Hotel Sherman originally scheduled to last four days, enters its 20th day this morning. For more than a week there has been no statement for publication from the conference press committee.

Under existing contracts, which provide periodic wage adjustments on the basis of increased costs of living, west coast and gulf shipyard workers now would receive substantial wage increases, while pay of Atlantic coast and Great Lakes employés would remain unchanged. The present rate for skilled mechanics is $1.12 an hour in all except the gulf zone, where it is $1.07.

President Roosevelt, in a message two weeks ago, told conferees the wage increases due under existing contracts would be inflationary and would create undesirable wage differentials in the industry.

GOLDBLATT'S 11TH STORE UNIT WILL BE OPENED TODAY

Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., today will open the 11th unit of its chain of department stores in the recently completed building on Belmont avenue, extending from Central to Major avenues. It will be known as Goldblatt's community store and will give the Belmont-Central area a complete shopping center all on one floor.

The building covers 30,000 square feet, all of which will be devoted to actual selling space, it was said.

There are more than 600 counters distributed and departmentalized for shopping convenience.

The store's departments include home furnishings, men's, women's, children's, and infants' wear, sporting goods, cosmetics, notions, and other merchandise found in the modern department store. It will be operated on a cash-and-carry basis, with free parking provided for customers.

SUBURBAN FARE TOTAL OF ROCK ISLAND ROAD UP

The Rock Island railroad's revenues from suburban operations for the first four months of 1942 totaled $401,254, an increase of 11 per cent over receipts for the comparable 1941 period, H. H. Siddall, accountant for the road, testified yesterday before the Illinois Commerce commission.

The testimony was given at a hearing on the Rock Island's petition for an increase of 10 per cent in suburban rates of fare. Other railroads in the Chicago area have similar petitions pending.

Suburban travel was up 12.7 per cent in January, 16.7 per cent in February, 9.37 per cent in March, and 3.34 per cent in April, compared with like 1941 months, Siddall said.

BARGE SYSTEM GROWTH MAY BE CURBED BY WAR

Steel Control, Busy Yards Are Factors.

Restrictions on steel plus the fact that inland shipbuilding yards are loaded with orders are expected to stop the steady expansion of the last 20 years in barge systems using the inland waterway system, veteran barge operators said yesterday.

Shipyards on both the Great Lakes and the rivers are engaged in building smaller craft for use by the navy, maritime commission, and the army. In the last war a substantial number of ocean going freighters was built in Great Lakes yards, but in this war the emphasis is on small fighting and patrol vessels and special types of auxiliary craft.

Barge Demand Increases.

Meantime, the demand has increased steadily for river barges to handle bulky commodities used in the war effort. A measure before congress would provide 20 million dollars for the purchase of 20 tow boats and 300 large barges to be placed in a pool for use where needed. However, the barge operators are uncertain about getting steel priorities even if this money is made available.

Real expansion in the use of the waterways began about 30 years ago, one operator said, with the development of steel barges and tow boats having steel hulls.

The barge operators last year took measures to provide for the expected increase in transportation, it was said. As in the case of the railroads, they were assured of a moderate amount of steel for the building of river craft. But after Pearl Harbor the lid was clamped on the use of steel for the building of barges and the barge operators believe there is little likelihood of its being lifted.

Sought Wooden Barges.

One large operator entered into negotiations with a shipyard for a number of wooden barges. The yard owner said he was confident he could build the barges and would submit costs to the operator. But later he learned he could not obtain the necessary timber—mostly fir from the Pacific northwest—so the use of wooden barges as a substitute was out.

The operator said that few of the river men would care to go back to wooden barges because of their high maintenance costs. Keeping them in condition, he explained, is a constant fight to stop leaks. And they are damaged easily. Further, wooden barges are not suitable for carrying certain commodities, including petroleum products.

A group of petroleum operators hopes to have steel barges on the rivers taken over for the transportation of petroleum products to centers from which they could be conveyed to the eastern seaboard. If this is done, adverse effects would immediately be felt by many big munitions plants and utilities which must have huge volumes of coal.

Important Yards on Rivers.

Among the more important yards on the rivers are the following: American Bridge company, Bethlehem Steel company at Pittsburgh; Midland Barge company, Beaver, Pa.; Marietta Manufacturing company, Point Pleasant, W. Va.; Jeffersonville Boat and Machine Works, Jeffersonville, Ind.; St. Louis Shipbuilding and Steel company, St. Louis; Nashville Bridge company, Nashville; Calumet Shipyard and Dry Dock company and Chicago Bridge and Iron company, Chicago, and the Dubuque Boat and Boiler works at Dubuque, Ia.

The pressure of war work will prevent any of these yards from filling barge orders now, it was said.

The same conditions prevail in the yards on the Great Lakes. However, besides building the smaller types of naval and army vessels, some of the yards are building big ore carriers.

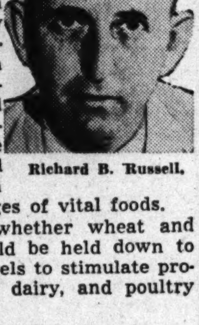
F. D. R. Strives to Save Farm Price Program

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—With President Roosevelt taking a personal hand by calling a White House conference of senate farm leaders, the administration struggled today to head off congressional action which, it contended, would wreck the wartime farm price program and bring inflation or actual shortages of vital foods.



Richard B. Russell.

The issue is whether wheat and corn prices should be held down to about present levels to stimulate production of meat, dairy, and poultry products.

The agriculture department contends this should be done and is endeavoring to give effect to its views by selling some of the government's stocks of surplus grains at about 85 per cent of parity prices. [Parity is a price calculated to give a commodity the same purchasing power it had in a past base period, and raising farm prices to that level has been the aim of the crop control programs.]

Expect Farmer Protest.

Disagreeing, the house wrote into the agriculture department appropriation bill a prohibition against sale of government-owned commodities at prices below parity. The question is to come up in the senate Monday, and word was passed around that delegations of grain farmers would appear here tomorrow to protest any change in the house ban.

Confronted with this situation, Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard appealed publicly today for support of his department's policy. In a radio address, he said farmers would buy grain and expand feeding operations only so long as feed prices bore a favorable ratio to prices of hogs, cattle, milk, and eggs. If feed prices were at parity or higher, present price ceilings for meat products would not provide a favorable ratio, he said, adding:

"If feed prices rise as the result of restrictions put on the sale of corn and wheat, we will either have to risk inflation by breaking the price control structure or have to risk putting our soldiers abroad, our allies, and our own people on short rations."

Then Conference Is Called.

Then, late in the day, Mr. Roosevelt held his conference at the White House, a meeting which Sen. Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.] said afterward produced "no definite agreement," but ranged in discussion over "this whole idea of the disposition of these surplus commodities."

Russell said there was only a casual mention, and that not by the President, of the question of stabilizing farm prices, a step Mr. Roosevelt recommended as part of his anti-inflation program. This recommendation asks that congress amend the price control law so that ceilings could be placed on farm prices at 100 per cent of parity. The law now forbids a ceiling lower than 110 per cent.

100 COMPANIES HOLD ABOUT 76% OF WAR SUPPLIES CONTRACTS

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—One hundred corporations hold about 76 per cent of all the war supplies contracts of $50,000 or more, the War Production board said today. Indicating, however, that primary contracts are being spread more broadly than before Pearl Harbor, WPB reported that as of the end of September, 1941, the same 100 companies had approximately 82 per cent of the contracts.

Comparable figures as of May, 1941, were not available for the entire 100, WPB said, but comparisons for 60 companies showed that at the end of May, 1941; September, 1941, and February, 1942, respectively, the percentage of contracts held by the top companies was about 75, 76, and 69 per cent.

Four companies, holding contracts totaling more than a billion dollars, have about 21 per cent of the contracts. Twenty-eight hold more than half of the contracts.

ASSEMBLY LINES SLOW TO HALT IN WASHER PLANTS

Assembly lines in 30 household washer and ironer plants from Iowa to Connecticut slowed to a halt yesterday as the industry abandoned civilian production for the duration of the war. Yesterday was the final day for peacetime manufacturing under a government conversion order which brought the industry to a stop after a 1941 record output of 2,400,000 washers and ironers.

Most of the members of the industry are participating to some extent in filling a $12,900,000 war department order for machine gun mounts which was awarded last November.

John M. Wicht, Bridgeport, Conn., president of the American Washer and Ironer Manufacturers' association, said the war orders given the various manufacturers account for a relatively small part of plant capacity and that almost complete tooling or retooling has been required since washer and ironer manufacture is largely assembling operations. Various companies are seeking independent war contracts, he said.

BUTTER AND EGGS AT PEAKS FOR MAY SINCE 1929

Wholesale butter and egg markets advanced yesterday to the highest mid-May levels since 1929. Best butter gained ¼ cent a pound to 37¼ cents, or about 12 cents higher than the average May price of the last 10 years.

Farm run eggs rose ¼ cent and best eggs sold at 29½ cents a dozen, equaling the mid-May, 1929, level, and more than 9 cents above the 10 year average May price, according to mercantile exchange figures.

Butter and egg futures held in a narrow range on the exchange, with all active deliveries closing unchanged.

SEC Stands Pat on Integration of Big Utility

Philadelphia, Pa., May 15 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission declared today that "at a time when efficient service and expansion of power facilities are vital to the war effort, it is clearly contrary to the public interest to allow substantial conflicts to exist between the consumer and the dominating company" of utility systems.

The statement, which in effect reaffirmed the commission's determination to continue strict enforcement of the "death sentence" clause of the holding company act for duration of the war, was made in an opinion denying the Commonwealth and Southern corporation a rehearing on an SEC order directing the vast utility system to reduce its capitalization to a single class of common stock. The order was issued April 9.

Contention of Company.

The billion dollar holding company had asked for a rehearing on grounds that "the public interest requires that the time and effort" of the corporation and its subsidiaries be devoted to war and the business of supplying war industries rather than to the complex problems and extensive hearings necessary under the order. Commonwealth also contended that recapitalization "is not necessary to the proper operation of such business by respondent's subsidiaries."

"These arguments," the SEC said, "raise squarely an issue which is of paramount importance to the power industry at this time, namely, whether compliance with the statutory mandate of section 11 [B] of the act is necessary and desirable as an integral part of the national war effort, or whether it is inconsistent therewith.

"No Doubt as to Answer."

"We have no doubt or reservation as to the answer, expressed in our recent report to congress that 'the present emergency and the need for rapid expansion of the nation's war resources have served to reinforce the desirability of a rapid compliance with section 11.'

"It is clear and we have found on the basis of convincing evidence that Commonwealth's corporate structure is sorely in need of revision. In its present form, it constitutes a threat to operating utility subsidiaries, their investors and consumers, and to the public generally, as well as to the interests of Commonwealth's own security holders.

"If the way is to be opened for efficient expansion of power facilities and service on the part of the operating companies in aid of the national emergency, a necessary step in that direction is the clearing away of financial impediments to the system arising out of the parent company's constant need of revenues to support its own top heavy capital structure and fixed dividend requirements."

'LITTLE STEEL'S' HEARING BEFORE WLB PANEL ENDS

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—Hearings in the "little steel" case, involving 182,000 employés of the Republic Steel corporation, Bethlehem Steel company, Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, and Inland Steel company, ended today before a fact finding panel of the WLB. The Steel Workers' Organizing committee has asked for a union shop, check-off, $1 a day wage increase, and a minimum daily wage guarantee.

Officials said that after the panel drafts a report of its findings it will be submitted to the WLB for a decision.

The hearings before the panel has been behind closed doors, but WLB said that a public hearing would be held before the final decision is made by the board.

DISCLOSE VAST BULLET OUTPUT OF GREAT PLANT

Part of Production Process Revealed.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 15.—From the outside, the more than 300 neat brick buildings scattered over the skinned and graded yellow clay that was hilly pasture land in the St. Louis area only months ago, appears to be a new federal housing project. And that appearance is not too deceptive because the buildings are federally owned, but they house "the biggest small arms ammunition plant in the entire world."

This estimate and quotation come from officers of the Western Cartridge company who operate the plant for the government. They cannot divulge total production figures, but estimate that this great plant is producing well over half the total amount of small arms ammunition made in the nation. They also say two days' production there equals one day's production of small arms ammuntion for all United States sources at their peak delivery in World War I.

First Public Disclosure.

How such production was accomplished was disclosed for the first time publicly when the group of newspaper men and army officials surveying the nation's war industries under the guidance of the National Manufacturers' association, visited the arsenal. But not even this group was permitted to see all the secrets of the making and loading of the bullets that must win the war.

Led by the plant's general manager, the party entered a building of unit No. 1. This is a typical fabricating building of which there are many here. Each fabricating building has matching, loading, and other auxiliary structures, and two entire plants are enclosed within the high, strongly guarded cyclone fence, topped with barbed wire, that surrounds the remote tract.

Pointing to the enormous piles of coiled brass and copper strip metal at the receiving entrance, the manager explained that the layout of each building is virtually "ideal" for its purpose. The piles of strip are fed, coil by coil, into endless batteries of stamping and forming machines, operated in about equal numbers by men and women in neat brown uniform dresses. They perform identical tasks, he said, and are paid equally.

Watch Making a Bullet.

Following one roll of copper strip, visitors watched the making of a bullet that eventually will be fired against axis troops or planes. The first operation was the punching of a cupped bit of metal from the flat strip. These "cups" poured out of each machine like rain, were collected in buckets and lifted across the aisle to a heating treating furnace where they were raised to high temperatures to relieve crystaline stresses raised by the beating of the machine.

Next the cups go on to another battery of punching machines. At a rate of more than one to the second

CURB IN SHIPPING GRAINS ON LAKES PUT INTO EFFECT

Permit Will Allow Traffic; Rail Embargo Seen.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Shipment of grain over the Great Lakes except by special permit came to an end yesterday for the duration of the war. Thus the first of two major federal wartime restrictions expected to limit grain movement went into effect.

The second, which is expected shortly, is a federal embargo on the movement of grain by rail to major terminal markets. Under a program discussed by grain trade representatives and federal officials in Kansas City early this week, grain would be permitted to move by rail only when storage space was available.

View of ODT Officials.

Office of Defense Transportation officials in Chicago said they expect to permit as much grain to move by lake this year as last, when lake shipments from Chicago aggregated slightly over 26 million bushels, the smallest movement in many years.

Chicago ODT officials said the grain permit system is still in the formative stage, but it is believed the principal office for control of lake shipments will be in Cleveland.

The grain transportation situation, the shortage of storage space, and the congressional squabble over price control for sale of government owned grain halted advancing grain prices on the Board of Trade early yesterday and instigated selling that resulted in a fractional decline.

Wheat Prices Down.

Wheat closed ½ to ⅝ cent lower with July at $1.23 a bushel. Corn was off ⅛ to ¼ cent. Oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower. Heavy liquidation resulted in a 1⅛ to 1½ cent decline in the rye pit. Soy beans closed ⅝ to 1⅜ cents lower.

The Board of Trade reported that lard stocks in Chicago on May 14 were about the smallest on record for this time of year. They reported 41,383,000 pounds in local warehouses, against 49,844,000 the first of the month and 186,015,000 on May 14, 1941. The reduction of 8,460,000 pounds in stocks in the last two weeks was a record, provision men said.

GOVERNMENT SEEKS BIDS ON GRAIN BINS FOR WHEAT DELUGE

Washington, D. C., May 15 (AP).—The agricultural department asked for bids today on bins for storage of 100 million bushels of surplus wheat in the midwestern and far western wheat producing areas.

Bins with an individual capacity of from 1,000 to 2,400 bushels were sought. They may be prefabricated or precut and made from lumber or other materials.

The bins will be used for storing wheat farmers are expected to deliver to the department in repayment of crop loans. Officials said some may be made available to farmers unable to make other arrangements for storage of this year's crop.

Plan Shift of Bins.

Topeka, Kas., May 15 (AP).—Movement from Iowa to Kansas of 2,000 truckloads of storage bins, enough to store 15 million bushels of wheat, will be undertaken next week to ease the grain storage problem in this state.

RETAIL SPENDING STEADY, BUT LESS GOODS ARE SOLD

New York, May 15 (AP).—Americans are spending about as much money as they did last year, but are getting less merchandise, Dun & Bradstreet's weekly trade review indicated today.

"Retail dollar sales on average were estimated approximately equal to volume in the corresponding week of 1941," the review said. "Since the price rise over the period ranged close to 15 per cent, this comparison represented a rather sharp decline in physical volume."

Loss of sales of automobiles, tires, typewriters, and several other high price items began to reflect in retail sales totals, the report said, as forward buying showed.

The decline in anticipatory buying contrasted with an upward trend in sales of quality goods.

Day by Day on the Farm

By GAIL COMPTON

Rains Speed Garden.

RECENT rains, followed by hours of hot sunlight, have transformed the war garden at the farm from a blank space of dark earth to a plot filled with feathery rows of green sprouts.

The war garden plot is 25x50 feet and is designed to fit most backyards. It is planted with many varieties of vegetables especially chosen for their palatability and vitamin content. The harvest from the patch will feed a family of five persons for a growing season of 120 days and also leave an excess for winter storage.

In the four rows devoted to sweet corn there is activity in only one row. In this row the young stalks have popped out of the ground and each seedling has three leaves. The rest of the rows have not yet germinated. The variety of corn planted consisted of a mixture of hybrids, all with different maturity dates. Thus at one planting the garden will have sweet corn coming ripe at spaced intervals. The row of corn that is up already is the earliest of the four different strains used. The others should appear within the next week.

The broccoli is up also and the tiny leaves form a scraggly pattern against the black soil. The cabbage seed has come thru in good order and the leaves are showing at the surface of the ground. The kale also is beginning to come up.

Collards Grow Rapidly.

The collards are proving the most rapid growers and are the farthest along of any of the garden plants. The plants are almost an inch above the ground and are growing rapidly under the stimulus of plenty of moisture and sunshine.

The row of chard is discernible only as a sprinkling of tiny green leaves that seem to be resting on the top of the ground. The onion sets are well along and the bright green shoots are five inches tall. These, of course, have a head start over the other plants.

The parsley and lettuce are up enough so that the green leaves define each row. The young turnip seedlings are the thickest and their dark green leaves are the size of a nickel. The row of kohlrabi is barely showing as is the row of carrots. The peas are making a sturdy growth. The bush beans are a little spotty, but where they are up they have made a strong growth.

Seeds from Ecuador.

The gardener has received from Quito, Ecuador, some unusual seeds which he intends to sow in the greenhouse. The seeds were sent by the Pan-American society of Quito. In the collection are the seeds of the native passion flower, which is one of the most beautiful flowers of the region. There also are seeds of the so-called soap plant, whose fruit the natives use for washing, for it makes an excellent lather. Seeds of the Achiote plant also were included. This plant puts out a red berry used by the natives for a clothes dye.

While the flower and vegetable gardens are putting out their products as rapidly as they can, the fields are producing a heavy crop of the wild mustard weed. While decorative and pretty when seen from a distance, the wild mustard is a nuisance and threatens the productivity of the fields. Several of the farm workers have been pulling the weeds by hand in the smaller fields.

'HOPPERS THRIVING.

The grasshopper is expected to be most troublesome this year in the Red River valley in the Dakotas, in the panhandle areas of Texas and Oklahoma, and southwestern Kansas, according to S. A. Rohwer, assistant chief of the department of agriculture bureau of entomology and plant quarantine.

they are elongated and take on the first resemblance of the cartridge case. Another heat bath and another punching, and they are the proper shape and size. Still a third heat bath follows, then the "cartridge blanks" are fed into machines by the heaping wheel barrow full. These machines, operating with lightning speed, form the open end of the cartridge to receive the bullet slug, cut a rim of metal from the base to bring it down to size, and punch a hole there for the primer or firing cap.

Goes to Loading Houses.

From this point, the cartridge cases go to special loading houses protected on all sides by high concrete walls. It is in these houses that one day's supply of powder is kept. So carefully have all arrangements for its handling been made, however, that there have been no severe casualties and no destructive explosions, it was said.

Copper cups, stamped out exactly like the brass, were flowing down another side of the factory. These were elongated, heat treated, and shaped to become the copper jackets used on all service rifle and machine gun slugs. The jacket is put over a machined and balanced steel core. Copper is used because it is softer than rifling in gun barrels. The hard steel core if fired without the covering would soon wear out the weapons.

The manager explained that three types of ammunition are made—ball, which is the usual pointed slug; tracer, which has a chemical in its base that leaves a smoke trail in flight, and armor piercing which is specially hardened to penetrate steel plates. No difference in the manufacturing of the three is apparent until the copper jackets are put on the cores. The tracer has a pocket in its base for the chemical and the armor piercing has special heat treatment.

Apparatus Is Secret.

All loading apparatus is secret and well removed from the machine shops. The machined parts go over by the hundreds of thousands daily from each of a number of buildings and are loaded and capped with the slugs at exactly the rate they are machined. Capacity of the plants becomes apparent with the sight of the enormous vats of cartridge parts found everywhere.

Packaging rooms are filled to the roof with neat 150 pound boxes of the bullets, each designated by color stripes and printed instructions which describe its contents. Girls weigh and measure the dimensions of each single cartridge before the final boxing. As a final check on the accuracy of manufacture, cartridges taken at random from varying batches are fired in test houses where their velocity, the time required for firing [interval between hitting of the gun's firing hammer and the departure of the slug from the gun's barrel], accuracy, etc., are recorded.

Cores Made by Another Firm.

The steel cores used in the arsenal were cut, machined, weighed, and heat treated on the arsenal grounds in a plant operated by the McQuay-Norris company under separate contract with the government. The McQuay-Norris shop, mostly manned by women, has under its roof the largest collection of screw machines in the world, and not only matches the total shell production of this arsenal but also supplies cores in several calibers to other government small arms loading depots.

The manager said that production in his two plants is still rising rapidly. Plant No. 1 started in March, 1941, delivered its first cartridges only a few months ago. Plant No. 2 is producing, but not yet finished.

CHERRY-BURRELL SWITCH INTO WAR WORK UNDER WAY

Six Months' Profit Dips Below Year Ago.

Cherry-Burrell corporation, Chicago manufacturer of dairy equipment, has much to accomplish before its armament activity is in full swing, but the switch to war production already is "well under way," W. L. Cherry, president, said yesterday in a report for the six months ended April 30, first half of the company's fiscal year.

The report showed net earnings dropped slightly to $326,220, equal to 65 cents a share, compared with $363,379, or 74 cents a share, in the corresponding period a year ago, as provision for federal and Canadian taxes increased from $103,800 to $305,500. Net sales for the period were $7,002,246, against $5,916,554 a year earlier.

Extra Shifts Added.

In expanding armament activity, Cherry said, second and third shift operations have been added in certain departments and many employés have been given special training and transferred to armament work. The backlog of orders is large, he reported, and numerous additional contracts are being negotiated.

Cherry said about half the company's present business consists of jobbing supplies used in operation of dairy plants. He said the company is coöperating fully with customers in seeking most efficient upkeep of machinery, since wartime restrictions are limiting available new dairy equipment.

In a statement accompanying the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation's quarterly report, Philip G. Gossler, chairman, and Edward Reynolds, president, expressed hope that pending tax legislation will be adjusted to give relief to the public utility industry. They asserted the public regulation to which the industry already is subjected is designed to prevent excess profits.

Columbia Profit Falls.

Profit of Columbia dropped to $2,545,988, or 7 cents a share, in the March quarter from $5,442,785, or 31 cents a share, in the first three months last year, after providing for taxes at an overall rate 30 per cent higher than required by the 1941 revenue act.

Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation, in a report for the 13 weeks ended March 28, showed a profit of $841,561, equal to 28 cents a share, after provision of $1,100,000 for reserve against foreign assets. In the corresponding 1941 period the company's earnings were $404,089, or 3 cents a share, after a foreign assets reserve of $350,000.

TAKE DOWN HAIR, PUT PIN METALS INTO GUNS—OEM

Agency Offers Consolation for Civilian Curbs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 15.—The Office for Emergency Management this afternoon consoled civilians by listing the arms that can be made from the iron and steel normally used for 400 familiar civilian products for which iron and steel have been banned after a 90 day tapering off period.

By eliminating the annual use of 8,000 tons of this metal in hair pins and bobby pins, for example, industry will have enough of this material to make 160,000 more .50 caliber machine guns.

Signs Will Become Tanks.

By banning metal for street and highway signs, there will be available 80,000 tons of steel a year, enough for 2,200 medium tanks or for the structural steel for four battleships.

Ice skates and roller skates normally used 12,500 tons of steel a year, enough for 2 million hand grenades, or for the hulls of two heavy cruisers. The 1,815 tons of hard steel that in 1941 was used for manicurists' instruments can make 61 medium tanks.

Tweezers = Blitz Buggies.

The manufacture of olackhead squeezers normally used 110,000 pounds of steel a year, the quantity needed for a thousand 3 inch trench mortars or 110 aerial bombs of 200 pounds each. The million pounds of steel formerly used annually for tweezers can make 277 half ton blitz buggies.

The peacetime production of fountain pens and mechanical pencils used 2,800 tons of steel a year, an amount that can produce 430,000 3 inch shells.

$500,250 ASKED BY CONTRACTOR IN SUBWAY SUIT

Suit for $500,250 damages was filed yesterday against the city by the Herlihy-Mid-Continent company on grounds of contract violation in subway construction. The company built the first section of the subway, from Illinois street to Delaware place. According to Attorneys William Crilly and T. A. Sheehan, the contract price was $2,750,000.

After work was started, however, the city imposed certain work conditions, not contained in the original contract, which carried the work three months over the 250 day time limit first set. The extra labor and other costs resulting cost the Herlihy company $500,250 above the contract price, Sheehan and Crilly said. The suit was the first of its kind in connection with the subway.

HEADS LEATHER GROUP.

H. G. Kates of New York was elected president of the Luggage and Leather Goods Manufacturers of America, meeting in New York. Others named included I. J. Lewis of Chicago; a vice president, and Paul Platt of Chicago, treasurer.
